ROBERTSON'S LATIN PHRASE BOOK having been long out of print and become scarce, many eminent teachers of the classics have expressed a desire to see a new and improved edition. That there was ample room for improvement is obvious on the slightest inspection of the old work. The English is obsolete, the arrangement confused, the order of printing such as to render it difficult for consultation or reference, the redundancies so numerous as to increase most unnecessarily and seriously the bulk of the volume, and much of the Latin drawn from barbarous sources. It has been the aim of the present editor to remedy these evils, and to render the work better adapted to the use of the Middle and Upper classes in our schools.

It is a peculiarity in this Phrase Book that it comprehends all previous publications on the subject: but the present edition has this advantage over its predecessors, that it is enriched with many hundred phrases which have hitherto been unrecorded, and these have been drawn from the purest fountains, by actual perusal; from Cicero, Tacitus, Terence, Plautus, &c.

Thus, while the size of the volume has been usefully diminished, its capacity for reference has been increased, and its value for purity considerably enhanced.

But while the editor is calling public attention to improvements already made, he would not be thought insensible to the necessity of future improvements, and will thankfully receive such animadversions as may render another edition still more useful.

The increasing attention paid to Latin Composition renders works of this description more important; and by the Lexicon Ciceronianum of Nizolius, and this improved edition of Robertson, the access to Latin peculiarities is made more easy and sure; for if correct Latinity were only to be acquired by an extensive and deep acquaintance with the various works of classic authors, it would be absolutely unattainable by any one in statu pupillari, and could scarcely be taught in our schools.

AFTER, coming before a noun, which is not the nominative case to a verb, is rendered by one of these prepositions, viz. a, ab, ex, post, sub.:

As, After breakfast; a jentaculo; Plaut. Long after the war; longe a temporibus belli. Presently after the funeral; statim a funere; Suet. He was a little after their time; recens ab illorum ætate fuit; Cic. Nor indeed did I go away any where after that day: nec vero usquam discedebam, ex eo die; Cic. After his death; post ejus mortem; Cic. Presently after that letter, yours was read; sub eas (scil. literas) statim recitatæ sunt tuæ. I am to be out of town after the Ides of January; futurus sum extra urbem, ex Idibus Januarii; Cic. The same things will come to pass after me which have been before me; eadem erunt hæc, post me, quæ ante me fuerunt; Sen.

Note; If place of dignity or office be expressed, then ex or post is to be used: as,

Cotta, presently After his consulship, went into Gaul; Cotta, statim ex consulatu, profectus est in Galliam; Cic. He was dead nine years after my consulship; mortuus erat novem annis post meum consulatum; Cic.

But if the noun be properly or primitively personal, there post is to be used, not ex: as,

Callicratides was admiral of the navy next After Lysander; Callicratides, præfectus classis proximus post Lysandrum fuit; Cic. That office of magistracy was first instituted many years after the Decemviri; magistratus ille multis annis post Decemviros erat institutus; Cic.

After, before a nominative case and its verb, is rendered by postquam, posteaquam, ubi, cum, and ut: as,

After I showed them your manners; postquam iis mores ostendi tuos; Ter. After I was gone in; postea quam introii; Ter. After he was come, he went to the consul; ubi is venit, consulem adiit; Liv. After we were set down; cum consedissemus. After I departed from you; ut abii abs te; Ter.—and in this construction, after may have that together with it: as, After that he had heard the cock crow; ubi galli cantum audiverat. After that he had saluted me, he immediately went to Rome; ut heri me salutavit, statim Romam profectus est; Cic.

Sometimes also it is rendered by an ablative case absolute: as,

After that the kings were driven out of the city; pulsis ex urbe regibus; Flor. After that many embassies had been sent in vain from both parties; multis legationibus nequicquam ultro citroque de pace missis; Liv.

After, following a noun of time, is rendered by the adverb post, and quam, if a verb follow it: as,

A few days After he fortified his camp; paucis post diebus castra communivit; Liv. Hannibal, the third day after he came thither, drew out his forces for a battle; Hannibal, tertio post die, quam venit, copias in aciem eduxit; Liv. An hour after they condemned Gabinius; hora post Gabinium condemnaverunt; Cic. Five days after you have gathered them; quinto die quam sustuleris; Colum.—thither also refer, tanto post; aliquanto post; paulo post; haud ita multo post; longo post tempore. The next three days after he was born; triduo proximo quam sit genitus. The third year after Cato had been censor; tertio anno quam Cato censor fuerat; Macrob. After forty days that we had come thither, we gained the city; post dies quadraginta, quam eo ventum est, oppido potiti sumus; Sal. The fourth day after that we had come to Britain; post diem quartum quam est in Britanniam ventum; Cæs. The next day after that he came to the legions; postridie quam ad legiones venit; Suet. The next day after that he had set sail from Brundusium; postero die quam a Brundusio solverat; Cic.

Note; After is not rendered by quam but when a verb follows it, which in the English has, or may have, that before it; and where quam is used, it is put for postquam: as, The fifth day After they had received answer from the senate; quinto die quam a senatu responsum accepissent; Liv. Seven years after he had been consul; septem annis postquam consul fuisset; Cic.

After, following a verb, is often part of the signification of that verb, and is included in the Latin verb itself: as,

For there the man gapes After your inheritance like a hungry wolf; nam illic homo tuam hæreditatem inhiat, quasi lupus esuriens; Plaut. Sic; They gape after my goods; bona mea inhiant; Plaut. He looks not after any thing to find fault with it; non inquirit quod reprehendat; Cic. (Seneca also has gazis inhians, in Her. Fur.)

AFTER, when it signifies according to, especially if it have after it any of these words, manner, sort, fashion, &c. is rendered by ad, de, in, or an ablative case of the manner, without a preposition: as, Make it after the same manner, that—; ad eundem modum facito, qui—; He calls him after his own name; suo dicit de nomine; Virg. After the fashion of a garden; in morem horti; Colum. After my own manner; meo modo; Plaut. He raised money after Pompey's manner; descripsit pecuniam ad Pompeii rationem; Cic. For she had hung her light hunting-bow upon her shoulders after the usual fashion; namque humeris, de more, habilem suspenderat arcum; Virg. When we had plentifully feasted after the Salian manner; cum opipare epulati essemus Saliarem in modum; Cic. In the mean time suffer me to live after my own custom; sine nunc meo me vivere interea modo; Ter. After or according to my ancient way of pleading; meo pristino more dicendi; Cic.

AFTER, referring to proximity of degree, order, or succession, is rendered by juxta, proxime, secundum, and sub: as,

Nigidius is a man, as I think, the most learned next after Varro himself; Nigidius homo, ut ego arbitror, juxta Varronem doctissimus; Gell. He is the wisest of men, who readily apprehends what is needful to be done; and he comes next after him, who accommodates himself to the good invention of another; sapientissimus est, cui quod opus sit, ipsi in mentem veniat, proxime accedit, qui alterius bene inventis se temperat; Cic. Next after converse with you, there is nothing more esteemed by me than solitude itself; secundum te, nihil est mihi amicitius solitudine; Cic. After that the horse had done fighting, then the foot began to fight; sub equestris finem certaminis, coorta est pugna peditum; Liv. Next after God it is in your power; juxta Deos in tua manu est; Tac. Next after these they are dear who follow your studies; proxime hos chari, qui studiorum tuorum sunt æmuli; Cic. Next after his brother he attributed most to them; quibus ille secundum fratrem plurimum tribuebat; Cic. Your letters were read presently after those; sub eas [literas] statim recitatæ sunt tuæ; Cic. He was a little after his time; erat paulo ætate posterior; Cic. The next day after he had killed him; proximo die quo eum interemerat. It was not long after; haud ita multum interim temporis fuit; Liv. In the mean while, and that but a little while after he came; interim neque ita longo intervallo ille venit; Cic. To think on one thing after another; aliam rem ex alia cogitare; Ter. One after another, i. e. in order; ex ordine; Cic. They were after their time; inferiores erant quam illorum ætas; Cic. An hour after; interposito unius horæ spatio; Colum. To wait day after day; diem de die exspectare; Cic. A little after; brevi post tempore; postea aliquanto; Cic. He staid there the next day after; ibi diem posterum commoratus est; Cic. Then he walked on the shore, after that into the bath; inde ambulavit in littore, posthæc in balneum; Cic.

We put off the discourse till AFTERWARDS; in posterum distulimus sermonem; Cic. To have a foresight of what will follow afterwards; in posterum prospicere; Cic. We will consider of these things afterwards; posterius ista videbimus; Cic. They will have cause to rejoice afterwards; fiet, ut postmodo gaudeant; Liv. Some while after; interjecto deinde tempore.

AFTER is sometimes put for afterwards; after that time, or from thenceforward; and then it is rendered by exinde or postea: as, I saw her but once, and I never saw her afterwards; illam ut primum vidi, nunquam vidi postea; Plaut.—and sometimes also by post: as, At first indeed of my own accord, but afterwards by your intimation, I thought fit to send—; ut initio mea sponte, post autem invitatu tuo, mittendum duxerim—; Cic.—and sometimes also by posterius; as, Vos priores esse oportet, nos posterius dicere; ye are to speak first, and we afterwards.

After, being an adjective, is rendered by posterior, inferior: as, Ætate posterior; vel, inferior, &c. vide supra. After, i. e. behind, is rendered by pone, a tergo; vel, post tergum; and so post templum.

One After another; alternus, alternatim, invicem, ex ordine.

Afternoon; post meridiem.

The Afternoon; tempus pomeridianum vel postmeridianum.

After the same sort as; quemadmodum.

AGAIN; iterum, denuo, rursus, rursum, de integro, ex integro, ab integro, iterato, secundo.

As if the commons were Again to be called to the Aventine hill; ut rursus plebs in Aventinum se-vocanda videatur; Cic. I seem to myself to be born again, because I have found thee; iterum mihi recens videor natus, quod te reperi; Plaut. Plays not worth reading over again; fabulæ non satis dignæ, quæ iterum legantur; Cic. When they had lifted up themselves again; cum se rursus extulissent; Flor. A little after he went in again; haud multo post recepit se intro denuo; Ter. To fall sick again; de integro incidere in morbum; Cic.

Again sometimes signifies the same as back; viz. after verbs signifying, to come, call, fetch, bring, &c. And it is mostly implied in the verb compounded with re: as, He wrote to me again; is ad me rescripsit. I come again to what I wrote in the beginning; redeo ad illud quod initio scripsi; Cic. I do not require again those things that were by violence taken from me; quæ per vim erepta mihi sunt, non repeto; Cic. Ye are they who chiefly called me back again; vos estis, qui maxime me repetistis, atque revocastis; Cic.

Note; The use of Again in English, and of iterum in Latin, for, the second time, is elegant: as, I named him again, and the third time; iterum, ac tertio nominavi; Cic. He was twice preserved by me, once alone and apart, but again with all of them; bis a me servatus est, separatim semel, iterum, cum universis.

Again sometimes is put for hereafter; and then it is rendered by post, posthac, or, postea: as, Care is to be taken that such a thing should never happen again hereafter; id ne unquam posthac accidere possit, providendum est; Cic. If ever I find you again in this street; si in platea hac te offendero post unquam; Ter. If ever he do so again; si unquam posthac; Cic. Whom I had never seen before, nor should ever see again; quem ego nunquam ante videram, nec eram postea visurus; Liv.

Again sometimes notes doing a thing by course, and in a way of correspondency to some other thing that is done, and then is rendered by contra, invicem, and vicissim; also by mutuus and mutuo: as, If she shall commend his beauty, do you again commend hers; si laudabit hæc illius formam, tu hujus contra; Cic. Now you have the affairs of the city, do you again write what is done in the country; habes res urbanas; invicem rusticas scribe; Plin. What is just, is honest; and again, what is honest, is just; quod justum est, honestum est; vicissimque quod honestum est, justum est; Cic. Your love to me again; tuus erga me mutuus amor; Cic. But I knew what he meant; and again, he perceived what I thought; sic et ego quid ille, et contra, ille, quid ego sentirem, videbat; Cic. At last, let Italy have a little rest, which has been so long in trouble; and let Africa again be destroyed by fire and sword; requiescat aliquando tamdiu vexata Italia; uratur, vasteturque invicem Africa; Liv. Ye are scoffed at by him, and again, ye yourselves mock him; vos ab illo irridemini, et ipsi illum vicissim eluditis; Cic.

Again and again is rendered by iterum or etiam repeated with a conjunction: as, I beseech you again and again; te etiam atque etiam rogo; Cic. So in Virg. prædicam, et repetens iterumque iterumque monebo; Æn. 3. It thunders again and again; iterum atque iterum fragor intonat ingens; Virg. Consider again and again; etiam atque etiam cogita; Ter.

Some other phrases.

As big again; altero tanto major; Cic. If ever he offend again; noxam si aliam unquam admiserit ullam; Ter.

A vitiis se abducere, continere; pœnitentia duci, tangi; peccatorum pœnitentiam agere; vetus vitæ genus exuere; vitæ castigationis propositum sumere; emendatius vivere; ad salubriora consilia animum appellere; benefactis pensare delictum; per egregia facta culpam compensare; ad virtutis tramitem se recipere; ab erroribus teterrimis se revocare; in rationis gyrum se reducere.

All your ill fortune, wisdom and solid resolution, or valiant courage, will easily Amend or remedy; damnum a fortuna compensat virtus. Quod a fortuna damnum accepisti, tulisti, resarciet, compensabit virtus; medebitur iis malis virtus; quo te fortuna conjecit, quibus te afflixit fortuna, quibus te calamitatibus implicavit fortuna, iis te virtus expediet; ut acerbam fortunam sensisti, ita dulcem, ac suavem virtutem experieris; quantum detrimenti, incommodi, calamitatis, malorum a fortuna tulisti, tantos a virtute, atque adeo majores fructus capies, percipies, feres, colliges.

To make Amends for damages; pensare, rependere, restituere, resarcire damna.

To bring one to Amendment; ad sanitatem animi aliquem reducere.

AMISS; pravus, non rectus, malus, vitiosus; incommodus. adverb: prave, male, vitiose; perperam, minus recte, enormiter, mendose.

To do Amiss; delinquere, peccare, offendere, titubare, labi, errare.

Not much Amiss; non incommode. If we have done any thing amiss; si quid est peccatum a nobis; Ter. You judge amiss of these things; hæc male judicas; Ter. It will not be amiss to look; non erit alienum videre. It is not amiss for you, to—; non ab re est, ut—. If you do never so little amiss; si tantulum peccasses; Plaut. They examine what is done amiss; quid peccatum sit exquirunt; Cic. They do amiss in that—; in eo peccant—; Cic. They do amiss; delictum in se admittere; Ter.

If any thing fall Amiss or otherwise than well; si quid præter spem evenerit; si quid præter animi sententiam contigerit; si quid humanitus exciderit. Si quid aliter atque ego sensi, aut speravi, ceciderit. Si quid mali mihi cadat; si quid incommodi, sive adversi, eveniat.

I am grieved that this hath fallen out so much Amiss; doleo hoc sic præter votum, imo contra votum, accidisse. Nothing else could fall out so much amiss for my grief; aliud nihil, ad dolorem acerbius meum potuit excidere. This did not fall out amiss by my will; id non, ex voluntate mea, male accidit.

AMONG, when it has not from before it, is generally rendered by inter; yet sometimes by in, and apud: as, Hortensius, in that thing, was much the better amongst all his equals; Hortensius, hac in re, suos inter æquales longe præstitit; Cic. I never thought that money should be reckoned among the best or chief good things; nunquam ego pecunias in bonis, seu optimis rebus, esse numerandas duxi; Cic. It was questioned among our ancestors, whether—&c.; quæsitum est apud majores nostros, num—&c.; Cic. I know these things are said among the Greeks; non sum nescius ista inter Græcos dici solere; Cic. He is not to be reckoned among great men; hic in magnis viris non est habendus; Cic. Hence there grew many great discords among the Athenians; hinc, apud Athenienses, magnæ discordiæ ortæ; Cic.

Note; Among is chiefly rendered by in, and apud, where consociation is signified; but scarcely or not at all where division, or partition: as, for, They did divide among themselves; partiuntur inter se is in Cicero, and inter se diviserunt is in Livy: but, partiuntur apud se, or in se, and apud se or in se diviserunt, or any thing like it, is scarcely to be found.

Among, when it has from before it, is rendered by e or ex: as, He made choice of the very chief of all from among the most splendid orders or degrees of the senators; delegit, e florentissimis senatorum ordinibus, ipsa lumina; Cic. If ye, from among all the people, had the power of choice or election; si vobis, ex omni populo, delegendi potestas esset. And so Among is rendered when it stands for of, or out of; or when it any way notes selection or pre-eminency: as, He trusted most to him of all among, or of, the other Gauls; ei, ex aliis omnibus Gallis, maximam fidem habebat; Cæs. I thought that only should not be done among all the others, which he had commanded; id solum, ex his omnibus quæ imperasset, non faciendum esse censebam; Curt. Whom alone you had chosen out from among all; quem unum ex cunctis delegissetis; Cic. They are not liked among the common sort; non sane probantur in vulgus; Cic. He was like to have been lost among them; pene harum ipsiusque opera periit; Ter. To put among the Gods; reponere in Deos. Among friends all things are common; communia sunt amicorum inter se omnia. He was accounted or esteemed among the chief ornaments of the age; is, inter præcipua seculi ornamenta, ponebatur. We know ourselves among ourselves; novimus nos inter nos. They fight among themselves with their horns; inter se cornibus pugnant. Let us play among ourselves; inter nos ludamus; Plaut. To speak among themselves; inter se loqui. Speak well one of another among yourselves; inter vos bene dicatis; Plaut.

To AMOUNT to, as in reckoning; crescere, exurgere, valere. The sum amounts to thus much; summa huc redit.

What he said AMOUNTS to the same thing; quæ dixit, idem valent; Cic. It amounts to nothing; nihil valet.

ANCESTORS; antecessores, majores, parentes; priores, progenitores, patres, avi; procreatores, seniores; generis auctores; sui generis principes; superiorum memoriarum homines.

To imitate his ANCESTORS; majores, principes sui generis imitari, æmulari. Eniti esse majoribus quam simillimum. Majorum vestigiis inhærere, insistere. In majorum suorum stare vestigiis. Majorum famam satis rebus gestis, mores, vitam, res gestas imitatione exprimere, æquare. Se ad normam paternæ gloriæ, ad mores et consuetudinem majorum conformare, componere. Generi suo, gloriæ, nomini majorum, patrum respondere. Exemplaria suæ vitæ majores sibi ante oculos proponere. Paternæ laudis, gloriæ, virtutis, nobilitatis æmulum esse; vestigia feliciter persequi. Dignum se majoribus suis præstare. Domesticæ laudis amplitudinem tueri. Virtutem quam majores sui tanquam hæreditarem reliquerunt, retinere. Patrum vestigia implere. Patrum vestigia legere. Sapere patruos. Fortes creantur fortibus et bonis.

Unlike his ANCESTORS in manners; Degener.

To degenerate from, or to be unlike, his ANCESTORS; a virtute, gloria, gravitate patrum, parentum, majorum degenerare, desciscere, deficere. Gloriæ majorum segetem extirpare. Suis vitiis, turpitudine sua, domesticis sordibus dedecorare majores; lumen paternæ gloriæ tenebris offundere; paterno nomini ignominiam inurere; veteres majorum laudes obterere; dedecori esse majoribus suis; perennem fontem paternæ gloriæ exsiccare, exhaurire. Majorum familia, stirpe indignum se præbere. Gloriæ majorum non respondere. A via majorum deflectere. Hæreditatem paternæ virtutis, gloriæ amittere. Vestigia majorum deserere. A parentum vestigiis recedere, resilire. Laudis domesticæ oblivisci.

To excel his ANCESTORS in virtue and glory; obscuram majorum familiam sua virtute in lucem e tenebris vocare. Familiæ suæ dignitatem addere, augere. Posteris suis præbere virtutis exemplum et nobilitatis initium. Super titulos majorum scandere. Homo-novus, at veteribus suæ familiæ longe il-lustrior; non imaginibus majorum, sed virtutibus suis clarissimus.——Pennas nido majores extendere.

Our ANCESTORS thought it a great shame to lie; majoribus mentiri turpissimum fuit. Majorum nostrum ætate, tempestate, temporibus, quo seculo majores nostri vixerunt, mendacium probro fuit maximo, mendacium dicere res turpissima habebatur.

In our ANCESTORS' times truth was so much honored and esteemed, that liars were accounted the most base and unworthy of all others; apud majores nostros veritas ita colebatur, ut falsi homines pessime audirent.

Our ANCESTORS did much prefer and esteem virtue before riches; majores nostri divitias virtuti longe post ponebant. Majores nostri divitias virtuti postponebant; majores nostri divitias minimi putabant, unam virtutem sequebantur; apud majores nostros minima divitiarum, virtutis erat ratio maxima; nullo loco apud majores nostros divitiæ fuerunt, virtus una vigebat maxime; plurimum semper apud majores nostros virtus valuit; minimum divitiæ; opes in minimis ponebant; postremæ omnium rerum divitiæ illis erant; rem familiarem, quæque nos bona appellamus, parvi, minimi, nihili reputabant, ducebant, æstimabant, pendebant, faciebant, flocci faciebant, flocci non faciebant, (idem enim significatur, sive absit, sive adsit particula non); minimi erant apud majores nostros opes, minimi ponderis, nullo apud eos loco, parvi momenti; postremum apud eos locum opes obtinebant, de opibus minimum laborabant; divitias præ virtute contemnebant, infra virtutem ducebant, post virtutem habebant, virtute posteriores judicabant.

Our ANCESTORS, or forefathers: majores apud Romanos nominabantur parentes supra tritavum, qui speciale nomen non haberent, nempe post patris, præavi, abavi, atavi vocabulum: minores autem non dicimus, nisi quotiens deficit graduum nomen, ut filius, nepos, pronepos, abnepos, trinepos. Alias vero generaliter majores omnes appellantur, qui ante nos fuerunt, vel ante aliquot secula, licet nullo nobis sanguinis vinculo sint devincti.

In our ANCESTORS' age or memory, such villanies were never so much as heard of, far less acted and committed; nostrorum ætate aut memoria majorum hujusmodi scelera nunquam audita, nedum perpetrata, fuerunt.

An ANCHOR of a ship; anchora, æ, f.

An ANCIENT in war; antesignanus, signifer, vexillifer.

AND; et, ac, atque; que, autem, vero; tam, necnon.

And, coming next before not, and prohibiting an act following, is elegantly rendered by autem: as, You should relieve him, and not rail at him; oportet te hominem sublevare, non autem jurgiis adoriri. Note: and, in this sense, is put in English for but; and may be rendered by vero as well as autem; and in affirmations, as well as negations.

And, parted from its negative following, is elegantly expressed in Latin by nec or neque: as, Those stars are turned about the earth itself, and they do not return to the same place, not in a great many years afterwards; circa terram ipsam volutantur ista sidera, nec in hunc locum nisi multis exagitata seculis revertuntur; Cic. There was a time when men inhabited country villages, and scarcely had any town or city to dwell in; fuit tempus cum rura colerent homines, neque urbem ullam haberent. He begins again the old wars, and cannot be quiet; renovat pristina bella, nec potest quiescere; Cic. And do not you say, you were not told of this; neque tu hoc dicas, tibi non prædictum; Ter.

Note: ac and et may also in this sense be used: as, Bring home your wife, And do not oppose me; reduc uxorem, ac noli adversari mihi; Ter. This man if he agree with himself, and be not sometimes overcome with goodness of nature; hic, si sibi ipse consentiat et non interdum naturæ bonitate vincatur——; Cic.

And, coming before yet and therefore, may in Latin be omitted, having nothing for it but the Latin of those particles: as, The consul sees, and yet he lives; consul videt, hic tamen vivit; Cic. And therefore, while you have time, consider; proin tu, dum est tempus, cogita; Ter.

And, with if, many times has nothing more in Latin for it, than the word for if; sometimes it has quod: as, What and if ye shall see? quid igitur si videritis? But and if—; at si——.

Note: sometimes And alone is put for and if, (in this sense): as,

But And if you will not forgive; si autem non remiseritis. Not and if you would have killed me; non si me occidisses; Petron.

When And comes between two verbs active, there may be an elegant translation of them by putting a participle, instead of the former verb and the particle and: as, Whom his mother conceived and bore; quem mater conceptum genuit; Virg.

And, in most other cases, is to be translated by ac, atque, et necnon, que and tum: as in the following examples: Servitio premet; ac victis dominabitur Argis; Virg. Æn. 1. Etiam atque etiam cogita; Ter. Eun. i. 1. Sunt alii philosophi et hi quidem magni, qui——; Cic. 1. de Nat. Deor. Nunc te, Bacche, canam, nec non sylvestria tecum ——virgulta; Virg. Georg. 2. Tibi, ut debeo, gratulor lætorque; Cic. 2. Fam. 9. Lentulum nostrum cum ceteris artibus, tum in primis imitatione tui fac erudias; Cic. l. 1. Ep. 8.

And you and all; et te quoque etiam; Plaut. He had lost his faith and all; perdidisset fidem quoque; Quint. And why so? nam quid ita? quamobrem tandem? Ter. By little and little; paulatim; sensim; pedetentim; Cic. Now and then; nonnunquam; interdum; identidem; subinde.

To run up And down; sursum deorsum cursitare; Ter. Hither and thither; nunc huc, nunc illuc; Virg. Huc et illuc; Cic. I commend them and that deservedly; ego illos laudo, idque merito. And because; that, lest; simul quod; quia, ut ne; Cæs. Sal. Cic. Ter. How can we go out and not be seen? quomodo possumus egredi, ut non conspiciamur? Petron.

By a little dimness of sight I am forced to dictate this epistle, And not write it myself, as I use to do to you; parvula lippitudine adductus sum, ut dictarem hanc epistolam, et non, ut soleo, ad te ipse scriberem; Cic. That which you desire is done, and yet without any trouble to you; sine tuo labore, quod velis, actum est tamen; Plaut. And yet every one cannot be Scipio; nec tamen omnes possunt esse Scipiones; Cic. And yet every one cannot go to Corinth; nec tamen cuivis contingit adire Corinthum.

Whom the neighbours, or those who are next, did receive, And take into their camp; quem proximi exceptum in castra receperunt; Curt. He made me drunk, and put out my eye; me inebriatum excæcavit. And not long after;

neque ita longo intervallo. And not without cause; nec injuria. And you cannot but know it; nec clam te est. And yet why should I teach you this? quanquam te quidem quid hoc doceam? I suffer for my rashness; and yet what rashness was there in it? do pœnas temeritatis meæ; etsi quæ fuit illa temeritas? And yet they will not do that neither; neque tamen id facient.

And therefore, is rendered by proin, proinde: as, And therefore while you have time consider; proin tu, dum est tempus, cogita. And therefore be as courageous as the case requires; proinde, fac tantum animum habeas, quanto opus est. Indeed I already expected your letters, and that with many others; equidem jam expectabam tuas literas, idque cum multis aliis; Cic. Although, my son Marcus, you must needs be instructed with a great many precepts, since that you have heard Cratippus for above a year, and that at Athens; quanquam te, Marce fili, annum jam audientem Cratippum, idque Athenis, abundare oportet præceptis; Cic.

Without ifs or Ands; plane, absolute.

And so forth; et cætera, &c. Et quæ sequuntur.

As far as I am able; quod queo; Ter. With as honorable words as I can possibly conceive; ut honorificentissimis verbis ipse consequi potero; Cic. I will bring the physician as soon as may be; adducam medicum jam quantum potest; Plaut.

VII. As, redoubled with an adjective or adverb betwixt and the words it is, they be, &c. after it, is many times put for though, although, and rendered by quamlibet, or quamvis: as,

As rich as you are, he cares not a pin for you; non enim pili facit te; quamlibet divitem. As if it were any hard matter to me to name them, as many as they are; quasi vero mihi difficile sit, quamvis multos nominatim proferre; Cic.

Sometimes it is so put for howsoever, and rendered by quantuscunque, or quantuluscunque, if great or little come betwixt: as,

All this, as great as it is, is thine; totum hoc, quantumcunque est, tuum est; Cic. By this, which I say, as little as it is, it may be judged; ex eo, quod dico; quantulum idcunque est, judicari potest; Cic. That the fields manured may satisfy the husbandman, though as covetous as any; ut quamvis avido parerent arva colono; Virg. As little as may be; quamlibet parum; Quint. Nevertheless whatever shall be found in these schedules, as little soever as it may seem to be, this at least will certainly be evident; sed tamen quicquid erit in his libellis, quantulumcunque videbitur esse, hoc quidem certe manifestum erit; Cic. As great as my poverty is, yet—&c.; quanta hæc mea paupertas est, tamen—&c.; Ter.

VIII. As sometimes is put for, in this regard, or respect, and then it is rendered by ut, or qua: as, I will pursue him to death, not as a just enemy, but as a poisonous murderer; ad internecionem mihi persequendus est, non ut justus hostis; sed ut percussor veneficus; Curt. He is not valued as he is any man's son, but as he is a man; non qua filius alicujus, sed qua homo æstimatur. The right of punishing belongs to him, not as a creditor, but, as he is placed in greater or higher authority; jus puniendi non competit illi ut creditori, sed quatenus superior est constitutus; Liv.

IX. As sometimes signifies the same as accordingly as, or proportionably as, and then is rendered by ut, uti, sicut, ita ut, pro, prout, pro eo ac, pro eo atque, perinde ut, perinde atque, proinde ac: as for example: As I wrote to you before; ut scripsi ad te antea; Cic. The one, as Isocrates said, needs a bridle, the other a spur; alter, uti dixit Isocrates, frænis eget, alter calcaribus; Cic. He fled to his house as to an altar; sicut in aram, confugit in hujus domum; Cic. As it is fit; ita ut æquum est; Plaut. I loved him as my own; amavi pro meo; Ter. As they were able to follow; prout sequi poterant; Flor. As I ought; pro eo ac debui; Sulpit. It must be considered as done by no right; pro eo habendum est, atque si nullo jure factum esset. These things are, as is the mind of him that has them; hæc perinde sunt, ut illius animus, qui ea possidet; Ter. He did not seem to apprehend it, as I had thought; non perinde atque ego putaram, arripere visus est; Cic. He is not hated as he deserves; quem nequaquam, proinde ac dignus est, oderunt homines; Cic. The woman loved her, and brought her up as her own;

dilexit eam, et educavit mulier pro sua. It was a dish not so great as was expected; ferculum non pro expectatione magnum erat. First of all I ought to hope, that all the gods, who have the care of this city, will reward me as I deserve; primum debeo sperare, deos omnes, qui huic urbi præsident, pro eo mihi, ac mereor, relaturos esse gratiam; Cic. According as the abilities of such a man were; prout facultates hominis hujusmodi ferebant; Cic. He is now looked upon or esteemed as if he were fully and judicially acquitted; perinde habetur atque si judicio absolutus esset.

AT; ad, apud; in, with an abl.; de, penes, sub, inter, super, pro.

AT, of time, price, instrument, manner, or cause, is a sign commonly of the abl.: as, At that time; eo tempore. At a small charge; parvo. At a large rate; profusis sumptibus. To play at ball, bowls; ludere pila, globis. At first sight; primo aspectu. At one blow; uno ictu. At one's command or entreaty; jussu, rogatu. At a word; verbo. At my peril; meo periculo. At your pleasure; tuo arbitratu.

I. AT, relating to time or occasion, is rendered by ad and sub, or an ablative case of the substantive that it is joined with, sometimes without, sometimes with, a preposition: as,

We will depart AT the day appointed; ad constitutum diem decedemus; Cic. At the name of Thisbe he looked up; ad nomen Thisbes oculos erexit; Ovid. At the coming of the Roman prætor, Hannibal quitted the country of Nola; sub adventum prætoris Romani Pœnus agro Nolano excessit; Liv. At sun-set they gave over; sub occasum solis destiterunt; Cæs. At that time he held the chief command; eo tempore principatum obtinebat; Cæs. He went away at break of day; cum diluculo abiit; Plaut. When he did not furnish or bring in the corn which he owed at the time appointed; quando ille frumentum, quod debebat, ad diem non dedit; Cic. At those things the soldiers raised a shout; ad hæc, consentiens reddebatur militum clamor; Liv. Who at break of day entered the town through the open gates; qui, sub lucem, apertis portis urbis ingrederentur; Liv. He at the first appearance of light came to Pomponius's house; is, cum prima luce, Pomponii domum venit; Cic. The Helvetians were much moved at his sudden approach; Helvetii, repentino ejus adventu, commoti; Cæs. At the very name of Hector I always trembled; nomine in Hectoreo pallida semper eram; Ovid.

II. AT, referring to something said or done during some other thing or action, is rendered by in, inter, and super: as,

No longer since than yesterday AT the feast; vel heri in convivio; Ter. Had this befallen you at supper-time; si hoc tibi inter cœnam accidisset. His wickedness was the common talk of all at supper; de hujus nequitia in commune omnes super cœnam loquebantur; Plin. His friends were ashamed that a father-in-law should be chosen amongst the captives, at his wine and banquetting; pudebat amicos, super vinum et epulas, socerum ex deditis esse electum; Curt.

III. AT, relating to rate or value, is rendered by the ablative case of the word expressing that rate or value: as,

He lives AT great expense; profusis sumptibus vivit; Quint. They were provided at a small charge; parvo curata sunt; Cic.

But if the Latin substantive be not expressed, then may the adjective, after verbs of valuing and esteeming, &c. be of the genitive case: as,

They hold certain floors AT a great rate; areas quasdam magni æstimant; Cic. He sold the very same grain or corn twice, and that not at one and the same, but at double price; bis, neque uno, sed duobus preciis, unum et idem frumentum vendidit; Cic. When grain was sold at the price of two or three sestertia, or sesterces; cum esset frumentum sestertiis binis aut ternis; Cic. I had heard also that which you wrote, at what price gardens were let out or sold; de hortis, quanti licuisse tu scribis, id ego quoque audieram; Cic.

I am more BEHOLDEN to him than to any one; nemo est cujus officiis tam sum devinctus; Cic. I was not beholden to him at all; obligatus ei nihil eram; Cic. We are greatly beholden to them; illorum beneficiis maxime obligati sumus; Cic. He is beholden to me for his life; mihi vitam suam refert acceptam; Cic. You are beholden to both the consuls; quod utrisque consulibus gratias agas est; Cic. He was beholden to me for standing by him in his troubles; ille mihi debebat, quod non defueram ejus periculis; Cic. I do not mean to bring it to that, that we shall be beholden to your courtesy for our safety; non committam, ut vestro beneficio salvi esse possimus; Cic. I am little beholden to him; non optime de me meritus est; Cic. I am beholden to them; bene de me meriti sunt; Cic. He was beholden to his sword for his not being taken alive; ne veniret in potestatem a gladio suo impetraverat; Flor. We are beholden to them for our livelihood; illorum beneficio panem manducamus; Petron. I am very much beholden to him; ego illi plurimum debeo. I acknowlege myself to be beholden to you, (your debtor); multus sum fateor in ære tuo. I am infinitely bound and beholden to you, for this late and great favor; ex omnibus officiis, quæ tu plurima in me contulisti, hoc est longe gratissimum. I am so deeply beholden to you for this, that I shall live and die your debtor; item; hoc ego nomine plus tibi debeo, quam ut unquam solvendo esse queam; si beneficiorum momenta perpendam quibus tibi sum obligatus. I am so beholden to you, that I must never expect to requite so great kindness; non solum omnia debeo tua causa quæ possum, sed ea quoque quæ non possum; hoc tu beneficio arctius me tibi devinxisti, quam ut possim dissolvere; tantum illi debeo, quantum hominem homini fas est tribuere.

I must say you have been my benefactors, or that I have been beholden to you; istud ego vobis acceptum fero.

You have made me so much BEHOLDEN to you that I cannot tell how to be thankful enough; I am for ever your obliged friend and servant; obligatiorem me tibi reddidisti, quam ut nomen meum e diario possim unquam expungere; multis me nominibus tibi haud vulgariter devinctum esse agnosco libere; devinctiorem me tibi reddidisti, quam ut æs alienum possim resolvere: hisce me officiis æternum devinxeris—demerueris. I am infinitely beholden to you; infinitis ego nominibus tibi debeo. Infinitely beholden or engaged to him; irremunerabili illius beneficio pignoratus.

To be BEHOLDEN to other authors; aliorum auctorum fontes delibare. He is beholden to, and may thank his friends; ex aliorum fontibus suos hortos irrigavit. I am the most beholden to you, or you are the best friend I have in the world; non vitam modo debere tibi me, sed animam quoque fateor. I was beholden to, or had these passages out of, Tully; hos flores ex Ciceronis agris decerpsi. I give you hearty thanks for your good will to me, by which I am so well pleased that I account myself much beholden to you for it; habeo igitur gratiam de isto tuo erga me studio, quo hercule ita delector, ut me tibi hoc nomine plurimum debere putem. I am for ever beholden and obliged to you; tibi sum obstrictus memoria beneficii sempiterni. I am much beholden to you; in ære tuo sum. The which if ye will do, you will make me greatly beholden to you, as you have hitherto been tender in affection to me, like a father; quod si feceris, me, quem voluntate et necessitudine paterna semper habuisti, maximo beneficio devinctum habebis.

A BEING; natura, f.; &c.

I. BEING, coming between two casual words, the former whereof has some verb governing, or agreeing with it, has nothing rendered for it, but is only a sign of the apposition, or agreeing of these words in case: as,

My father BEING a man, loveth me a child; pater meus vir amat me puerum. They drive away the drones, being a sluggish cattle, from their hives; ignavum fucos pecus a præsepibus arcent; Virg. They, being born of mean parents, aim at high things; magna sibi proponunt obscuris orti parentibus; Cic. Riches, being the occasion of much mischief, are dug out of the earth; effodiuntur opes irritamenta malorum; Ov. 1. Met. The Gauls being repulsed with great loss take counsel what they should do; magno cum detrimento repulsi Galli, quid agant, consulunt; Cæs.

Note 1. If the former of the two words, between which BEING comes, have not a verb either preceding or following, that agrees with it, or governs it, then both the words are rendered by the ablative case absolute: as,

Gaul BEING quiet, Cæsar goes into Italy; quieta Gallia, Cæsar in Italiam proficiscitur; Cæs. Teucer being our captain, nothing is desperate; nil desperandum Teucro duce; Hor. But the duties and offices of the youth or young men being declared, now we must speak of beneficence to others; sed expositis adolescentum officiis, deinceps de beneficentia dicendum est; Cic.

Note 2. In expressions of this kind, the particle BEING answers to the Greek particle ὢν, or the Latin ens, formerly used, but now out of use, unless in the compounds of it, præsens, absens, &c., and may be rendered by existens; but the omission of it is more elegant, or the variation of it by a verb with qui or cum, as if for Ignavum fucos pecus, should be said,—qui sunt, or cum sint ignavum pecus: or for, lætor quod absens es consecutus, should be said,——quod cum esses absens——so Cicero, ille enim cum esset consul in Gallia, exoratus est—— For he being, i. e. while, or when he was, in Gaul—; Cic. de Sen.

Note 3. The ablative case absolute is governed of some preposition understood, viz. a, sub, cum, or in: as, Oppressa libertate patriæ [the country's liberty being oppressed] nihil est quod speremus amplius, id est, ab, id est, after, as we say, (a prandio, after dinner, &c.) oppressa libertate——So, Saturno rege [Saturn being king] id est, sub Saturno rege, or regnante, as Quintil. l. 5. c. 10. sub Alexandro. So Christo duce is cum Christo duce, or ducente; as in Greek we say, σὺν θεῷ. So, temporibusque malis [and the times being bad] ausus es esse bonus, id est, in temporibus malis. See Voss. de Construct. c. 49.

Note 4. The particle BEING in this sense may be rendered by a verb with some one of these particles, dum, cum, ubi, quando, si, postquam: as, Credo pudicitiam Saturno rege [id est, dum or quando Saturnus rex erat] moratam in terris; Juven. Arcadia judice [id est, si ipsa Arcadia judicet]; Virg. Ecl. 4. His rebus cognitis [id est, postquam res hæ cognitæ sunt]; vide Farnab. Syst. Gram. p. 78.

II. BEING sometimes denotes the essence or existence of a thing, and then it is rendered by essentia: as, Acting infers being; essentiam indicat operatio. Note, ens, essentia, and existentia, are words much used in theology and philosophy: rarely else- where; Quintil. l. 2. c. 14. Et hæc interpretatio non minus dura est, quam illa Plauti essentia atque entia; Id. l. 3. c. 6. οὐσία, quam Flavius essentiam vocat: neque sane aliud est ejus nomen Latinum; Sen. Ep. 58. Cupio si fieri potest propitiis auribus tuis essentiam dicere: sin minus, dicam et iratis: Ciceronem auctorem hujus verbi habeo, puto locupletem.—Rogo itaque permittas mihi hoc verbo uti; nihilominus dabo operam, ut jus a te datum parcissime exerceam: fortasse contentus ero mihi licere; Quintil. l. 8. c. 3.—Quorum dura quædam admodum videntur ens et essentia; quæ cur tantopere aspernemur, nihil video, nisi quod iniqui judices adversus nos sumus, ideoque paupertate sermonis laboramus.

III. BEING sometimes signifies presence in a place, and is rendered by præsentia: as,

That my BEING here may not be any hindrance, but that—; ne me præsentia obstet, quin—; Ter. Your being here prevents the doing of these things; ea facere prohibet tua præsentia; Ter.

IV. BEING, before the English of the infinitive mood, is a sign that the word following is to be rendered by a participle in rus: as,

If one BEING to plead a cause do think with himself—; siquis causam acturus secum meditetur—; Cic. Cæsar being to come, I wish I could see the day; Cæsare venturo, Phosphore, redde diem; Mart.

V. BEING, with a participle of the præter tense coming after a verb importing hindrance, is rendered by a passive verb of the infinitive mood, or of the subjunctive mood with ne: as,

Winter kept the thing from BEING done; hyems rem geri [ne gereretur res] prohibuit; Cic. You both could and ought to have hindered that thing from being done; et potuisti prohibere ne id fieret, et debuisti; Cic.

VI. BEING, with a participle of the præter tense after the particle near, is rendered by a passive verb of the subjunctive mood with parum quin, or prope ut: as,

He was near BEING killed; parum abfuit quin occideretur. The left wing of the Romans was now near being routed—; jam prope erat ut sinistrum cornu pelleretur Romanis, ni—; Liv. There was very little between his living, and his being killed; propius nihil est factum quam ut occideretur; Cic. Appius overcame, and was very near being made Dictator; Appius vicit, ac prope fuit ut Dictator ille idem crearetur; Liv. The Roman commonwealth was very near being utterly undone, and destroyed; parum abfuit, quo minus Romana res funditus eversa periret; or, nec multum abfuit, quin—&c.; Liv.

VII. BEING, coming after these particles far, from, is rendered by ut, and a verb of the subjunctive mood: as, So far is death from being an evil, that—; tantum abest ab eo, ut malum mors sit—; Cic. To the which I am so far from being a hindrance, that on the contrary, O Manilius, I exhort and encourage you to it; cui ego rei tantum abest ut impedimento sim, ut contra te, Manili, adhorter; Liv.

VIII. AS BEING is rendered by utpote, or quippe: as, A people that may be numbered, as being small; populus numerabilis, utpote parvus; Hor. Democritus, as being a learned man, thinks the sun to be of a great compass; sol Democrito magnus videtur quippe homini erudito; Cic.

Note, If one that, &c. follow AS BEING, then the whole phrase is to be rendered by ut, utpote, or quippe, with qui: as,

AS BEING one who came to great sorrow by her death; ut ad quem summus mœror morte sua veniebat; Cic. His brother Lucius, as being one that had fought abroad, is the leading man; Lucius quidem frater ejus, utpote qui peregre depugnavit, familiam ducit; Cic. He knew you would, as being one that understood that you both reverenced and feared him; scibat facturos, quippe qui intellexerat vereri vos se, et metuere; Plaut.

Hither refer, ut, sometimes used alone for utpote, qui, &c.: as,

They say that he, AS BEING a furious man, did answer —, &c.; aiunt hominem, ut erat furiosus, respondisse; Cic. And so, scilicet: thus,

I, AS BEING a very wise man, presently understood what he was; ego, scilicet homo prudentissimus, statim intellexi, quid is esset; Petron.

IX. BEING, after certain adjectives, viz. no, good, ill, bad, safe, dangerous,

&c., is sometimes put for to be, and is rendered by esse, or some compound of it, which may be varied by a subjunctive mood, with quod, or ut: as,

There is no Being for me at Rome; non licet mihi esse Romæ; Cic. I believe it will be the safest being for you here; te hic tutissime fore puto; Pomp. Cic.

Note, If Being be put for living, dwelling, continuing, &c. then it will be better rendered by an impersonal passive. Nam hic manere diutius non potest; he can have no being [i. e. abiding] any longer here. In this time an honest man has but a most wretched being at Rome; hoc tempore bono viro Romæ esse miserrimum est; Cic.

Other phrases:

It is in Being; est in rerum natura. I do little good with being here; præsens promoveo parum; Ter. You need not trouble yourself with [at or about] his being gone; quod decesserit, non est quod commovearis. As to your being surety for Pompey —; quod sponsor es pro Pompeio; Cic. For in him we live, move, and have our being; in ipso enim vivimus, et movemur, et sumus; Hieron. His speech is yet in being; ipsius extat oratio; Cic. Do you think there will be any thing the fewer decrees of the senate, for my being at Naples? an minus multa senatus consulta futura putas, si ego sim Neapoli? Cic. So far was he from being covetous of money, that —; tantum abfuit a cupiditate pecuniæ, ut—; C. Nepos. They are now not in being; jam nusquam sunt;—in rebus humanis non sunt; nulli sunt; Cic. Do not think that after I am gone from you, I shall not be at all in being; nolite arbitrari me, cum a vobis discessero, nusquam aut nullum fore; Cic. I believe I shall not have any where any settled being; commoraturum me nusquam sane arbitror; Cic. A man that has no settled being; homo incerti laris. The two camps being so near the one to the other; in tanta propinquitate castrorum; Cæs.

The chief uses of Being may be expressed as follows:

I. A Being; ens, essentia. To be in being; esse in rerum natura, extare. One's being or abode; habitatio. To have no settled being; non habere commorandi locum, incerti laris. My being here; mea præsentia.

Being, i. e. to be: as, 'Tis good being here; bonum est esse hic. There is no being for me here; non licet mihi esse hic.

Being, before an infin. is a sign of the future in rus; as, Being to come; venturus.

Being, betwixt two nouns, is a sign of apposition, and that sometimes in the ablative case: as, Christ being my guide, I rule; Christo auspice regno.

This apposition is sometimes expressed by, As Being; quippe, utpote, or, As being one that; ut qui, utpote qui, quippe qui.

To keep from Being done; prohibere, impedire aliquid, ne fiat. It was near being done; parum abfuit quin fieret. I am so far from being; tantum abest ut sim.

To BELIEVE; credere, fidere, confidere; fidem habere vel adhibere; concedere; audire. Alicui credere, assentiri, fidem dare. Rei fidem, firmissimam fidem dare, habere, adhibere, tribuere, attribuere, addere, adjungere. Aliquid certa fide complecti: persuasum persuasissimum habere. Dicentis auctoritatem revereri. De fide, integritate auctoris non dubitare. Hanc opinionem imbiberunt. Certissima fide, argumentis indubitatis persuasum est mihi, adducor ut credam, ut non ambigam, ut mihi dubium non sit. Fidem dictis addere. Prona venit cupidis in sua vota fides.

Not to be Believed; incredibilis, fide absonus.

A person not to be Believed as a witness; intestabilis.

No way Believed; nequaquam creditus, nullatenus creditus.

More than any one will Believe; supra quam cuique credibile est; Sall. One would not believe (or, it is more than any will believe; or it is not to be believed;) credibile non est; Cic. incredibile est; Ter. Who will believe a word we say? quis habebit dicentibus fidem? Petron. If I may be believed; if you will believe me; si qua fides; Mart. Petron. I cannot believe any such thing; mihi quidem hercle non fit verisimile; Ter. I but made you believe, to the intent to try you; ea gratia simulavi, vos ut pertentarem; Ter. I believe she hardly knows me; illam me haud nosse credo; Ter. You shall never make me believe this tale; nunquam mihi fidem facias hujus fabulæ. To make one believe he is in fear; opinionem timoris præbere; Cæs. Make me believe it if you can; perfice si potes, ut putem; Cic. You are a fool to believe him; stultus es qui huic credas. I could not believe; non poteram animum inducere; Macrob. He could never have made any believe it, but that—; nemini persuasisset, nisi—; Cic.

Not to BELIEVE, or to distrust; alicui minime, parum credere, confidere. Alicujus fidem suspectam habere; in dubium, in suspicionem vocare, adducere. Ea fidem apud me oratio non habet. Nec Homerum audio, &c. Fabulis, rebus minime probabilibus, supra communem opinionem fidemque naturæ demere, negare, detrahere, derogare, nullam habere fidem. In numero fabularum reponere, habere. Adjungere fidem rebus commentitiis nullam debemus. Omnia mihi sunt suspecta. Diffidere.

Judicio fidem negat. Ne cito credideris. Tarda solet magnis rebus adesse fides. Tarda venit dictis difficilisque fides. Tarde quæ credita lædunt Credimus.

To BELIEVE readily; nihil reniti, non reluctari.

I BELIEVE it not; minime credo, mihi non fit verisimile; verbis, dictis, tuis fidem non habeo; supra communem opinionem, fidem naturæ; abrogatur, detrahitur, fides tuis verbis cum vero dissidentibus, haud verisimilibus, sed absurdis.

We ought not to BELIEVE feigned fables; rebus commentitiis nullam debemus fidem adjungere.

Do not easily BELIEVE false fellows, or dissembling flatterers in any thing they say of me; ne quid temere credas sycophantis de me. Believe those things as the oracles of Apollo; hæc, ut Apollinis Pythii adyta, tibi puta. I can scarcely make myself believe; vix mihi persuadere possum. To make a thing not to be believed; alicui rei fidem abrogare; Liv. One who believes stedfastly or strongly; cujus incerta, infirma, fluxa, fides non est. If you do not believe what I say; si fidem apud te non habet oratio mea.

Who, I pray you, is so ignorant of all arts and sciences, as to BELIEVE these things to be true? quis, quæso, est tam ignarus omnium disciplinarum, ut ista vera esse, in animum inducat suum? You see how the Rutilians do believe things; cernis quæ Rutilos habeat fiducia rerum; Virg.

So to behave himself that no man will BELIEVE him; abrogare sibi fidem. This will make your discourse easily be believed; hoc et auctoritatem orationi afferet et fidem. The opinions of many make me more firmly believe that; concurrunt multæ, multorumque opiniones, quæ mihi animum adaugeant.

To BELIEVE new opinions, and disbelieve the old; inserere novas opiniones, et evellere insitas.

Of a middle nature Between good and bad; medioximus.

Between is generally rendered by inter, sometimes alone, sometimes in composition, and sometimes together with a word compounded with itself: as,

Let us be friends Between ourselves; amici inter nos simus; Ter. There are vast deserts between; vastæ solitudines interjectæ sunt; Cic. There was but one river between the two camps; inter bina castra, unum flumen tantum intererat; Cæs. Between the two consulships ten years did intervene; inter duos consulatus anni decem interfluxerunt; Cic. This is the difference between me and them, that—, &c.; hoc inter me et illos interest, quod—, &c.; Cic.

A day or two had intervened Between, when the affair seemed very uncertain; unus aut alter dies intercesserat, cum res parum certa videbatur; Cic.

Yet there are other ways by which, Between is rendered, as, for instance, in the following phrases.

Between the devil and the deep sea; inter sacrum, saxumque sto. Prov. ex Plaut. Nunc ego, inquit, omnino occidi; nunc ego inter sacrum et saxum, nec quid faciam scio. Sumptum apparet ex priscis fœderis feriendi ceremoniis, in quibus fæcialis porcum saxo feriebat, hæc interim pronuncians: Qui prior populus fœdus rumpet, Jupiter eum ita feriat quemadmodum ego porcum hoc lapide ferio. Sed undicunque fluxit adagium, satis liquet dici solitum, in eos qui perplexi, ad extremum periculum rediguntur. Quo in casu, inter Scyllam et Charybdim, dici etiam solet.

The senate appointed him to be the umpire Between the Nolanes and Neapolitanes; arbiter Nolanis et Neapolitanis a senatu datus est; Cic. There was a parcel of ground left between; aliquantum agri in medio reliquum est; Cic. So as that we might see all above, beneath, and between; ut omnia supera, infera, media videremus; Cic. She placed herself between them; se mediam locavit; Virg. Has there nothing else been between you? numquidnam amplius tibi cum illa fuit? Ter. See what a difference there is between man and man; hem, vir viro, quod præstat; Ter. Many words passed between us; multa verba ultro citroque habita sunt; Cic. All the time between youth and old age; quicquid est illud inter juvenem et senem medium; Sen.

BETWEEN whiles; per media intervalla; interea; interim.

To BEWARE, or avoid a thing; devitare, fugere, effugere.

To BEWARE, or take heed to himself, to have a care of himself; sibi cavere, providere, timere, prospicere, ne rationes suas ad eos scopulos appellat, ad quos afflictam aliorum navem viderit. Diligenter, studiose, magna cum diligentia præcavere, animadvertere. Cautionem quandam in omni re adhibere. Omnia consilio experiri. Providere ne quid periculum eveniat. Consilia instructa habere, quibus mala possis avertere. Caute observare ne quid accidat. Quæ consilio provideri poterunt cavebo, ne imprudentia labar. Vide, cave quid agas, ne temere facias. Quod cavere possis stultum est admittere. Cautio et provisio incommodorum.

But we must chiefly now BEWARE of that; verum caute jam hoc observandum est.

We must especially BEWARE, or have a care, that prudence be joined with power; illa speciatim cautio requiritur, ut adsit cum potestate prudentia.

But now we must BEWARE lest we be deceived by humble supplication, or by the feigned representation of equity; jam vero erecti, parati, armati animis esse debemus, ne blanda aut supplici oratione, aut æquitatis simulatione fallamur; Cic. in Ant.

BEWARE or take heed you tell it to nobody; cave ne cuiquam dixeris; vide ne mortalium ulli indicaveris; vide ne temere apud aliquem effutias; digito labellum compresseris; Harpocratem egeris, finxeris. Harpocrates autem dicebatur silentii Deus inter Ægyptios; qui proinde depingebatur cum digito ori suo admoto; Ovid. At revera Græcus erat philosophus, cujus eruditio ac præcepta eo maxime tendebant, ut silentium præciperet, et omnibus rebus anteponeret; unde proverbium, Harpocratem reddere; Catull. To make one hold his tongue, as if he were dumb.

BEWARE what you do; vide etiam atque etiam quid agas.

BEWARE that you be not deceived; vide ne fallaris.

He is ready for all Business; ad singula actionum momenta præsto est. I am so distracted with other men's business, that, &c.; agminatim in me jam irruentibus occupationibus aliorum adeo distractus sum, ut, &c. Multiplicity of business quite overwhelms me; undæ negotiorum, quibus haud facile est enatare, me penitus obruunt.

I can spare no time from my Business, whatever else I may spare; quæcunque habeam cætera, temporis vix, certe, satis habeo.

I have been so hurried these two years with Business, that I cannot be at quiet in myself, either to read or write any thing, or to see my friends; impræsentiarum ita a musis desideo, distrahorque, ut biennium jam, non amicis, non mihi vacaverim.

BUT; sed, autem, vero, at, atque, cæterum, verum, primo, enimvero.

I. But that, signifying if not, did not, were it not that, is rendered by ni, nisi, nisi quod, or quod nisi with a subjunctive mood: as,

But that I fear my father; ni metuam patrem; Ter. And but that he was ashamed to confess; et nisi erubesceret fateri; Curt. But that we use the words otherwise; nisi quod verbis aliter utamur; Cic. But that Torquatus's cause held me in hand, I had time enough to—; quod nisi me Torquati causa teneret, satis erat dierum, ut—; Cic. But that I supposed almost all of you knew it, I would discourse of that; ni hoc partem maximam existimarem scire vestrum, id dicerem; Ter. But that the care of his funeral detained you; nisi cura te sepulturæ ejus moraretur; Curt. But that, when the cause is removed, even by common use and custom, we speak against truth; nisi quod etiam ubi causa sublata est, mentimur, et consuetudinis causa; Sen. But that I thought that all the city transactions, and town affairs are made known to you, I myself would write them; quod nisi res urbanas, actaque omnia ad te perferri arbitrarer, ipse perscriberem; Cic.

II. But, with for, is (in some cases) rendered by absque: as,

But for him I should have looked well enough to myself; absque eo esset, recte ego mihi vidissem; Ter. But for that I was with you to-day, I should never have seen the sun set;

si absque te essem hodie, nunquam ad solem occasum viverem; Plaut. But for you, I should have had him right enough; nam absque te esset, ego illum haberem rectum; Plaut. But for her, how happy should I be in all other things; quam fortunatus cæteris essem rebus, absque una hac foret; Ter. But for you, saith he, he had been excellent in some one language, especially in the Greek; absque te, inquit, una forsitan lingua, profecto Græca, is longe anteesset; Gell.

Note; in those or such like expressions where the particles are thus used, the phrase will admit of these or the like variations, but for him; had it not been for him; had he not been; but for you; had you not been; had it not been for you; without you; without your help, hindrance, &c.

III. Not But with that (signifying not that—not) is rendered by non quod non, or non quin: as,

Not But that there have been such as—; non quod non tales fuerint, quales—; Cic. Not but that it was right, but because—; non quin rectum esset, sed quia—; Cic. Not but that every full sentence may be called an enthymem, but, as Homer, &c.; non quod non omnis sententia proprio nomine enthymema dicatur, sed, ut Homerus, &c.; Cic. in Top. Not but that there may be many good men in the provinces; but—, &c.; non quin possint multi esse provinciales viri boni; sed—; Cic.

IV. But, coming alone after no, none, never, scarce, or seldom, is rendered by quin, qui non, or nisi qui: as, There is scarcely a day, but he comes to my house; dies fere nullus est, quin domum meam veniret; Cic. There is none but is afraid of you; nemo est, qui te non metuat; Cic. None hath shaken it off, but he that—; nemo illam excussit, nisi qui—; Sen.

Note; when the particle, But, is thus used, it stands for, and may be varied by, who not, which not, when not, or wherein not, &c.: as,

He never lets a day pass, But that he always comes; nunquam non intermittit diem, quin semper veniat; Ter. I indeed passed by none but I sent letters to them; equidem neminem prætermisi, cui literas non dederim; Cic. When you said that no man was rich, but he who could maintain an army at his own charge; cum diceres neminem esse divitem, nisi qui exercitum alere possit suis fructibus; Cic. I never knew any poet, but he always thought himself the best; adhuc neminem novi poetam, qui sibi non optimus videretur; Cic. There is none but may complain, at this time, both most grievously and yet most truly; nemo est, quin, hoc tempore, gravissime et verissime conqueri possit; Cic. Yet there scarcely passed a day but that I wrote to him; nullus dies tamen temere intercessit, quo non ad eum scriberem; Cic. You will find nowhere any, who says those things, but that he certainly thinks he knows what he says; neutiquam reperias, qui hæc dicit, quin scire se plane putet, quid dicat; Gell.

V. But, coming after nothing, or nothing else, is rendered by quam, non, or nisi: as, She does nothing but grieve; nil aliud, quam dolet; Ovid. I saw nothing but what was commendable; nil non laudabile vidi; Ovid. I aim at nothing but your safety; nihil laboro, nisi ut salvus sis; Cic. He inquired about nothing in all the way, but whether the empire was safe and secured for him; nihil, tota via, quam essetne salvum sibi imperium requirens; Suet. We possess nothing but what is perishing and mortal; nil non mortale tenemus; Ovid. He made nothing his business but to be revenged of his enemies; nihil nisi de inimicis ulciscendis agebat; Cic. I desire nothing but Philumena; nihil aliud volo, nisi Philumenam; Ter.

1. Note; if but after nothing may be varied by which not, it is rendered by quod non: as,

There is nothing so incredible, But by language may be made probable; nihil est tam incredibile, quod non dicendo fiat probabile; Cic. There is nothing to be called liberal, or ingenuous, but that which is also just and honest; nihil liberale, quod non sit idem justum; Cic.

2. Note; But after what, or what else, is so rendered as after nothing, or nothing else; yet mostly by nisi: as,

What else But the secret woods did hurt Phillis? quid nisi secretæ læserunt Phillida sylvæ? Ovid. What else is it to fight against the gods, like the giants, but to be, or do, contrary to nature? quid aliud est, gigantum more, bellare cum Diis, nisi naturæ repugnare? Cic.

VI. BUT, after cannot, is rendered by non with an infinitive; quin, or ut non, with a subjunctive mood: as,

I cannot BUT lament his calamity; non possum ejus casum non dolere; Cic. I cannot but cry out; non possum quin exclamem; Cic. It cannot be but you must say, what you do not like; fieri nullo pacto potest, ut non dicas quid non probes; Cic. I cannot but be a friend to him; non possum ei non amicus esse; Cic. There is scarcely any thing to prevent it, but that I must be in a most miserable and wretched condition; prorsus nihil abest, quin sim miserrimus; Cic. It cannot be but that the same man, who blames the good, must also approve the bad; abesse non potest, quin ejusdem sit hominis probos improbare, qui improbos probet; Cic. Those things cannot be ruined, but that these also, by the same way, must fall to ruin likewise; ruere illa non possunt, ut hæc non eodem labefactata motu concidant; Quint. I would, but for hurting him; velim, ni foret ei damnum.

VII. BUT, after these words not doubt, not fear, not make question, &c., is rendered by quin, or ne non: as,

There is no doubt BUT—; non est dubium quin—; Ter. I do not fear but I shall cloy you with letters; non enim vereor ne non scribendo te expleam; Cic. No body doubted but that he would again be restored to the kingdom; erat nemini dubium, quin is in regnum restitueretur; Cic. Whosoever remembers these things, there is little or no danger, but that he shall think death either to be wished for, or not to be feared; quæ qui recordetur, haud sane periculum est, ne non mortem aut optandam, aut certe non timendam putet; Cic.

Note; Quin, and ne non, with their subjunctive mood, are variable by turning the nominative case into the accusative, and the subjunctive into the infinitive: as,

There is no doubt, BUT that my son will not—, &c.; non dubium est quin nolit filius, or —nolle filium. I fear not but that I may prove, or approve that; non vereor ne hoc non probem, or, me hoc probaturum.

VIII. BUT, signifying only, is rendered by tantum, solum, and modo: as,

Thou hast BUT the name of virtue in thy mouth; what itself is thou knowest not; nomen tantum virtutis usurpas; quid ipsa valeat ignoras; Cic. They disagree but about one thing; in re una solum dissident; Cic. Be but ruled by me; mihi modo ausculta; Plaut. Be but true and faithful to your sister; tu tantum fida sorori esse velis; Ovid. We have but the report, the consuls and the rest of the magistrates have also the real knowledge; nuntiationem nos solum habemus, consules et magistratus etiam inspectionem; Cic. I will but say my prayers, and then I will come to you; Deos salutabo modo, postea ad te; Plaut. What ails you but that you may do it? quid impedit quo minus fiat?

IX. BUT, signifying saving, unless, or except, is rendered by exceptive particles, nisi, extra, præter, præterquam: as,

I will trust the money with nobody but himself; ego ipsi nisi nummum credam nemini; Plaut. He was condemned by all but one; omnibus sententiis præter unam damnatus est; Cic. No body living ever touched me, but you; extra unum te, mortalis nemo corpus corpore attigit; Plaut. No body said so, but Cicero; nemo id dixit, præterquam Cicero. Whom we can see with no eyes, but those of the mind; quem nullis nisi mentis oculis videre possumus; Cic. They declare that nothing is left to them, but the very ground itself; demonstrant sibi, præter agri solum, nihil esse reliqui; Cæs. For those so great affairs I require no reward, but the everlasting remembrance of that day; pro tantis rebus nullum postulo præmium, præterquam illius diei memoriam sempiternam; Cic. There was no kindred or relation there present, but the little female friend; neque cognatus, extra amiculam, quisquam aderat; Ter.

Note; If no casual word immediately follow but, when it is used in this sense, then it is not rendered by extra or præter, but only by nisi or præterquam: e. g. in this English; There can be no friendship but amongst good men, the particle but cannot be rendered by extra or præter, but by nisi or præterquam: as, Nisi [or præterquam] in bonis non potest esse amicitia; not extra, or præter in bonis.

X. But, in most other uses, is an adversative particle, and rendered by ast, at, atqui, autem, cæterum, nisi, quod si, sin, sed, vero, verum, &c.: as,

If you intend to stay in one place, expect frequent letters from us; But send also more frequently to us; tu si uno loco es futurus, crebras a nobis literas expecta; ast plures etiam mittito; Cic. What further is to be inquired? Was the thing done? but that is evident. By whom? but that is also known, &c. Quid porro quærendum est? Factumne sit? at constat. A quo? at patet, &c.; Cic. But we were then sensible of no vexation; atqui nullam sensimus tum vexationem; Sen. But there is nothing more lovely to me than your duty and diligence; mihi autem nihil amabilius officio tuo et diligentia; Cic. I know not, but that I have said so to nobody, that I certainly know; nescio, nisi me sic dixisse nemini, id certo scio; Ter. But if fortune threaten any mischievous accident; sin aliquem infandum casum fortuna minatur; Virg. He remembered not only whatever he had done, but also whatever he had said; omnia ejus non solum facta, sed etiam dicta, meminit; Cic. A good and honest man indeed, but yet not so well educated, as that—, &c.; vir bonus equidem, veruntamen non ita institutus, ut—, &c.; Cic. He is about another business, although not with the same eagerness, but yet no less difficult; aliam rem aggreditur, non eadem asperitate, cæterum haud secus difficilem; Sal. But if he should once know that she were lost; quod si resciverit periisse eam, &c.; Ter.

1. Note: Autem and vero are not to begin a sentence.

2. Note: But is sometimes put for before, or before that, viz. when scarce, hardly, or some similar word, goes before it with a verb, and then it is rendered by cum, or dum, with vix, as in these examples:

Vix prior tumultus conticuerat, cum Scipio ab defessis jam vulneratisque recentes integrosque alios accipere scalas jubet; hardly was the former stir ended, but [i. e. before that] Scipio bade—; Liv. Vix agmen extra munitiones processerat, cum Galli flumen transire non dubitabant; Cæs.; no sooner was the army gone out of their camp, but the Gauls confidently undertook to pass over the river. Vix dum triclinio egressum confodi jussit; he was scarcely gone out of the dining-room, but [i. e. before] he commanded him to be run through; Suet. Hæc ego omnia vix dum jam cœtu vestro dimisso comperi; your company was scarcely broken up, but [i. e. before]—; Cic.

In these two the expressed participles may be resolved into a verb with cum: as,

Vix triclinio egressus erat, cum confodi eum jussit. Vix dimissus erat cœtus vester, cum jam ego hæc omnia comperi.

And so may the participle that is understood in that: as,

The day after, when it was scarcely light, they began to surrender; postero die vix dum luce certa [sc. ente or existente] deditio fieri cœpta; Liv. Vix certa erat lux, cum deditio.

Sometimes cum is expressed together with dum: as,

I had scarcely read your letter, But Curtius came; vix dum epistolam tuam legeram, cum Curtius venit; Cic. The way was no sooner made open, but the fugitives rushed with violence through the gate; vix dum satis patebat iter, cum perfugæ certatim ruunt per portam; Liv.

Sometimes it is understood with it: as,

I had scarcely spoken one half, But he understood; vix dum dimidium dixeram, intellexerat; Ter. i. e. Vix dum dixeram, cum intellexerat.

Cicero uses commodum in this sense with cum.

Commodum discesseras heri, cum Trebatius venit; you were scarcely gone yesterday, But Trebatius came. Commodum ad te miseram Demeam, cum Eros ad me venit; I had no sooner sent Demeas to you, but that Eros came to me.

Some other phrases.

He came But yesterday; heri primum venit. But a while since; nuper admodum, non ita pridem. But just now; nunc primum; Cic. He is but just now gone; jam nuper [or minimum] est quod decessit. Not but that he had wit; non quod ei deesset ingenium; Cic. This happens to none but a wise man; soli hoc contingit sapienti; Cic. There is nothing but may be marred by ill telling; nihil est quin male narrando possit depravarier; Ter. There were but two ways out; erant omnino itinera duo quibus exire possent; Cæs. But sparingly; omnino modice; Cic. He did but lay him in irons; non ultra quam compedibus coercuit; Sueton. There wanted but a little but he had struck him; tantum non percussit; parum abfuit quin percuteret; propius nihil est factum, quam ut, &c. The last but one; proximus a postremo; Cic. So may be said; a primo proximus; the first but one, i. e. the second, or next to the first. Hæc sunt a primis proxima vota meis; Ovid. There is none but knows; nemo est qui nesciat; Cic. They are forced to live on nothing but honey; melle coguntur solo vivere; Val. Nobody but I; ego vero solus; Ter. To be commended with a but; cum exceptione laudari; Cic. There was nobody at home then but I; unus tum domi eram; Plaut. He is nothing but skin and bone; ossa atque pellis totus est; Plaut.

Note 1. Ad is hardly, if ever, in this sense applied to person; secundum rarely, and therefore to be sparingly used.

Note 2. Juxta, prope, and propter, are used in this sense without any case.

Furiarum maxima juxta Accubat; Virg. Alterius gladium prope oppositum e vagina educit; Cic. Etenim propter est spelunca quædam; Ter.

Note 3. Some have used secus with an accusative case in this sense: as Quintilian:

Conductus est Cœcus secus viam stare. So Pliny: Secus fluvios.

So some have used procul, as Virg. Et procul illam Turba ferox juvenum telis confixa procorum. And Ter. Quem cum istoc sermonem habueris, procul heic (as Palmerius reads that which others read procul hinc) stans accepi: but that is a thing to be observed only, and not followed.

VIII. By, after a comparative degree, is rendered by the ablative case of the word which signifies the measure of excess or defect: as,

The towers are higher than the wall By ten feet; turres denis pedibus, quam mœnia altiores sunt; Curt. He is taller than you by a foot and a half; sesquipede est, quam tu longior; Plaut. If a verse be pronounced shorter or longer by one syllable; si versus pronunciatus est syllaba una brevior aut longior; Cic. Yet that other man is less vicious at least by one vice; ille tamen alter uno vitio minus est vitiosus; Cic. By as much again greater; altero tanto major; Liv. Greater or more by twice as much; duplo majus; Cic. He bought the house by almost the half dearer than it was thought to be worth; is emit domum prope dimidio carius quam æstimabatur; Cic. By how much the more difficult, by so much the more famous; quo difficilius, hoc præclarius; Cic. By how much the longer absent, by so much the more desired; quanto diutius abest, magis cupio tanto; Ter.

IX. By, in protesting, beseeching, swearing, and adjuring, is rendered by per: as,

I beseech you By the memory of my father; per, te, parentis memoriam obtestor; Sen. I beseech you, by the immortal gods, have especial care of this; incumbe, per deos immortales, in eam curam; Cic. The which I beseech you by this right hand; quod ego per hanc dextram oro; Ter. I swear by Mercury that Jupiter does not believe, &c.; per Mercurium juro Jovem non credere, &c. Plaut.

X. By, referring to authority, agreement, counsel, example, or event, and signifying according to, is rendered by de, or ex: as,

Reckon thus, that what I write to you is By his advice and authority; sic habeto, me de illius ad te sententia atque auctoritate scribere; Cic. I knew presently that it was done by agreement; scivi extemplo rem de compacto geri; Plaut. Men will judge of your doing, not so much by your intent, as by the event; facti tui judicium non tam ex consilio tuo, quam ex eventu homines sunt facturi; Cic. That the money business may be settled or appointed by public or common consent; ut res nummaria de communi sententia constitueretur; Cic. It is built by the senate's authority; ædificatur ex auctoritate senatus; Cic. To build by example; de exemplo ædificare; Plaut. We should soon see men judge of your counsel by the event; ex eventu homines de tuo consilio existimaturos cito videremus; Cic. And being brought forth before the tribunal, he named the authors by agreement; productusque pro rostris auctores ex compacto nominabat; Suet.

Note: The preposition is not always necessarily to be expressed.

XI. By reason, having of, with a casual word following it, is rendered by per or propter: as, Nor indeed could she by reason of her age; neque per ætatem etiam poterat; Ter. I can make no camp by reason of the time of the year; nec castra propter anni tempus facere possum; Cic. Neither could there be any thing done by reason of the seldom sitting of the senate; nec agi quicquam per infrequentiam poterat senatus; Liv. By reason of the sharpness of your wit, you perceive things that are most hidden; propter acumen tuum occultissima perspicis. But if it have that with a verb following it, then it is rendered by propterea with quod, or quia: as, No agreement could be made, by reason that he was not content; res convenire nullo modo poterat, propterea quod iste contentus non erat; Cic. So, I have made you, of a servant, my freeman, by reason that you did serve freely or ingenuously; feci ut e servo esses libertus mihi, propterea quod serviebas liberaliter; Ter. That is a sad kind of comfort, by reason that they by whom that should be done, are the same way affected; genus hoc consolationis acerbum est, propterea quia, per quos id fieri debet, ipsi pari modo afficiuntur; Cic.

Ob, with a casual word, and a passive participle, may in this sense be used for By reason of, and for by reason that. Ob intenta Lepidæ pericula; by reason of the danger he had brought Lepida into, or by reason that he had brought Lepida into danger; Tacit.

Note 1. After the same manner are because of and because that rendered.

Note 2. Præ metu, ira, gaudio, lachrymis, &c. are better rendered for fear, anger, joy, tears, than by reason of anger, &c. but the sense is the same, and the Latin very elegant.

XII. By, with self, or selves, following it, is often put for alone, and rendered by per, and solus: as,

We will do the rest By ourselves; reliqua per nos agemus; Cic. I shall sit down by myself, if he come not hither; ego decumbam solus, si ille huc non venit; Plaut. I learned this by myself to say, God save you, Cæsar; hoc per me didici dicere, Cæsar, ave; Mart. Beat them both in a mortar by themselves; conterito in mortario per se utrumque; Cato. To whom when it seemed more profitable to reign by himself than with another, he killed his brother; cui cum visum esset utilius solum se, quam cum altero, regnare, fratrem interemit; Cic. He took cognizance of capital things alone by himself; cognitiones capitalium rerum, per se solus exercebat; Liv. We are here now alone by ourselves; soli nunc sumus hic; Ter. Also, Hic nos sumus, i. e. solæ; Plaut.

XIII. By and By signifies presently, instantly, forthwith, within a little while, and is rendered by jam, mox, illico, continuo, confestim, e vestigio, ex continenti, extemplo, protinus, &c.: as,

I will be here By and By; jam hic adero; Ter. I believe he will come by and by; credo illum jam affuturum esse; Ter. I will by and by return hither; mox ego huc revertar; Ter.

XIV. By the way sometimes signifies incidentally, by the by, not on set purpose, in passing, &c. and is rendered by obiter, in transitu, or transcursu, &c.: as,

That By the way I may avoid those Homer-scourges; ut obiter caveam istos Homeromastigas; Plin. I had lightly by the way touched those things in the fifth book; quæ libro quinto leviter in transcursu attigeram; Quin. Those things our men have handled by the way, but the Grecians somewhat more diligently; in transcursu ea attigere nostri, paulo diligentius Græci; Plin. And by the way, or by the by, he will read, or write, or sleep, within; atque obiter leget, aut scribet, vel dormiet intus; Juv. But the nature of those things is not so simple as to be handled or discoursed of by the way, or by the by; eorum autem non simplex natura, nec in transitu tractanda; Quint. There are also, at this time, some very famous, but to be mentioned only by the way, or by the by; sunt etiamnum non ignobiles quidam, in transcursu tamen dicendi; Plin.

When By the way refers to any journey, or travelling, then it is most properly rendered by in via, itinere, per viam, &c.: as,

The man confesses he had vitiated By force one, I know not whom, by the way; homo se fatetur vi, in via, nescio quam, compressisse; Ter. We heard by the way that Pompey was departed from Brundusium; in itinere audivimus Pompeium Brundusio profectum esse; Cic. They discoursed by the way; fabulabantur per viam; Plaut.

XV. By, with its casual word, is sometimes to be rendered by an adverb in im: viz.

1. When manner of action is referred to: as,

To do a thing By stealth; furtim facere aliquid; Cic. To come by degrees to any place; gradatim aliquo pervenire; Cic.

2. When the casual word is repeated with By, or some other particle between: as,

Street By street, all the servants' names are set down; vicatim omnes conscribuntur; Cic. He made a law to divide the land man by man; legem de agro viritim dividendo tulit; Cic.

And so also, to be affected with joy and grief By turns; item, gaudium atque ægritudinem alternatim sequi. To conclude, we have by degrees attained to all your honors; vestros denique honores, gradatim singulos sumus assecuti; Cic. He (or she) pines or falls away as it were by drop and drop; guttatim contabescit; Plaut. The sedition by little and little growing less and less; deflagrante paulatim seditione; Tac. To answer to every thing one by one; singulatim rei cuique respondere; Cic. Clodius falling down at the feet of them all, one by one; ad omnium pedes sigillatim accidente Clodio; Cic. He distributed to the people man by man forty acres of land; quaterna dena agri jugera viritim populo divisit; Plin.

Hither may be referred other ways of rendering By, with its casual word, when it is thus used: as,

In vices; By turns; Ovid. In singulos dies; day by day; Cic.

XVI. By, joined to a verb or participle, often serves only to complete the sense of it, and has nothing more to be rendered for it, than the Latin of the verb or participle: as,

Money is every where much set By; plurimi passim fit pecunia. I was not by; ego non affui; Ter. They lay by for their ships oaks half consumed by the flames; flammisque ambesa reponunt Robora navigiis; Virg. That I would not tell you whilst he was by; i. e. present; id ego hoc præsente tibi nolebam dicere; Ter. He was by, or present, at that discourse; ei sermoni is interfuit; Cic.

Some other phrases.

To CARE for, or regard a thing; curare, æstimare.

To be much disquieted with CARES; solicitudine, curis angi, distineri, discruciari, confici, enecari. Excubare animo, nec partem ullam capere quietis. Solicitudine gravissima noctes atque dies cruciari. Molestiarum magnitudine, anxietate multa, curarum acerbitate frangi. Molestiarum mole opprimi; æstu, curisque variis jactari, in diversa distrahi. Continua, perpetua molestiarum vicissitudine exagitari. Molestiis, curis multis, plurimis, infinitis impediri, urgeri, implicari, dilacerari, divelli, distrahi, detineri, conteri, involvi. Nullam diurnæ vel nocturnæ quietis partem sibi impertire. Cujus in vita nulla est intercapedo molestiæ. Omnes in unum spectant, unus omnia gubernat; tot tantisque molestiis distentus, districtus atque distractus est, ut respirare libere non possit; ut sine cura ne punctum temporis respirare possit; ut ne respirandi sit locus; ut liberum respirandi spacium vix habeat, vix reperiat.—Magno, vario curarum fluctuat æstu. Curis mordacibus uri. Pondere curarum; curis ingentibus æger. Tristes agitat mens anxia curas.—Mea perpetuis liquefiunt pectora curis. Vario turbidus æstu Angitur.—Multa fatigant pondera curarum.—Patet in curas area lata. Cura—Te coquit et vexat sub pectore fixa. Quid æternis minorem Consiliis animum fatigas? Pectora sunt ipso turbidiora mari. Nec fruitur somno, vigilantibus excita curis. Versare graves mœsto sub pectore curas.

I do not much CARE; non magnopere curo.

What CARE I for that? Quid mea refert?

A CARE or regard of liberty or freedom; libertatis cura. Nihil aliud a communi libertate, nihil præter communem quæsivi, curavi, secutus sum, spectavi; ad unam civium libertatem meas curas intendi, cogitationes retuli, studia contuli, præter communem libertatem proposita mihi nulla res fuit.

I will have a special CARE both for your profit and honor; commoda et honor tuus curæ mihi sunt. Toto animo de tuis commodis et ornamentis cogito; mihi tuus honor, et tuæ fortunæ etiam atque etiam curæ sunt; de utilitate, ac laude tua æque ac de meipso cogito; ita cogito, ut nemo magis; tam cogito quam qui maxime.

CAREFUL or diligent; diligens, industrius, sedulus, studiosus.

CAREFUL or heedful; cautus, providus.

CAREFUL or pensive; anxius, solicitus.

I am CAREFUL over you, or my mind always runs upon you; curæ mihi es.

Nunquam de te non cogito; nullum a me tempus prætermittitur, de te tuisque rebus cogitandi; nunquam mihi ex animo effluis, excidis, discedis; tota mente in rerum tuarum curam incumbo; in te tuisque rebus animus meus perpetuo est; meæ curæ omnes in te sunt; te semper spectat animus meus; meæ cogitationes in te tuisque rebus consumuntur omnes.

I am Careful of your welfare, or I am thinking of your profit, and devising how to do you good; curæ mihi tuæ res sunt. Toto animo de tuis commodis, ornamentisque cogito; tuam utilitatem assidue specto; hæret in animo meo, de tuis commodis assidua cogitatio; si quid e re tua est, id maxime laboro; tuæ mihi res, tuæ fortunæ curæ vehementer sunt; tuæ rationes quid postulent, nunquam non attendo; omnis mihi de te, tuisque commodis cogitatio est; tuam utilitatem meæ spectant cogitationes omnes; meas curas ad tuum commodum omnes contuli; animus meus in tua utilitate fixus et locatus est.

To ease Cares and troubles of mind with music; curis et angoribus Musarum, musicæ adhibere solatia. Ad strepitum citharæ cessatam ducere curam. Fide Cyllenia levare diris pectora solicitudinibus.

To be Careful or much troubled; angi, satagere, æstuare, laborare. Like care is to be had of the public, as of your own private wealth; publica et privata æque curanda. Debet unusquisque suam voluntatem ad publicam causam aggregare; rempublicam curare, reipublicæ curationem habere; reipublicæ rationibus consulere eo studio debemus, quo rem nostram familiarem, quo fortunas nostras, quo privata commoda tueri, complecti, fovere solemus; unusquisque æque publicam rem curet ac privatam.

To keep my honor I Care not what loss I suffer; dignitate integra, fortunæ damna contemno. Si modo dignitas incolumis, adimi de fortuna, detrahi de fortuna, fortunam comminui, fortunarum jacturam fieri, fortunæ detrimenta non recuso, contemno, nihili duco, in minimis pono.

From a less Care to a greater; ex minore cura in gravem conjectus. A minore cura maximam ad solicitudinem traductus sum; curam equidem antea sustinebam, ferendam tamen; nunc solicitudine premor, quæ ferri non possit; hac solicitudine nihil gravius; vincitur animus meus, planeque frangitur hac tam gravi solicitudine.

I had great Care on me; gravem curam suscepi, gravis me excepit cura, gravis in me incubuit solicitudo; acerba mihi invasit solicitudo.

Put away Cares; bono animo sis, esto. Animum recipe, releva. Ad ingenium redi. Solve curas. Omitte tristitiam. Animus redeat. Virili præsentique sis animo. Ne time. Quid trepidas? Dolorem minue. Luctum absterge. Ejice animi anxietatem. Depone, omitte solicitudinem. Ne te afflictes, crucies, excrucies, laceres. Quæ te res solicitat, excruciat? Quid tristis es? Curas adime. Omnis evanescat dolor. Cura ex corde excidat. Valeant curæ.

Careless, or at ease; securus, lentus, otiosus.

All my Care and trouble of mind is gone; omni onere, pondere curarum levata mens est. Evanuit dolor. Cura corde excidit. Depulsæ curarum sunt nebulæ. Mens reponit onus.—Sedatis requierunt pectora curis.—Omnis corde resedit Tristitia, affixique animo cessere dolores.

Careful of a friend's business; summam in amici rebus curam adhibere. Amici rebus summo studio, diligenter prospicere, invigilare. Omnes tuæ res non minori mihi curæ sunt quam meæ. De te tuisque rebus vehementer solicitus sum. In cogitatione curaque rerum tuarum totus sum, excubo animo, versor studiose. Rerum tuarum cura me maxime intentum habet. Quod præcipis diligenter curabo.

Careless or negligent; inconsideratus, negligens, improvidus.

Carelessly, or negligently; secure, neglectim, perfunctorie, oscitanter, inconsiderate.

Carelessness; incuria, securitas, oscitatio, negligentia.

To be Careless or negligent; in otio considere parum de re solicitum. Oscitanter, indiligenter, solute, dissolute, incuriose, parum attente, parum considerate, supine, negligenter, lente omnia agere, gerere suas res. Nulla adhibita diligentia suas res administrare. Nulla de re solicitum, susque deque habere omnia. Omni cura, solicitudine, molestia vacuum in otio desidere. Quasi Lethæo rore soporatum; quasi de flumine Lethæo biberit, ita rerum suarum oblivisci omnium. Omnem curam et solicitudinem remittere, deponere, abjicere. Secure, otioseque in utramque dormire aurem. Quasi veterno laboret, ita nihil meminit suarum rerum. Homo incuria et oscitantia summa; somnolentia et torpore mirabili; socordia segnitieque singulari, incredibili. Soluto, remisso esse animo. Temere præterire quod facto sit opus; de rebus suis ut habeant se nihil moratur, non magnopere laborat.

I have been Careless of my own advantage, I have not respected my profit; commodis meis non consului. Nullam hactenus utilitatis meæ rationem habui; nullam rationibus meis operam dedi; de utilitate minimum laboravi; utilitatem minime spectavi, curavi, quæsivi, secutus sum; nullum in utilitate studium posui, nihil industriæ locavi, nihil operæ consumpsi; diligentiam commodorum meorum causa nullam adhibui, ad res meas nullam contuli; res meas indiligenter administravi, tractavi. Quid esset e re mea, in rem meam, quid ad vel in rem meam pertineret, faceret, conveniret; quid rebus meis prodesset, conduceret, utile esset, utilitatem afferret, vile æstimavi.

I am Careless of any thing; or I care not a straw for it; omnia nihil facio. Trahantur per me pedibus omnia, non laboro; nihil me afficit, nihil me tangit; nulla re moveor, de quavis re susque deque fero, æque omnia contemno, fastidio, respuo; nulla res apud me pondus habet; nullius momenti est, in pretio est, ne minimi quidem est.

I have been very Careless; nullam operam dedi, non laboravi, minime spectavi, curavi, quæsivi, secutus sum; nullum studium posui; nihil industriæ, operæ locavi, posui; diligentiam nullam adhibui, contuli.

Be Careful in doing; take some pains, look to it, &c.; cura, age curam, habe curam, fac, dispone, evigila; da operam, curæ tibi sit; tua curatum abeas.

To put or take away Care, thought, or sorrow; liberare, exsolvere curis; finem curis imponere; curas secludere, demere, deponere, dimittere, avertere; nubes curarum pellere.

Wine takes away Care; cura abit, fugit, excedit, deserit, dilabitur, lentescit, diluitur, mero.

I Care not; susque deque fero, habeo, in nullo discrimine pono; æqui bonique facio, apud Ter. Æquo animo sum; nihil laboro; mea non refert; manum non verterim, moverim, etiamsi domus ruat; minime æstimarim; securus quonam res cadunt; non magni pendo.

I Care not a pin for it; illud non emerim crepitu digitorum.

This has taken away all Care and comfort from me; hoc mihi curas omnes, omnia solatia ademit.

Great memories are vexed with Cares; exedunt animos memores conficiuntque curis.

This makes me Careful; hoc me solicitum habet.

To vex and weary one with continual Cares; novis curis, solicitudine continua aliquem afficere, fatigare, curis continuis alicujus animum excruciare; aliquem curis districtum tenere.

This Care vexes me; hæc me cura remordet, angit, torquet, solicitat; hæc cura mentem excruciat.

The mind is distracted with abundance of Cares; in curas animus deducitur omnis; solicitudinibus variis pæne mens mea frangitur; curis undique districtus teneor; lassus, cura confectus stupet animus; Ter.

To be quiet without Care or cares; curas rerum intermittere; Tac. Omnes curarum nubeculas pellere; curas relaxare; somno fallere, laxare curas; Virg. Animum curis solvere, exsolvere; sepositis mentem componere curis; fessam curis abducere mentem.

But now another Care troubles me; jam nunc alia cura impendet pectori; Plaut.

I am as Careful of you and yours as of myself and mine; omnes tuæ res non minori mihi curæ sunt, quam meæ; saluti tuæ, liberisque tuis summo cum studio præsto semper ero; Cic.

To have a Care of another's business; alicujus rebus prospicere; rationibus alicujus consulere. That care did then chiefly trouble the Romans; ea tum cura maxime intentos habebat Romanos; Liv.

If any thing concern you, I am chiefly CAREFUL of that; si quid e re tua est, id maxime laboro.

I will be CAREFUL of what you command, because I am obliged to it; quod præcipis, diligenter (ut teneor) curabo.

I never CARED so much as I ought for my own business; nunquam spectavi satis quid esset e re mea, in rem meam.

To be extremely CARELESS of any thing; aliquid supine posthabere. The city was wholly careless; veternus civitatem occupavit.

To be CARELESS of the best and most profitable things, and careful of things pernicious and hurtful; salutaria negligere, perniciosa consectari, utilia despicere, salubria contemnere.

We find by experience that if we be but a little CARELESS, we are presently ensnared; videmus enim, si tantulum animos dejecerimus, præsto esse insidias.

To live CARELESSLY; in diem vivere; non esse solicitum de crastino; Cic.

Who can be so CARELESS? quis tam dissoluto est animo?

It shall be our CARE; nostræ partes erunt.

Leave this to my CARE; let me alone with this; hoc mihi curæ erit.

How CAREFUL should men be! quanto caverent studio!

A peck of troubles; a pack of CARES; curarum sarcina.

All the CARE lies on my back; omne onus in meos procumbit humeros.

My chief CARE was that—; discussis aliis curis, cogitationem ego huc verti meam—.

I CARE not for—; non laboro de—.

fort; amicorum solatiis, consolatione in maximis doloribus recreatus sum; ad spem bonam reductus, revocatus, non mediocriter confirmatus, erectus; luctus mihi levatus est. In multis et variis molestiis, hæc una consolatio fuit; unicum erat solatium; non mediocrem consolationem attulit, magnæ consolationis debet esse. In adversis casibus, in maximo meo luctu hac consolatione sanor; solatio utor, fruor; hæc sunt solatia, hæc fomenta summorum dolorum.

Comfort or consolation; consolatio, solatium, solamen, levamen. A little comfort; solatiolum.

Comfortless; tristis, deploratus; ab omni consolatione exclusus, consolationis expers; omnibus solatiis orbatus, omni spe spoliatus, ab omni spe derelictus. Est omnino vix consolabilis dolor. Omnia me solatia deficiunt. Cujus luctus nullo solatio levari potest. Meo laboranti, ægrotanti animo, meis animi vulneribus remedia inutilia reperiuntur omnia; nullum est quod mederi possit remedium. Nullus est qui meo dolori facere medicinam possit.—Inconsolabile vulnus Mente gerit.

Comfortable and pleasant; amœnus, jucundus.

The consideration of like examples in others Comforts the afflicted; it is a comfort to have companions in misery; afflictis aliorum exempla solatio.

This second reason or cause Comforts me; altera hæc ratio me consolatur. Secundo loco me consolatur recordatio meorum temporum; altera est ratio, quæ mihi solatium affert, præbet, parit, solatio est; alterum illud est quo sustentor, recreor; illa est, quæ me consolatur, altera ratio; accedit aliud ad animum meum sustentandum, deinde sustentor meorum malorum memoria.

Comfortless, or which cannot be comforted; qui consolari a nemine queat. Nihil est quod solatium, consolationem præbere, afferre, parere, solatio esse, consolationi esse mihi possit, nulla res est, quæ recreare, reficere, levare, vindicare a dolore, liberare solicitudine, eximere dolore, abducere a cura, avocare a molestia, abstrahere, avellere a mœrore animum meum possit; afflictum a mœrore animum, languentem, jacentem erigere, excitare, confirmare, nulla jam consolatio potest; affectum dolore animum sanare nulla ratio valet; laboranti animo, ægrotanti, pessime affecto mederi satis nulla ratio valet; parum apta remedia reperiuntur; inutilis, infirma, inanis, supervacanea prorsus omnis medicina est; quis jam homo (dicerem nisi esset impium, quis jam Deus) animo meo virtutem dolore ereptam restituere possit? quis ea sanare vulnera, iis vulneribus mederi, medicinam afferre, remedium invenire, quæ mihi fortuna intulit, imposuit, influxit? ita dolore obruor, ut emergere nulla ratione possim, ita malis opprimor prorsus ut respirare non liceat; respuit jam animus meus, quasi desperata salute, omnem medicinam, remedia cuncta, omnium consolationum genera; frustra in me consolando ponitur opera, inanem operam sumit, qui ad me consolandum aggreditur; insitus, infixus in animo dolor ita penitus est, ut evelli nulla ratione possit; ut nulla vis rationum possit esse tanta, quæ illum ne die quidem vel unico, possit evellere, extrahere, educere, eripere; finem facere dolori meo, finem imponere, modum statuere, terminum statuere, dolori medicari, neque homo est neque res ulla, quæ possit; non est ut possim in dolore mihi temperare, dolore abstinere, dolorem sedare, abjicere; meipsum ad eam hilaritatem, eam jucunditatem, quam dolor ademit, revocare, referre me ad pristinam animi æquitatem, in eum statum, unde me dolor dejecit, deturbavit, depulit, detrusit, restituere.

This is an useful and not a necessary Comfort: Nothing is chiefly to be lamented or grieved by any one, which befalls all and every one; consolatio hæc utilis est si non necessaria: nihil est præcipue cuiquam dolendum, quod accidat universis; Cic.

Yet nevertheless I am supported by that Comfort, which you, O Brutus, have administered to me by your most acceptable letters; verumtamen ea consolatione sustentor, quam tu mihi (Brute) adhibuisti literis tuis suavissimis.

Whilst a man's reputation is safe and unstained, honesty itself is a Comfort to poverty; dum existimatio viri est integra, facile consolatur honestas egestatem; Cic.

You have Comforted me so, as if you had brought me from death to life again; qui mortuum me reducem in lucem feceris; Ter.

We ought by COMFORTING and encouraging, to endeavour to raise up the mind of our friend cast down, and that he may recover himself into better hopes; consolationibus eniti et efficere debemus ut amici jacens animus excitetur, atque ut inducat se in spem cogitationemque meliorem.

By which COMFORTS of yours you have supported me when I was extremely afflicted; quibus me consolationibus tuis languescentem sustentavisti; Cic.

Free me, I pray you, from this grief, or, at least, lessen it by some COMFORT, or counsel, or by whatever means you can; eripe mihi hunc dolorem, aut minue saltem; vel consolatione, vel consilio, vel quacunque re potes; Cic.

It remains that I should COMFORT you, and offer you reasons, by which I may endeavor to take away your griefs; reliquum est ut te consoler, et afferam rationes quibus te a molestiis coner abducere; Cic.

By his coming the soldiers began to hope, and their minds were COMFORTED; hujus adventu spes militibus erat illata, et animus eorum redintegrabatur; Cæs.

In the greatest of my griefs, I esteem this for my COMFORT; in maximo meo dolore, hoc solatio utor, fruor, me consolor; id ego quasi consolationis loco repono.

My mind is COMFORTED whenever the report of your being beloved is brought hither; assurgit animus meus quoties amabilitatis tuæ sermo huc differtur.

A COMMON-wealth; respublica, democratia,-æ, f. principatus populi.

A COMMON-wealth's-man; democraticus.

A good COMMON-wealth's-man, or statesman; politicus, idoneus patriæ.

An excellent COMMON-wealth's-man, both in peace and war; civis tam in toga, quam in armis illustris, insignis; tum domestica fortitudine, tum militari præstans. Es togatus et paludatus patriæ defensor, propugnator. Consiliis et armis remp. adjuvare, communire. Et foris et domi præsidia stabilitatis, ornamenta dignitatis patriæ procurare. Vir tam domi consilio clarus, quam fortitudine foris admirabilis. Tam in pace quam in bello bene, optime de republica mereri. Cujus ut in bello administrando, conficiendo foris prædicanda est fortitudo, ita in tranquillitate procuranda, in constituenda repub. domi prudentia est singularis. Qui in rebus pacis et belli cum summis hominum utilitatibus versatus est: neque in rebus exteris, forinsecis magis laudandus, quam domesticis institutis. Justitia dubium, validisne potentior armis. Clarum militiæ togæque decus. Quo justior alter Nec pietate fuit, nec bello major et armis. Res patrias armis tutatur, moribus armat, legibus emendat.— Quem Marte togaque præcipuum, non bella magis finita triumphis, quam res domi gestæ extulerunt.

To love the Common-wealth, state, or his country; reipublicæ se totum dedere; nihil nisi reipub. bonum, et utilitatem sibi proponere; in salutem populi patrimonium collocare, suam voluntatem ad publicam causam accommodare, aggregare; animus infixus in patriæ charitate; fidem et animum singularem habere in remp. Insigni in patriam benevolentia et pietate vir. Patriam, terram natalem, altricem, antiquissimam et sanctissimam, parentem clarissimam habere; omni amore, benevolentia, charitate amplecti. Rep. patria nihil habere charius, jucundius, gratius, antiquius. Salutem publicam civium suis opibus, rebus omnibus anteponere. Communis salutis studiosissimus. Salutem patriæ rationibus suis præferre. De reip. salute magis quam de sua solicitum esse. Utilitate civium sic teneri, ut quicquid agit ad eam referat, oblitus commodorum suorum. Magno amore inflammatum esse in patriam, omnes suas curas et cogitationes in reipub. salute defigere; Cic. in Ant.

A man who was of singular and excellent trust, duty, and faithfulness to our Common-wealth; vir, qui singulari extiterit in remp. nostram officio et fide.

We ought not only to consecrate and give ourselves, and all ours, unto, but also to die for, our country and Common-wealth; pro patria et repub. non solum nos totos dedere, et in ea omnia nostra ponere, et quasi consecrare, sed etiam pro ea mori debemus.

I take care of the Common-wealth; in omni voluntate mea quid rationes publicæ ferant, quid resp. postulet, id unum specto, intueor, attendo. Nihil ago, molior, volo, quod reip. rationibus non conducat, expediat, utile sit. Toto animo de publicis commodis ornamentisque cogito. Publicam utilitatem assidue specto. Hæret in animo meo de communibus commodis assidua cogitatio. Publicæ mihi res, fortunæ civium curæ vehementer sunt. Omnis mihi de civitate civibusque cogitatio et cura est. Utilitatem communem meæ spectant curæ omnes et lucubrationes. Meas vigilias curasque ad causam publicam contuli; animus meus in civium meorum utilitate communi fixus et locatus.

To withdraw himself from the affairs of the Common-wealth; a curia, et ab omni parte reipublicæ se subtrahere; Cic. Rerum relinquere habenas; Virg. Clavum imperii demittere, a repub. se submovere, abhorrere a munere forensi et publico.

Those, who are given to pleasures, care not for the honors of the Common-wealth; qui voluptatibus ducuntur missos reipub. faciunt honores.

I resolved to live far from the Common-wealth; vitam a repub. procul habendam decrevi; Sall.

He refuses to govern the Common-wealth any longer; reipublicæ gubernacula tractare diutius recusat.

He had rather live at ease, or idly, than be troubled with the management of the public affairs in the Common-wealth; mallet in otio vivere, quam rempub. administrare, capessere, moderari, regere.

To maintain the safety of the Common-wealth; reipublicæ pacem, salutem, decus, dignitatem, felicitatem, felicem, florentemque statum sustinere, procurare, tueri, sua prudentia communire; sua virtute constituere; sua vigilantia conservare. Manere in custodia, in vigiliis, excubiis pro communi salute. Patriæ commodis egregie consulere. Ad civium salutem omnia referre. Optime de universis promereri. Egregiam reip. operam navare. Beneficus et salutaris patriæ. Patriam innumeris beneficiis obstringere, obligare. Communi utilitati inservire. Homo singularibus, excellentissimis meritis in rempublicam. Se totum et animo et corpore in salutem reip. conferre. Omnes cogitationes, curas, vigilias in reip. salute configere. Rempublicam cervicibus suis, ut cœlum Atlas, sustinere.

The Common-wealth florishing; respublica optima, felix, beata, florentissima, præclarissima; respub. pulcherrime gesta, præclare fundata, præclarissime constituta.

To help the Common-wealth, &c. in trouble; rempublicam suis rebus diffidentem confirmare; opem implorantem adjuvare, suffulcire, defendere, amplecti; affectam, bello confectam reficere; afflictam erigere, labefactatam restituere; perditam recreare, armis obsessam ab exitio vindicare, in angustias abductam liberare, oppressam miseris temporibus ac perditis moribus in libertatem veterem et nitorem asserere. Reipublicæ concidenti dextram porrigere; jacenti opem afferre, laboranti succurrere; præcipitanti subvenire. Omnes reipublicæ ægras, laborantes partes sanare, confirmare. Populi sui labentem fortunam sustinere. A republica, a civium cervicibus pericula, perniciem avertere, propulsare. Pro republica se periculis omnibus offerre, objicere; tempestates adire; pugnas capessere. Civitatem fractam malis, atque debilitatam, abjectam metu, ad spem libertatis et pristinæ dignitatis erigere. Gladios in remp. strictos retundere. A patria pestem, perniciem, pestiferam flammam arcere, repellere. Patriam ab interitu, ex maximis periculis liberare. Opera, consilio, virtute, incredibili studio reip. difficillimo tempore subvenire. Se, fortunasque suas pro salute patriæ, otio, concordiaque devovere. Non modo labores excipere communis commodi causa, ad tutandam remp. liberandæ reip. causa, sed etiam vitam profundere, amittendam putare. Ferre præsidium labanti, occidenti, inclinatæ reipub. Afflictam et prostratam remp. tuis opibus extulisti.

By your authority the Common-wealth will now appear, florish, and abide in some tolerable consistency; auctoritate vestra respub. exsurget, et jam in aliquo statu tolerabili consistet.

By the same authority of yours the Common-wealth will become fixed, and established in riches and forces, great in glory, and honorable in virtue; iisdem vestris auspiciis, respub. opibus firma, copiis locuples, gloria ampla, et virtute honesta, fiet; Cic.

There now appears some face of the Common-wealth revived again; speciem aliquam videor videre, quasi reipub. reviviscentis; Cic.

To rob the Common-wealth, &c.; publicam pecuniam dilapidare, avertere, dissipare, effundere, ex reipublicæ visceribus eripere. Ærarium exhaurire. Vectigalia minuere. De communi utilitate multum detrahere. Peculari. Peculatus reus, damnatus. Peculator, cui pecunia ex ærario publico erogata quæstui fuit. Remp. expilare, compilare, diripere, prædari, exspoliari, quæstui habere, spoliare. Publicam rem conficere.

Except those men be removed from governing the Common-wealth, there will be the greatest danger imaginable of the ruin of the whole; isti nisi a reipub. gubernaculis recesserint, maximum ab universo naufragii periculum est; Cic.

To oppress or hurt the Common-wealth; remp. patriam vulnerare, labefactare, lacerare, dilacerare, evertere, prosternere, convellere, contrucidare, vastare, affligere, perturbare, exscindere, inflammare, perdere, prodere, oppugnare, delere, extinguere, conquassare, infirmare, incendere, violare, opprimere, pessundare; in discrimen, ad vastitatem vocare; omni scelere vexare. Reip. mortiferam plagam, vulnus insanabile infligere; faces injicere; exitio esse; vastitatem, incendium, ruinam, cædem, flammas, pestem, interitum, perniciem, ferrum, exitium, excidium minitari, inferre, denunciare, immittere. Vim suscipere contra remp. Civium vulneribus remp. cruentare. Reip. salutem oppugnare. Nefario patriæ se parricidio obstringere. Patriæ infesta signa inferre; bella facere; funus miserum, acerbum indicere. Patriæ pestis, præda, parricida, lues, fax, furia, calamitas, flamma, funus, bustum, labes et pernicies, ruina, tempestas, occasus, interitusque. Urbi ruinam, funus et imperio parare.

Publius Clodius was the fatal monster, and prodigy of the Common-wealth; Publius Clodius fatale portentum erat, prodigiumque reipub. Cic. So were also Gabinius and Piso, two monsters, and almost the funerals of the Common-wealth; sic etiam Gabinius et Piso, duo reipub. portenta, ac pene funera fuerunt. They brought the common-wealth to fire and destruction; rempub. ad incendium vocaverunt et vastitatem. Their lust utterly destroyed whole cities, and almost the whole common-wealth; eorum libido civitates integras, totamque fere rempub. evertit.

When Catiline was appointed captain, for the fall and ruin of the Common-wealth; cum ad occasum interitumque reipublicæ Catilina dux esset constitutus; Cic.

Then there seemed, as it were, an everlasting night poured out on the Common-wealth; tunc videbatur, tanquam si offusa reipub. sempiterna nox esset.

Remember the dangerous wounds then inflicted on the Common-wealth; vulnera tunc temporis inusta reipub. recordemini; Cic. Yea and now also, the ship of the common-wealth seems to float and to be tossed, as in the deep sea, by the violent tempests of dissensions, discords, and seditions; imo jam etiam, et nunc temporis, reipub. navis fluitare videtur in alto, tempestatibus seditionum et discordiarum.

The Common-wealth is utterly undone or ruined; respublica penitus interiit; periit respublica, concidit, nulla prorsus est, formam plane pristinam amisit; actum est penitus de republica; formam, imaginem, simulachrum veteris reipublicæ nullum agnoscas; vestigium reipublicæ nullum superest; fuit respublica; communis res ita dilapsa est, ut ne spes quidem, melius aliquando fore, prorsus ulla relinquatur; periit omnino reipublicæ salus; non adversa tantum est, verum etiam penitus eversa fortuna reipubl.; fractæ sunt opes, afflictæ vires, amissa dignitas, extincta salus reipublicæ;—fuit Ilium, et ingens Gloria Dardanidum. Fuit respub. eversa jam deletaque. Respublica perculsa et prostrata jacet, periit, concidit.

Alas! for this doleful day of the Common-wealth! O diem illum reipublicæ luctuosum!

The public mischiefs of the Common-wealth daily grow greater and greater; mala reipub. publica indies ingravescunt.

It grieves me that so fair a Common-wealth should thus have fallen; doleo ita communem rem esse delapsam.

We have fallen into the very night, and greatest darkness of the Common-wealth; in reipub. noctem tenebrasque maximas, incidimus.

If they had also fallen into those most terrible tempests of the Common-wealth, and into the most wretched calamity of our times; si modo et ipsi incidissent in atrocissimos reip. fluctus, ac miserandam temporum nostrorum calamitatem; Sall.

It is profitable for the Common-wealth, &c.; reip. conducit, expedit, prodest, interest; utile, salutare, commodum, usui, auxilio, emolumento, adjumento, præsidio, ornamento est. Pertinet, spectat, facit ad reip. emolumentum, commodum, utilitatem. Ex usu reip. futurum est. Multum adjumenti, multas utilitates rebus communibus affert, importat. Ex hoc resp. uberem messem demetet; magnum fructum percipiet; commoditatem feret; compendium parabit. Nihil ad communem salutem utilius.

To restore the Common-wealth; patriæ pietatem præstare, egregiam operam reipub. navare; reipub. in ultimum discrimen adductæ lucem afferre, opem afferre; reipub. non deesse; consulere civium commodis, et eorum utilitati salutique servire; communi commodo inservire; rempub. constantissime, magnopere defendere; rempub. in veterem libertatem restituere; reipub. vulnera sanare; ad civium utilitatem omnia referre; curas suas, et quicquid nobis a Deo datum est, reipublicæ referre.

Those help to restore the Common-wealth, who cut off any flagitious villain, as the plague of the city; hi medentur reipub. qui exsecant pestem aliquam, tanquam strumam civitatis. Such as Clodius, who was the plague of that year, the fury of his country, and the very tempest and prodigy of the common-wealth; qualis erat Clodius, pestis scil. illius anni, furia patriæ, tempestas prodigiumque reipub.; Cic.

Finem scribendi faciam, si te primum rogavero, ut me diligas; epistolæ clausula hæc erit, ut benevolentiam in me tuam abs te petam; epistolam ita concludam; ita finem faciam, imponam; epistolæ clausula hæc erit, ut rogem ut me diligas, teque hortor ad illud studium, unde laus emanat maxima. Cum otii paulum nactus ero, uberiores a me literas expectato.

That at length our speech, or discourse, may be Concluded; ut aliquando nostra terminetur oratio.

Those things which we have spoken of before concerning virtue, let them have this Conclusion; quæ de virtute præfati sumus habeant hunc terminum.

Let it not be tedious to you to Conclude the work, which you have begun; ne graveris exædificare id opus quod instituisti.

The matter was brought to this Conclusion; itum est in hanc sententiam.

I do not find how I shall Conclude this discourse; quemadmodum expediam exitum hujus orationis non reperio.

Formulæ quædam conclusionum:

Nos modum aliquem et finem orationi nostræ facimus; Cic. Sed ut extremum habeat aliquid oratio mea, ut ego ante dicendi finem faciam, quam vos me attente audiendi, concludam illud de optimatibus, &c.; Cic. Quibus de rebus pro Cluentii voluntate nimium, pro reipub. dignitate parum, pro vestra prudentia satis dixisse videor; Cic. Tu religionis nutrix, reipub. mater, principum decus, subditorum solatium, felicissime (nollem dicere) vale. Dominus, &c. tuam clementiam diutissime incolumem servet, tibi adsit, te suo spiritu regat, et omni benedictionum genere cumulatissime ornet. Cesso longius pergere, quia in renumerandis beneficiis jejuna est verborum vicissitudo. Pluribus verbis ad te scriberem, si aut tua humanitas longiorem orationem expectaret, aut id ferre nostra amicitia pateretur. Unde exorta est ut in eo terminetur oratio, &c. longius progredior, &c.

Covetous or near; attentus ad rem.

Covetous or greedy of wealth; inexplebili, inexhausta, insatiabili divitiarum siti, desiderio flagrare, ardere, torreri. Pecuniæ, argenti cupiditate inflammari, cæcum esse. Nullum pecuniæ cupiditati modum statuere, constituere; nullum terminum præfinire. In opibus augendis, congerendis versari, occupari totum. Magno studio ad rem augendam incumbere. Omnia ad suum quæstum, commodum, utilitatem referre, traducere, quasi sibi tantum natum, et suis commodis. Suis vitæ commodis, opibus, lucro studere, inservire, se totum dare. Undique lucrum captare per fas nefasque. Turpi pecuniæ studio, et infinita lucri cupiditate duci, transversum agi. Ad opes, divitias congerendas, coacervandas, cumulandas, inflammato animo, studio rapi, ferri. Homo avarus, sui nimium tenax, appetens et rapax alieni. Animus vastus, avaritia æger, qui nihil satis putat, aliqua re eget, aliquid sibi deesse putat semper, omnes res ad lucrum prædamque revocat; suis commodis, sua utilitate metitur summum bonum, omnia; ita pecuniis inhiat, ut humanitatis obliviscatur; usque eo fervet ferturque avaritia, tanto divitiarum studio tenetur, ut opplendæ cupiditatis gratia nihil sibi non licere putet. Quem tenet argenti sitis importuna famesque. Qui Semper in augenda festinat, et obruitur re, argento post omnia ponit. Cui fervet avaritia miseraque cupidine pectus. Quem tenet opum furiosa cupido, auri sacra fames, amor sceleratus habendi; tristis avaritiæ rabies; Sola parandarum cura fatigat opum. Cui lucri bonus est odor ex re qualibet.

Crassus was ill spoken of, or had an ill name, at Rome, because of his Covetousness; Crassus Romæ ob avaritiam male audiebat. Pessime omnium Romanorum audiebat Crassus, avaritiæ nomine; maxime omnium Romanorum Crassus avaritiæ flagrabat infamia; aurum sitire, opes appetere maxime, unus omnium magis, quam cæteri; præter reliquos, præter cæteros Crassus putabatur; nemini gravior ac turpior in urbe Roma, quam Crasso, inurebatur avaritiæ nota; avaritiæ vitio Crassum magis quam quenquam alium hominem notabat opinio; incumbere ad opes, inhiare divitiis tanto studio, quanto in urbe Roma nemo præterea, Crassus existimabatur.

From Covetousness springs much evil; ex avaritia multa mala proveniunt. Parit avaritia multa mala; existunt, nascuntur, proficiscuntur, proveniunt, effluunt, emanant, exoriuntur, ex avaritia multa mala; multorum malorum causa, origo, principium, fons, radix avaritia est, multorum malorum causa referenda ad avaritiam, conferenda in avaritiam, ascribenda, assignanda, tribuenda avaritiæ est; culpam sustinet avaritia multorum malorum.

Naturally Covetous, or born to be a niggard; natura avarus. Multis argumentis inclinatum, ac natura propensum te ad turpissimum et execrabile vitium avaritiæ judicavi; quod multis argumentis potuerim conjicere, colligere, intelligere, suspicari, ad avaritiæ vitium natura propendes; tua te ad avaritiam natura ducit, avaritiæ studiosus es exhortante natura, naturali quodam studio ad avaritiam inclinas, sequeris avaritiam naturæ inductione.

He is despised for his Covetousness; ob avaritiam vituperatus. Avaritiæ nomine male audis, avaritiæ flagras infamia, laboras infamia; avaritiæ tibi crimen objicitur, exprobratur, in te confertur avaritiæ culpa; tibi avaritiæ nota inuritur; suspectus in primis es avaritiæ nomine, accusaris, reprehenderis, exagitaris, ut in avaritiam pronior, ad avaritiam proclivior, ut homo divitiarum nimis appetens, immoderate sitiens, supra modum cupidus, cupidior quam satis est, nimius in divitiarum cupiditate.

Covetousness; avaritia, cupiditas, sordes, pl. f.

The whole world is too little to satisfy their Covetousness; eorum cupiditati nimis angustus orbis terrarum esse videtur.

Covetousness prefers gain to honesty and shame, and riches to religion; avaritia lucrum pudori, et divitias religioni anteponit. Nam incumbere divitiis dicuntur avari, simul canes in præsepio; Sall.

Covetous wretches the more they possess, the more they covet; avari sordidi, cum possideant plurima, plura petunt; et quo ditiores sunt, eo majoribus accessionibus opes suas augeri et cumulari desiderant; et ad divitias quascunque augendas inflammati aviditate rapiuntur.

The Covetous niggard keeps his money close in his chest; rem familiarem clausam habet avarus.

Covetousness thinks always that something is wanting; aliquid semper deesse putat avarus.

When he had by Covetousness devoured the substance of all the rich; cum omnium locupletum bona avaritia devorasset.

To be inflamed with excessive Covetousness; pecuniæ appetitione nimia inflammari.

For he was so extremely Covetous, that I never saw one comparable to him for that; ardebat enim cupiditate, et inexhausto pecuniarum desiderio, sic ut in nullo unquam flagrantius studium viderim; Cic.

Who ever was so inflamed with Covetousness, or of so unbridled affections? Quis unquam fuit avaritia tam ardenti, aut tam effrænatis cupiditatibus? Cic. Quid fœdius avaritia, quid immanius libidine, quid contemptius timiditate, quid abjectius tarditate et stultitia? Cic.

A mind sick of Covetousness; animus avaritia æger.

The Covetous old fellow is as hard and dry as a stone; he cheats himself, he is so extremely covetous; pumex non æque aridus est, atque hic est senex; defraudat animum geniumque suum, usque eo fervet ferturque avaritia.

A Covetous, hard man; he will not part with a penny; nihil illo tenacius.

They are so Covetous they will have it by hook or crook; if men can but get it, the most care not how; vulgus hominum per fas nefasque lucrum venatur, captat.

Nothing is good to the Covetous but what is profitable; præter lucrum nihil erat dulce.

A Covetous, greedy gaping after gold; auri sacra fames.

He is a Covetous fellow, a very muckworm; non cœlo sed cœno delectatur.

Covetous old wives have tears at command, but will not part with a farthing; avaras aliquot aniculas, e quarum oculis mille lachrymas citius expresseris, quam unum e bulga nummulum.

The Covetous are all for Mammon; usque adeo ditescendi cupidus; Deo lucrio inhiare.

The Covetous are beggars in the midst of their wealth; inter opes mendicus opum.

I COULD; possem, potui.

I never Could; nunquam mihi licitum est; Plaut.

It is debated in COUNCIL; in concilio disputatur.

This being put to the COUNCIL; hac re ad concilium delata; Cæs.

This was the drift of my COUNSEL, purpose, or intent; consilium, consilii scopus. Consilium meum hoc fuit; hoc spectavi; hoc volui; hoc sequutus sum; id egi; huc retuli mea consilia, meas cogitationes; huc animum intendi, mentem direxi, consilia contuli; huc spectavit animus meus; hic animo meo meisque consiliis scopus fuit.

This is my COUNSEL, or advice, if you will be ruled by me; hoc tibi consilii do, tua de laude si laboras, tua si tibi laus curæ est, cordi; te hortor, adhortor, cohortor, suadeo, auctor tibi sum; hoc est meum consilium; mei consilii hoc est; mea hæc est sententia, opinio, meus sensus, meum judicium; ita censeo; ita mihi videtur, placet, probatur, me approbante facies, de mea sententia, meo consilio, meo suasu, me auctore; si me putas quicquam sapere, non esse prorsus insipientem, aliquid videre; si meum consilium habet aliquid apud te ponderis, hoc facies, ages, aggredieris, suscipies, faciendum tibi judicabis.

COUNSEL is to be asked in doubtful matters, or he is to consult with his friends in matters of doubt; consilium in dubiis petendum. Sapientis est, incertis in rebus, dubiis, ambiguis, obscuris, in controversia positis, in aliqua difficultate constitutis, in ancipiti rerum statu amicos consulere, in consilium adhibere, ad amicos referre, ad consilium amicorum confugere, amicorum consilio uti, sententiam exquirere, adre ad amicos consilii causa, petere consilium ab amicis, velle cognoscere quid amicis videatur, quid amici sentiant, qui sit amicorum sensus, quæ sententia, quid habeant opinionis, probent, censeant, judicent, faciendum existiment.

COUNSEL liked or approved of; consilium probatum. Consilium mihi tuum probatur; idem sentio quod tu; meus cum tuo sensus congruit; assentior tibi; tuam sequor sententiam; recte sentire mihi videris; accedo ad tuam sententiam.

It is a hard case to give, or take, COUNSEL in; I know not what to do; it is hard to say what is best; I am at my wits' end; consilium arduum; difficilis deliberatio est; lubricus ad deliberandum locus; consilium capere nescio; valde hæreo; impedita deliberandi ratio; consilium abest; explicare nihil queo; expedire me nequeo; inops consilii, inops a consilio sum; consilium diu frustra quæro.

The issue and end of this COUNSEL is to be feared; I fear to what end this counsel will come; de exitu consilii metuo. Metuo ne id consilii cœperim, quod explicare non facile possim; exitum consilii mei extimesco; consilium a me captum, ut eum, quem volo, exitum habeat, opto magis quam spero; utinam consilio meo respondeat exitus, timeo tamen ne non ita sit; vereor ne non optime quod deliberavi succedat, procedat meum consilium quo sit evasurum, timeo; quam feliciter mihi eventurum sit ex consilio meo plane non video, equidem adversa timeo, metuo, mei consilii qui sit exitus futurus.

Your own COUNSEL is best for you; tuo consilio rectissime uteris. Tuo consilio si uteris, teipsum si audies, ipse tibi si obtemperaveris, morem gesseris, obsecutus fueris, nihil errabis, nihil contra rem tuam, nihil a tuis rationibus alienum committes, non laberis, non offendes, non cecideris; nullam offensionem, nullum casum aut errorem timebis; sapienter statues, recte judicabis, optimam rationem inibis.

I have determined to use your COUNSEL; de tuo consilio decretum; decrevi, constitui, statui, certum consilium cepi, plane animum induxi, nihil ut facerem sine consilio tuo; nisi te approbante, nisi de consilio tuo, nisi tuo consilio uterer, niterer; deliberatum est, constitutum, judicatum, captum consilium.

COURAGEOUS, or bold; audax, fidens, fiducia plenus.

Not COURAGEOUS; degener, ignavus, timidus.

With great COURAGE; enixius.

Without COURAGE; frigide, ignave, timide, abjecte.

In adversity to be of good COURAGE and heart; in diversa fortuna bene animatus. Etsi fortuna mihi charissima quæque abstulit, eripuit, ademit, etsi me orbavit iis rebus omnibus, quæ homini charissima sunt in vita, non faciam tamen, non committam, ut ipse me plane deseram atque destituam, ut omnem plane spem abjiciam, ut ab omni spe animum abducam, ut de meliori statu desperem, ut ad desperationem adducar, redigar; fortuna me prorsus omni spe salutis orbavit, nec tamen nihil spero; exclusa spes omnis videtur esse meliorum rerum, aliqua tamen spe nitor, sustentor.

A noble, COURAGEOUS, constant, and settled mind; novi magnitudinem animi tui, firmitatem, constantiam, vim, robur, fortitudinem, excellentiam, præstantiam, altitudinem, sublimitatem, excelsitatem; novi quam forti animo sis, quam constanti ac firmo; quam non demisso, non humili, non imbecillo, non fracto; quam ad omnem fortunam, ad omnes temporum motus vicissitudinesque, animo stabili ac parato sis.

Most COURAGEOUS, stout and valiant; audax, intrepidus, impavidus, acer, ferox, animosus, magnanimus, strenuus. Ad quodvis facinus promptus, paratus, audax. Animo alto, magno, erecto, invicto, præsenti, infracto, constanti, excelso, generoso, virili; elato, forti, stabili et parato ad omnem fortunam, ad omnes temporum motus vicissitudinesque. Virtute, fortitudine ac vigore animi præstans. Incredibili quodam robore animi septus; animo maximo; magna animi excellentia, invicta animi præstantia, magnitudine, vi, altitudine, constantia, gravitate, firmitudine; robore animi invicto; inviolabili virtute animi præditus. Nullo hostium aspectu, nullo discriminum metu perculsus, territus, perterritus. Vir præter cæteros magnanimus; animi magnitudine insignis; unicum fortitudinis specimen; humana contemnens omnia. Hac in re strenuum hominem præbuit, viri officio functus est. 'Cui inest virtus et mens interrita lethi. Carm. 3. 3. Ad horrida promptior arma. Qui valido fultum robore pectus habet. Magnæ subnixus robore mentis. Sidera qui mundumque potest spectare cadentem, Expers ipse metus. Cui invictum pectore robur; fortia bello pectora.

COURAGE without discretion; magnitudo animi absque prudentia. Sæpe qui magnitudine animi præstant, prudentia minus valent; sæpe contingit, evenit, usu venit, accidit, fieri videmus, non raro fit, non parum, sæpe fit, ut animi magnitudinem comitetur imprudentia; ut in nonnullis magno animo præditis, animo præstantibus, prudentia requiratur, desideretur.

To take COURAGE again, and put away fear; metum, pavorem, terrorem, formidinem exuere, deponere, ponere, expellere, excutere, sistere. Animos, se ex timore colligere, recipere. Calamitate accepta meliores, majores animos habuit, quam unquam rebus secundis. Non infracto animo propter magnitudinem calamitatis, sed confirmato et renovato fuit. Animi suscitare jacentem vim, ad fortitudinem revocare. Remigrat animus nunc demum mihi. Pallor abit, subitæ veniunt in corpore vires. Quondam etiam victis redit in præcordia virtus.—Revocare animos, mœstumque timorem Mittere. Solvere, excutere corde metum. Pavor ossa reliquit.

How much COURAGE have you put into me? quantum dederis mihi pectoris?

I love the COURAGEOUS heart, or the high and valiant mind; amo viros excelso animo. Præstantis animi viros libenter complector, quorum animus viget, qui animo vigent, qui vigore animi præstant, quorum animus excellit, qui animo excellunt, qui sunt excellenti animo, sunt excellenti animo præditi, sunt excellentis animi; in quibus est animi excellentia quædam, præstantia, altitudo, excelsitas, sublimitas, robur, vis; cum his libenter amicitiam contraho, ineo, coeo, instituo, jungo; eos facile amo, amicos mihi libenter adjungo; applico me, adjungo me libenter ad eorum amicitiam; sponte mea et inductione quadam animi ad eorum amicitiam accedo, ad eos amandos propendeo, inclino, me do.

To be in DANGER, or to fall in danger; periclitari, &c. In extremo discrimine, in maximis periculis, insidiis, summo in timore esse, versari. In summum vitæ discrimen, in mortis periculum venire, incidere, conjici. In brevia et scopulos offendere, inter media hostium tela versari. Omnes suas fortunas in extremo habere. In præcipiti, in loco lubrico et ancipiti pendere. Res in extremum est deducta discrimen; ad triarios rediit. Vita in dubium venit. Tua salus agitur. In scopulum incidere quavis Malea periculosiorem. In extremis pene, gravissimisque temporibus.—Ego perditus ensem Hæsurum jugulo jam puto jamque meo. Magnis jactari periculis; periculosæ plenum opus aleæ tractas, et incedis per ignes suppositos cineri doloso.—Insidiis hominum pelagique laboro.

Out of DANGER; securus.

In DANGER of the law; obnoxius legibus.

DANGEROUS; periculosus, lubricus, anceps.

To bring into DANGER; aliquem in salebras, in rerum angustias, in difficultates, in discrimen fortunæ, vitæ, salutis, in summum periculum compingere, compellere, cogere, conjicere, adducere, inducere, perducere, vocare, intrudere; periculis, difficultatibus subjicere, objicere, exponere. Alicui periculum creare, conflare, conficere, moliri, inferre, periculum mortis injicere. Alicujus vitam, fortunas omnes tentare, convellere. In Syrtes, scopulos, brevia, flammas, procellosum mare; Scyllam et Charybdin, hostium tela, insidias impellere, conjicere, &c.

To run into DANGER; extremum periculum adire; pericula, incertam aleam, fortunam subire; in periculum, procellas, flammas, tempestates irruere, ingredi, irrumpere, incurrere, præcipitare se ultro, sponte, volentem libentemque. Dimicationes et pericula capitis appetere ultro. Se difficultatibus involvere, temere in discrimen conjicere, in angustias redigere prudentem, in medios hostes, in media hostium tela devovere, telis hostium objicere, in præcipitium, vitæ periculum dare. Ut in fabulis Amphiaræus, sic ego prudens et sciens in pestem ante oculos positam sum profectus. Leonem stimulare; irritare crabrones. Serpentem in sinu fovere. E nassa escam petere. Sibi periculum accersere, creare.—Caput objectare periclis. Animas in aperta pericula mittunt, se conjiciunt, projiciunt.

To escape DANGER; periculum, pœnam, calamitatem, malum, impetum hostium, arma, tela, vim, insidias, laqueos declinare, avertere, effugere, subterfugere. Procellam temporis devitare. Ex insidiis, mucronibus hostium eripi, elabi, ex laqueis avolare, evadere, se expedire, explicare, exuere. E salebris, vadis emergere, eluctari, enavigare. Exitum reperire ex angustiis. De manibus hostium elabi, latere, tecto abscedere. Cum sarcinis enatare. Ex malis emergere. Modico flexu corporis ictum fallere, frustrare. Periculis defunctus. Scopulos prætervectus. Posthac incolumem sat scio fore me, nunc si devito hoc malum.—Cervice securim excutere.

To do amiss herein is very perilous: if you shall do otherwise than well, great DANGER and harm is like to ensue thereupon; error perniciosus. Offensionem inprimis esse periculosam; magno tibi futuram damno, tibi affirmo, siquid offendes, errabis, secus efficies, committes, peccabis, laberis, si culpam commiseris, si quam in culpam incideris, si te minus honeste, minus sapienter gesseris, si te, quem non decet, cum præbueris, magno tibi constabit, non mediocre damnum, non levis jactura consequetur; tuam culpam gravi damno solves, magna mercede redimes, gravissime lues.

Who will gladly bear any office, or rule the commonwealth, the state standing thus DANGEROUS? qui rempublicam capesset tantis propositis periculis? Quis rempubl. attinget; rempubl. capessere, suscipere, tractare, ad rempubl. se conferre audeat, tot periculorum metu proposito, qui sibi tot impendere, imminere pericula intelligat? Quis operam reipublicæ dare, in republ. versari, rempubl. gerere, administrare; ad rempublicam sua studia conferre, tot periculis impendentibus, imminentibus, animum inducat, facile ac libenter velit?

In the same DANGER; in eodem fortunæ periculo. In eadem es navi, eodem discrimine versaris, idem tibi periculum impendet; æque tua salus agitur, tuæ fortunæ periclitantur, eadem tibi imminet calamitas, æque periclitaris; in iisdem navigas fluctibus; eodem jactaris vento; eadem te procella perturbat; eodem loco res tuæ sunt; versaris in eodem periculo, in eadem fortuna, eadem te fortuna manet, tibi impendet, tibi imminet, te urget; pari es conditione; par, similis, eadem, non dissimilis, non dispar, non alia tua conditio est; non minus de te agitur, tua res æque agitur; de tua re itidem agitur, in periculum tua res adducitur, venit, periclitatur, periculum subit; eadem tibi instant mala, haud melius tecum agetur, haud meliore loco res tuæ erunt; non tibi erit melius; meliore loco res et fortunæ tuæ non erunt.

He is continually in DEBT; ære alieno quotidie degravatur, deprimitur, premitur, immergitur.

He is all men's DEBTOR; immodico ære alieno tenetur.

The commons of Rome being deep in DEBT; plebs Romana ære alieno demersa; Liv.

He was not able to pay his DEBT; cui non erat solvendo.

To contract a new DEBT; novum æs alienum contrahere.

To be in no DEBT, in ære alieno nullo esse.

Lest he should seem able to pay his DEBTS; ne videatur esse solvendo.

He is in DEBT over head and ears; inundavit æris alieni magnitudo; obruitur ære alieno.

A spendthrift, one that is more in DEBT than he is worth; decoxerat rem, et plusquam animam ille debebat; debitorum mole prægravari.

He was loath to die in DEBT; solicitus, ne quid æris alieni præteriretur indissolutum.

You are never able to pay your DEBTS, though you should sell yourself to your shirt; etiamsi omnium rerum tuarum auctionem feceris, non es solvendo tamen.

He was in every tradesman's books; on every man's score for DEBT; alieni multum æris, plus satis, conflaverat.

None more in DEBT than—; nulli magis obærati sunt quam—.

I must needs break, I am so much in DEBT; tandem obruar oportet ære alieno.

You have been a long while in my DEBT; multi jam anni sunt, tu in ære meo cum fueris; cui me maxime obæratum esse non invitus fateor.

He dares not show his head for DEBT; in foro non comparet.

If we consider the good offices for which we are greatly in DEBT to you; si beneficiorum momenta perpendamus, quibus tibi sumus obligati, obstricti, mancipati.

For I am DEBTOR to you for innumerable good offices; innumerabilibus quippe beneficiis sum tibi pignoratus.

To DECAY, or fail; deficere, occidere, languere, concidere, consumi.

To DECAY, or perish with age; senescere, consenescere; ætate, longo situ, temporis diuturnitate, longinquitate, mora, vetustate, spatio temporis longo, ævi diuturnitate, annorum longa serie, multis seculis, ætatibus, senio, ipso vetustatis vitio quasi exacta periodo perire, interire, intermori, labi, collabi, dilabi, deperire, disperire, cadere, ruere, corruere, senescere, consenescere, inveterascere, occidere, desinere, labascere, mutari, dissolvi, flaccescere, evanescere, defluere, deflorescere, fatiscere, pessum abire, contabescere, deleri, aboleri, consumi, ruinam minitari, deficere, vitium facere, imminui, atteri. Ævo cedere. Morbo aut vetustate deflorescit formæ dignitas. Opere aut manu factum nihil est, quod aliquando non conficiat et consumat vetustas.

To DECAY, or grow worse; ruere in pejus, degenerare.

My memory DECAYS, is gone to decay; memoria minuitur; Cic.

The house is gone to DECAY; ædes vitium ferunt; Cic.

The state is gone to DECAY; inclinata res est; Petron.

Things are gone to DECAY through age; propter vetustatem obsoleverunt res; Cic.

When his estate was gone to DECAY; inclinatis rebus suis; Petron.

Thy stock is DECAYED, or impaired; res familiaris imminuta. Fortunæ tuæ dissipantur; res familiaris tua disperditur, disjicitur; imminuitur, perditur, damnis afficitur, accipit injuriam, distrahitur; detrahitur de tuis fortunis; injuriose tractantur fortunæ tuæ; damna inferuntur fortunis tuis; invaduntur fortunæ tuæ; irruitur, impetus fiunt in fortunas tuas.

To DECAY, or come to nought; vergere in deterius, degenerare in pejus, indies in pejus labi, deflectere; ad deterius dilabi; abire pessum; Plaut. A magnis relabi ad minima.

It is DECAYED almost to nothing; sed nec vola, nec vestigium, ut aiunt, jam superest.

The commonwealth is quite DECAYED; affecta et prostrata est respublica.

By sloth and idleness, strength, time, age, and wit DECAY; per socordiam, vires, tempus, ætas, ingenium defluxere; Sall.

But that family, having had its course, DECAYED; verum hæc familia, exacta periodo, intercidebat.

Which walls now DECAY through age; quæ nunc mœnia sensim expugnat vetustas.

That town, &c., but now DECAYED through age, is, as it were, expired; oppidum id, &c. nunc vero vetustate prolapsum, quasi animam efflavit.

The Roman empire daily DECAYING; Romano imperio in occasum elanguente, vergente, præcipitante; cum res Romana jam in occasum devergeret.

But now it is miserably DECAYED and ruined; sed nunc in miserandam concidit ruinam.

To be utterly DECAYED and undone; ad nihilum decidere, venire; ad interitum ruere.

The majesty of beauty is DECAYED by old age; formæ dignitas vetustate extinguitur.

To DECEIVE, or beguile one; aliquem astute fallere; insidiose supplantare, perfide fraudare, callide circumvenire, vafre eludere, præstigiis, sutelis; consutis, consarcinatis dolis, fraudibus, technis, omni fraude, perfidia decipere, illudere, ludificare, ludificari, irretire, deludere, oppugnare, in fraudem allicere, inducere, impellere, phaleratis dictis ducere. Alicui fabricas, fallacias, dolos tendere, ponere, componere, collocare, facere, struere, intendere, admovere, invenire; verborum præstigio fucum facere, imponere, verba dare. Subdole, malitiose ac dolose, de insidiis, ex insidiis agere, facere quid. Cuniculos agere. Dolo malo uti. Arte tractavit hominem. Tragulam injicere, sublinere os, palpum obtrudere alicui. —Varias innectere fraudes. Animo versare dolos. Omnibus ille dolis, atque omni nititur arte. Fallere mille modis, componere fraudes, insidiis hominum deludere mentes.

To DECEIVE one's expectation; frustrari, ludere, ludificari.

When he saw himself entrapped, or DECEIVED, he would have rid himself of life; ex intellecta fraude desperatio. Ubi se fraudatum, in fraudem inductum, fraude circumventum, irretitum, captum, deceptum, fictis verbis inductum, fallaciis a veritate abductum sensit, intellexit, vidit, cognovit, ubi fraus illi patuit, manifestæ fallaciæ fuerunt, patefactus dolus, ipsi sibi manus afferre conatus est, voluntariam sibi mortem inferre, consciscere, voluntaria morte vitam abrumpere.

I was DECEIVED; spe excidi. Spes me fefellit; opinione sum deceptus, falsa me spes aluit, falsa lactavit opinio.

You have DECEIVED my expectation; expectationem meam fefellisti. Fefellisti opinionem meam, tractasti me secus, atque existimabam, non eum in me, quem putabam te præstitisti; expectationi meæ nequaquam respondisti, cum animo meo tua facta non conveniunt, consentiunt, congruunt; prorsus te alium, atque arbitrabar, sum expertus, re ipsa cognovi, sensi; non præstas mihi eum animum, quem debes.

You are DECEIVED; falsus es; erras; Ter.

He is not easily to be DECEIVED; it is not easy to deceive him; huic verba dare difficile est; Ter.

To DECEIVE with false judgment, procured by bribery or confederacy; circumvenire.

To DECEIVE a deceiver; captatorem capere; cum vulpe vulpinari; imponere impostori. Malo nodo malus cuneus; pulchre fefellit vulpem.

They are DECEIVED, or mistaken; tota via, toto cœlo, vehementer errant, turpiter hallucinantur. In errore magno versantur. In errorem maximum inducuntur, impelluntur. A via, a veritate, a vero aberrant, digrediuntur, declinant, deflectunt, divertunt, longissime absunt.

Decipiuntur multum, plurimum. Opinione falluntur maxime. Aliter longe se res habet, quam illi opinantur. Aliter sentiunt ac res est. Gravissimo errore ducuntur, tenentur. Graviter impingunt. Cæcutiunt hac in re. A recto veritatis tramite præcipites eunt. In ea sunt hæresi ut credant, &c. Eorum vagatur animus errore. Hallucinatio crassa.

To ensnare or entrap by DECEIT, or falsehood; aliquem incautum, imprudentem insidiis, subdolis artibus aggredi, obsidere, petere, irretire, opprimere; cuniculis oppugnare, retibus implicare, in insidiis intercludere, in casses inducere, in nassam, in laqueos attrahere, insidiosissime tractare. Vitam alicujus appetere insidiis. Alicui clam insidiari; dolum, mala, insidias, periculum, perniciem nihil suspicanti machinari, nec opinanti moliri. Vitæ alicujus insidias ponere, tendere, parare, texere, comparare, componere, facere, struere. Retia distendere capiendæ prædæ. Aliena malis artibus intercipere, invertere.

To be ensnared or entrapped by DECEIT; per imprudentiam in fraudem duci, trahi. Perfidorum dolis, insidiatorum laqueis, adversariorum consiliis, insidiis implicari, capi, teneri, irretiri, illaqueari, impediri. Callide, astute ab inimicis circumveniri. Alicujùs perfidia, insidiis, artibus, fraude opprimi, in angustias cogi, in extremum discrimen adduci.

A DECEITFUL, false knave; veterator, impostor callidus. Homo perfidus, mendax, fallax, subdolus, malitiosus, mendaciis compositus, constans, concretus; lubrica, nulla, Punica, Græca fide, mala fide agens omnia, fidem sanctissimam fallens. Dolis instructus et arte Pelasga. Dolorum fabricator. Qui facere assueverat candida de nigris, et de candentibus atra.

Somewhat inclined to DECEIT and knavery; instruendæ fraudi aliquantum intensior.

Lest that thing should DECEIVE any one afterwards; ne cui deinceps ea res fraudi esset; Cic.

In which they have DECEIVED both themselves and us; in quo et sibi et nobis fucum fecerunt; Cic.

He is too well acquainted with, or accustomed in, all sorts of DECEIT and knavery; nectendis fraudibus, parandis dolis, aut insidiis struendis, nimis est assuetus.

In which they DECEIVE their trust, and contrary to their duty, they contrive deceit wickedly; in quo datam fidem fallunt, et, contra officium, fraudem nefarie moliuntur.

Most DECEITFULLY to abuse one; insidiosissime aliquem tractare.

They seem to speak out aloud their wickedness and DECEIT; malitiam eorum, et calliditatem clamitare videntur; Cic.

And do you now require me to free or withdraw myself by these DECEITS? etiamque me nunc subducere istis dolis postulas?

After that manner was I smoothly DECEIVED; ad illum modum sublotum est os mihi.

Being once DECEIVED, you will take uncertain things for certain, and false things for true; circumventus semel, incerta pro certis habebis, falsa pro veris.

I hate those DECEITFUL tricks, by which truth is covered, and involved with intricacy; odi artes illas fraudulentas, quibus veritas, ut involucro quodam, obtegitur; Cic.

Neither was I DECEIVED in that matter; neque ea res me falsum habuit.

But he is DECEIVED in that his expectation; verum hac spe frustratus est.

Yea, in all things you are DECEIVED; immo, in rebus omnibus imprudentia laberis.

To be DECEIVED by fair, false, and feigned words; verbis et dictis, fictis, fucatis, phaleratis, de veritatis via detorqueri, deflecti.

To be cunningly DECEIVED by his enemies; callide ab inimicis circumveniri.

To fall unawares into the DECEIVING cheats of false men; in perfidorum laqueos imprudenter incidere.

A man free from all DECEIT and fraud; homo cujus ab astutiis animus abhorret, ab omni dolo, omnique fraude, purus, alienus; nulla simulatione tectus.

You do not DECEIVE me, I know you well enough; nihil me fallis, nisi te prorsus non novi.

DECEIVE not yourself; you cannot deceive me; the deed shows itself;

ne tibi blandiaris, res ipsa adest in foribus.

Do not mock and DECEIVE me; cave mihi verba ne dederis.

See you DECEIVE me not; ne me deluseris.

He would DECEIVE and cheat his own father; patri fortassis suo impositurus; retia is sua tendit omnibus.

I am DECEIVED; captus sum.

Here is yet no DECEIT; nondum video præstigium.

That you may not be DECEIVED; ne quid erres.

Except both my eyes and mind DECEIVE me; nisi me fallit animus, aut parum prospiciunt oculi.

I would not DECEIVE you with vain hopes; nolim te vana spe lactare.

And so the DECEIVER was deceived; sic impositum est impostori; fallaciam fallacia trudere; næ! tu Cretensem pulchre agebas cum Cretensi.

I am DECEIVED, if—, &c.; aut ego prorsus hallucinor, aut—, &c.

That you should not think I intend to DECEIVE you; ne quid fraudis suspiceris, videbis.

If you DECEIVE me now, I will never trust you more; si fefelleris, posthac nequicquam mecum egeris.

Do not DECEIVE my expectation; cave luseris expectantem.

You basely DECEIVED me; tu non cibum dedisti, sed venenum.

You may soon DECEIVE and beguile such; his facile imponitur.

The old fox will not soon be DECEIVED; you cannot catch old birds with chaff; difficile est, video, annosam vulpem laqueo capere.

You are not much DECEIVED; non procul aberras a scopo.

He DECEIVED and cheated the man of his money; argento hominem emunxit suo; præstigiis illum suis et technis fallunt consarcinatis.

I will outface DECEIT with cunning; dolum ego hodie superabo dolis.

I will never trust man again, if such a man as you DECEIVE me; si tua me fides fefellerit, ne ipsi quidem fidei suum deinceps habiturus fidem.

That hope or expectation of mine has often DECEIVED me; sæpe me hæc mea spes frustrata est.

But so it is plain that I was DECEIVED and cheated of my gold; sic autem palam est, me auro esse emunctum.

You must seek somebody else, whom you may DECEIVE and cheat; quære alium, quem tu habeas frustratui.

And you are much DECEIVED in your opinion if you make account of him by his estate and riches, and not by philosophical learning; et longe hujus animi frustra es, si eum ex fortunæ indulgentia, non ex philosophiæ censura metiris.

They commanded by these false and DECEITFUL letters; literis illis pellicibus, et pellacibus, mandaverunt.

But all my reason and judgment abhors those DECEITFUL enticements of the ears; sed omnes aculei judicii mei, aurium hisce delinimentis refragantur.

He intends to put some DECEITFUL trick upon you, but I know not what art he uses for it; tragulam in te injicere adornat, sed nescio quam fabricam facit.

We will blind his eyes with various arts and learned DECEITS, and so we shall make him that he shall not perceive what he sees; variis ei nos laceris fabricis, edoctis dolis, glaucomam ob oculos objiciemus, eumque ita faciemus, ut quod viderit, non viderit.

If there be not a DECEITFUL trick put upon you there; si tibi illic non os oblitum est fuligine.

Be silent, till I acquaint you with my DECEIVING stratagems, that so you may know my resolutions, as well as myself; tace, dum in regionem astutiarum mearum te induco, ut scias juxta mecum mea consilia.

The old cheating knave has DECEIVED me; me larva ludificatus est veterator.

They are greatly DECEIVED; errore magno versantur.

To speak DECEITFULLY, or equivocate; æquivoce, ambigue, loqui.

While we were packing up for DEPARTURE; dum paramus abitum.

Whither are you DEPARTING? quo tu nunc abis?

Avaunt, sirrah, I will make you DEPART hence; sed interim te hinc submoveto.

I got some money into my purse, and away DEPARTED I; corraso viaticulo, furtim me subduxi procul a patria.

Else they will DEPART and be gone; cæteroquin abeunt.

Whither is he DEPARTED now? quo nunc se proripit ille?

As soon as ever he was DEPARTED, and his back turned; qui simul ac pedem limine extulisset.

I was very loth to DEPART; it was a very death to me; ita sum avulsus a vobis, quasi a corpore anima.

To DEPEND, or hang down; pendere, dependere.

The cause DEPENDS; sub judice lis est.

To DEPEND one on another by mutual consequence; reciprocare, cohærere, mutuo se inferre.

To DEPEND, or rely on; ab aliquo pendere. Aliquo, alicujus fide, opibus, auctoritate niti, quasi adminiculo niti. Tuo fretus auxilio sum. Te, in te spectamus unicum; te perfugium, aram quo confugiamus; positam in te spem, repositam habemus. In tua auctoritate, fide acquiescimus. Sub umbra tua delitescimus. Tuis fulti, suffulti opibus ac potentia sumus. In te omnes nostræ spes opesque sitæ sunt. Cujus humeris, cervicibus, resp. ut Atlante cœlum sustinetur.

It is a miserable thing to DEPEND on other men's credit, money, friendship, &c.; miserum aliorum incumbere famæ, pecuniæ, amicitiæ, &c.

Whom I DEPENDED on for direction in all my actions; quos ego habui omnium mearum actionum monitores.

I perceived that Antony DEPENDED on no other place for refuge or retreat, but in these parts; animadverti nullum alium receptum Antonium habere, quam in his partibus.

To DEPEND on the fidelity of friends, as on the altar, for safety; ad amicorum fidem, tanquam ad salutis aram, confugere.

To DEPEND on any thing for help; adniti ad aliquid tanquam adminiculum.

In this common cause the whole commonwealth DEPENDS, and, as it were, hangs on your shoulders; universam rempub. in hac causa vestris cervicibus, humeris, sustinetis.

Let me thus much DEPEND and rely on you; hanc sine me spem ferre tui.

Our neighbours, our children, and the whole country round about DEPEND on us alone, neither have they any thing else to depend on; proximi, liberi nostri, totaque circumjacens regio spectat in nos solos, neque aliud ullum habere potest perfugium.

The whole city and all good men will DEPEND and rely on you alone for safety; in te unum se tota convertit civitas, te solum omnes boni intuebuntur, tu eris unus, in quo nitatur civitatis salus; Cic.

I had whereon I might DEPEND and rely, in whom I might have quietness, and in whose pleasant discourse and counsel I might lay down all my cares and griefs; habebam quo confugerem, in quo conquiescerem, et in cujus sermone et suavitate, omnes curas doloresque deponerem; Cic.

To DEPEND and rely on the best and the strongest reasons; optimis firmissimisque rationibus niti.

But they DEPENDING on their innocence, relying on their nobility, and trusting to their power, &c. feared nothing; ast illi innocentia freti, nobilitate nixi, potentia fulti, nihil metuebant; Cic.

But I, DEPENDING on your ready understanding, will discourse more briefly than the cause itself requires; sed ego, fretus intelligentia vestra, disseram brevius, quam ipsa causa desiderat; Cic.

The one Depends and relies on my counsels, the other on my estate, how little soever it is; alter meis consiliis, alter meis opibus, quantulæcunque sunt, nititur ac sustentatur.

My safety Depends on that, or on him; salus mea in ea re, in eo, vertitur; Liv.

Upon that word the whole cause Depended; ex eo verbo tota causa pendebat.

That affair is the greatest and chief of all, on which the safety of all Depends; res hæc longe est maxima, in qua salus omnium inclusa est.

He Depends on, or hopes in, him alone; spem repositam in eo solo habet.

On whom his chief credit and esteem Depend; in quo ejus summa existimatio agitur.

On thee alone all my estate and hopes Depend; in te uno omnes opes spesque meæ sitæ sunt.

He Depends securely on his authority; in auctoritate ejus tuto delitescebat.

On thee the commonwealth Depends; in te exposita est respublica.

It is a shameful thing for a wise man, to Depend on the speeches or discourses of madmen; turpe est sapientem ex insipientium sermone pendere. Or to depend on the error of the ignorant multitude; vel ex errore imperitæ multitudinis pendere; Cic.

He is a miserable man, who has all his hope, his reason, and his resolution, Depending on fortune; cui omnis spes, et ratio, et cogitatio, pendet ex fortuna, miser est.

In that, the chief part of the judgment, yea the whole cause, Depends; in hoc summa judicii, causaque tota, consistit.

The hope and safety of some Depend on him; spes aliquorum in eo posita, et salus est defixa, collocata; Cic.

He always thought that his safety Depended on the safety of the commonwealth; salutem suam in salute reipub. repositam semper arbitrabatur.

He thinks that his life Depends on mine; in mea vita suam positam esse arbitratur.

Their safety Depends on very small and slender ground of hope; eorum salus spe exigua extremaque dependet.

That all Depends on you; in voluntate tua totum id versatur; Cic.

To DEPOPULATE, or spoil, or unpeople a country; depopulari; oram aliquam, tractum, agros hostium, omnem regionem, omnia hostili more, bello, flammis, ferro, cæde, incendiis, rapinis populari, depopulari, vastare, devastare, vexare, delere. Ferro et flamma longe lateque grassari. Agrum cultissimum in solitudinem, in fumum et cineres redigere, vertere, ad exitium, ad vastitatem vocare. Omnem terram, loca omnia spoliis exinanire, rapinis exhaurire. Prædas ex hostico maximas agere: conterere, atterere, affligere, pessundare, conculcare et dissipare, diripere omnia.

To DEPOSE, or turn one out of office; magistratu abdicare, loco movere, exauctorare.

To Depose a king; solio exturbare, regia potestate exuere.

To Depose, or swear to a thing, as witness; liquido jurare, adhibito juramento testari, jurejurando affirmare.

To Depose, or degrade from dignity; ab excelso loco deturbare, detrudere.

To DEPRIVE, or bereave; privare, viduare, orbare, spoliare.

To Deprive, or disinherit one's son; filium abdicare, exhæredare.

A city Deprived of citizens; urbs viduata civibus.

DESERT, or merit; meritum.

Without Desert; immerito, immerenter, adv., injuria, abl.

According to my Desert; pro eo ac mereor; Cic.

Let him have according to his Deserts; quod meritus sit, ferat; Ter.

According to your Desert; pro merito; Ter. ex merito; Ovid. pro dignitate cuique tribuatur; Cic.

Consideration should be had of Desert; delectus esset dignitatis; Cic.

He shall have his Deserts; præmium se dignum feret; Ter.

To DESERVE; mereri, promereri.

To Deserve well or ill at one's hands; bene, male mereri de aliquo.

A Deserving person; vir dignus, homo quantivis pretii.

According as I Deserve; pro eo ac mereor; Cic.

You think you Deserve to be praised for that—; tibi id laudi ducis, quod—; Ter.

I Deserved it; jure obtigit; Ter.

It Deserves to be praised; laudabile est; Cic.

Served as he Deserved; ornatus ex virtutibus; Ter.

It is no more than what you Deserve; meritum est tuum; Ter.

I have Deserved no such thing at your hands; immerito meo mihi hoc facis; Plaut. Frater me accusat, nullo meo in se merito; Liv.

I shall never Deserve your benefits or good offices; officia tua nunquam rependam, remunerabor, compensabo, officiis paribus adæquabo, &c.

No Desert; nulla merita. Non valde de me meritus es, non magna in me beneficia contulisti; gravia non sunt, exigui momenti, parvi ponderis ea, quæ mea causa fecisti; beneficium vel a te nullum accepi, vel accepi minimum; exigua sunt, quæ apud me beneficia collocasti, posuisti: non magnis a te sum affectus beneficiis; beneficia tibi debeo non ita magna; obligasti me, obstrinxisti, devinxisti mediocribus officiis.

I shall never requite your Deserts; nunquam tua merita compensabo. Nullam unquam tuorum meritorum partem assequar; nunquam ne minima quidem ex parte tuis in me meritis satisfaciam; nunquam omnino tibi solvam quantum debeo, ac ne ulla quidem ex parte; officia tua nunquam rependam, remunerabor, remetiar, compensabo, officiis paribus æquabo. Merita tua non assequor. Nunquam non modo referenda, sed ne cogitanda quidem gratia, tuum beneficium consequar; tantum tibi debere existimo, quantum persolvere difficile est; cui re vix referre gratias possum, ei verbis non patitur res satisfieri; magna ejus in me sunt, non dico officia, sed merita; magnus ad tua pristina erga me studia cumulus accedit, incredibilem tibi quendam amorem, et omnia in te summa ac singularia studia debeo.

I will endeavor, and, I hope, effect it, that you shall be glad I have so well Deserved of you; enitar, et, ut spero, consequar, ut te de me optime esse meritum læteris.

I will do what I can, that I may Deserve your civilities, by repaying them; dabo operam, ut officia tua rependam; conabor paribus officiis benevolentiam tuam mereri; quantum in me est voluntati tuæ morem geram; benignitatem tuam remunerabor; humanitatis tuæ officia compensabo.

Your Deserts are so great, and so many towards me, that I cannot express them; tot tantaque sunt tua in me merita, ut nequeo verbis exprimere.

How much have you Deserved of me? quantum in ære tuo sum?

You have Deserved so much from me, by your bountiful kindness, that it requires and challenges all my study, endeavor, and industry, to requite it; benignitas et benevolentia in me tua, omne meum studium, omnem conatum et compensandi industriam postulat, vendicat, exigit.

What is it, which you do not Deserve of me? is it not in our power to give you a sufficient requital; tua causa quid est quod non debeo? grates persolvere dignas non opis est nostræ.

Whom you suspect to have a DESIGN on the office of a Decemvir; quos odorari hunc Decemviratum suspicamini; Cic.

He Desires but reason; æquum postulat; Ter.

I Desire you to remember; te rogo, ut memineris; Cic.

You might not have done it, though you had Desired it; nec si cuperes, tibi facere licuisset; Cic.

I Desire to see you as soon as may be; te exopto quamprimum videre; Cic.

You have got a wife, such as you Desired; habes ita ut voluisti uxorem; Ter.

All that Desire to be approved of; omnes qui probari volunt; Cic.

There was nothing that I Desired more, than—; nihil mihi potius (optatius) fuit, quam, ut—; Cic. nihil est quod malim, quam—; Cic. nihil mihi longius est, quam ut te videam; Cic.

He bade me Desire this courtesy of you; hoc petere me precario a vobis jussit; Plaut.

I Desire you to let him come back; te oro, ut redeat; Ter.

He Desires to speak with me; me conventum esse expetit; Ter.

Hindered by a Desire of getting learning; discendi studio impediti; Cic.

They have the same Desires; quibus eadem studia sunt; Cic.

What I have a great Desire to; quod valde volo; Cic.

He Desired me to do what I could, that—; egit mecum, ut darem operam, ne—; Cic. mecum egisti—; Cic.

If it fall out according as we Desire—; si ex sententia successerit; Cic.

What I had a great Desire to—; quod maxime optabam; Cic.

It is not my Desire that—; nihil postulo, ut—; Cic.

Since I see you Desire it; quando te id video desiderare; Cic.

I Desire no more; sat habeo; Ter.

I Desire you would not—; peto a te ne—; Cic.

Out of a Desire of glory; money; propter gloriæ cupiditatem; —pecuniæ aviditatem; Cic.

I Desire but this of you; hoc modo te obsecro; Ter.

I have a Desire to know; scire aveo; Cic.

My Desire is, that—; quod peto et volo, ut—; Ter.

Is this your Desire? or is it this that you desired? hoccine quæsisti? Ter.

He hath done my Desire; votum meum implevit; Curt.

They had Desired to be put on that service; sibi id muneris depoposcerant; Cæs.

You have a greater Desire to it than I; in eo tu meipsum cupiditate vincis; Cic.

A Desire of name or glory, or to be made famous; studium famæ. Id est omnibus optandum, ut bene audiant; bene ut ei dicatur, honestam famam, egregium nomen, bonam apud homines opinionem consequatur; ut ejus nomen fama divulget, pervulget, circumferat, circumgestet, per orbem terrarum dissipet, ad ultimas terrarum partes, ad ultimas terras pervehat, ut ejus nomen fama celebretur, omnium sermonibus extollatur, sit in ore omnium, ut nominis fama ad extremas terras pervadat.

All men Desire a long life; diuturnam vitam omnes expetunt. Ecquis est qui diuturnam vitam non amet, non cupiat, non exoptet, expetat? Cui diuturna vita non placet? qui diu vivere non cupit? diu vitam agere, diuturnam ducere, traducere, vitam agere, transigere, vivere, diuturna lucis usura frui, diu inter homines agere, cum hominibus versari, in terris morari.

A Desire to seek out; studium pervestigandi. Ut poetarum fabulæ narrant, diu ac multum Proserpinam filiam, quam inferorum deus Pluto surripuerat, Ceres perquisivit, investigavit; multum studii posuit; valde vigilavit Ceres in filia perquirenda; omnia loca permeavit, perlustravit, investigavit, penetravit; quo non adivit, non accessit, ut filiam Ceres reperiret, nullam Ceres locum, nullas in quærenda filia latebras omisit.

To Desire much, or long for, and after; ex desiderio rei laborare; non mediocriter captare; vehementi animi affectu rapi; ingenti affectu, omnibusque votis rem aliquam expetere, exoptare; cupidine rei alicujus capi; macerare se, angi, discruciari, desiderio; jucunda cupiditate aliquid expectare; in magna expectatione esse; longo alicujus desiderio torqueri: item, inhiare, per translationem dicitur, pro, vehementer cupere: et sic cum dat. vel accus. construitur: sic et, adhinnire, apud Cic. pro, impotenti cupiditate gestire.

To DESIRE extremely one taken away; aliquem suspirare ademptum.

DIGNITY; dignitas, amplitudo, honor.

Dignity or honor impaired; dignitas imminuta. Violari tuam dignitatem, imminui, offendi, lædi, oppugnari, damno affici, injurias pati, detrahi de tua dignitate, minui, auferri, jacturam fieri tuæ dignitatis inique patior; nihil unquam feci, quod contra tuam existimationem esse vellem; si res exiget, pro tua dignitate vitam libentissime profundam.

I will so order the matter, that he shall set all his mind to the furtherance of your honor and Dignity; dignitati tuæ serviet. Dabo operam, ut Francisci animum ab omni alia cogitatione ad tuam dignitatem tuendam traducam, convertam; ut Franciscus omnia sua studia tuam ad dignitatem conferat, tua in dignitate figat, locet, statuat, ponat, tuæ dignitati dicet, dicata velit, assignat, dedat.

Honor or Dignity envied at; dignitas invisa. Sunt quos meus in hac republica splendor offendat, quos mea dignitas angat, urat, torqueat, excruciet, pungat, gravius afficiat, quibus dolori sit honor meus, quos amplitudo mea lædit, male habeat, dolore molestiaque afficiat.

An especial regard of Dignity and honest estimation; dignitas spectanda. Hoc primum te moneo, ut referas omnia ad dignitatem; propositum decus tibi sit ante omnia, dignitati servias, dignitatem spectes, sequaris; dignitatis rationem habeas, nihil cogites a dignitate disjunctum, nihil alienum a dignitate, nihil non cum dignitate, non cum dignitate conjunctum; tuorum consiliorum, tuarum actionum finis, terminus, scopus honor sit; prima tibi sit,,præcipua, antiquissima dignitatis cura.

Keeping my honor and Dignity; servata dignitas. Sit modo dignitas incolumis adimi de fortuna non recuso; licet modo dignitatem tueri, incolumem servare, permaneat dignitas in eodem statu; modo ne cogar de statu meæ dignitatis demigrare, sit eadem dignitas, ne mutetur, ne diminuatur; ne lædatur, ne qua injuria, damno, detrimento, afficiatur; ne quid jacturæ faciat, ne quam jacturam subeat, sustineat, ferat, patiatur, ne damni quid faciat, ne de dignitate detrahatur; adimatur, imminuatur.

He sought as much as he could for your discredit, or defacing your worth and Dignity; verbis impugnata dignitas. Acerba nimis adversus tuam dignitatem ejus oratio fuit, inhoneste admodum de te loquutus est; in te sic ut acerbius aut inhonestius non potuerit.

To DIGRESS from the purpose, impertinent; a re, a proposito, a proposita re, a causa, a scopo, ab instituto sermone digredi, recedere, aberrare, declinare, deflectere, delabi, dilabi, divertere, vagari. Extra propositum divagari. Transilire suos limites. Extra chorum saltare. Extra callem.. Nihil ad Mercurium, ad Bacchum, ad versum, (quod aiunt) ad rem. Extra oleas ferri; aliena tractare. Longius ab instituta re discedere. Causæ cardinem non attingere. Deerrare ab eo quod cœpimus exponere. Terminos præscriptos transgredi. Institutum deserere. Proposito aberrare. Latius expatiari, quam propositæ rei angustiæ patiantur. Ultra præscriptos terminos expatiare. Ultra septa transilire. Ea nugari, de iis multum verborum effutire, quæ ad rem præsentem nihil attinet, quæ a re quam proposuit quis, aliena sunt; quæ longe discrepant ab iis quæ sunt proposita. De re vehementer absurda atque aliena, quæque nulla vicinitate pertinent ad id de quo agitur, verba permulta facere. Oratio longius provecta est, quam proposita ratio postulet. Sed quo feror? quo rapior? quo delapsus sum? quo me rapuit ardor? quid ad illas ineptias abis? Non est hujus temporis aut loci. Nunc non est narrandi, dicendi locus. Neque cœlum neque terram attingit. Quo nunc se proripit ille? aliquid interponere. Quod non proposito conducat et hæreat apte. Egredi a proposito ad rem alienam; alio afferri; a re proposita ad longe diversam digredi; a narratione deflectere, vagari; extra cancellos egredi; cursum detorquere ad aliud; alio sermonem convertere: item proverbialiter dicitur de calcaria in carbonariam decurrere, quoties scil. a re proposita ad aliud quippiam longe diversum quis digreditur; sive quum ex uno malo in aliud diversum quis incidit.

But whither am I carried by so long a DIGRESSION? sed quo me sermonis cursus abripuit? quo me rapit alienior cogitatio?

But those things are a DIGRESSION; sed hæc extra viam.

But lest I should make a tedious DIGRESSION in a thing already known; sed ne in re nota et pervulgata multus et insolens sim, &c.; Cic.

But let us go back from whence we have DIGRESSED; sed eo revocemur unde hæc declinavit oratio; sed illuc redeat unde deflexit oratio; ad eam partem, ex qua egressi sumus, revertamur; redeamus illuc unde divertimus; Cic.

But now we have DIGRESSED enough, let us return at length to the purpose; verum jam satis exorbitavimus, ad propositum tandem revertamur; Cic.

Formulæ quædam digrediendi, et sui revocandi:

Sed hæc colligere nimis longum; sed ne multis vos ipse fatigem exemplis; sermonem alio transferamus; Cic. Sed quid ego infinitam pæne copiam exemplorum persequar? &c. Sed priusquam hujusmodi rei initium expediam, pauca supra repetam, quæ ad cognoscendum omnia illustria magis magisque in aperto sint; quare ne longius extra ripas diffluat oratio, ad id revocanda est unde digressi sumus; sed provehor amore, non enim ad propositum est hujus epistolæ; sed mitto hæc, &c. Neque id nunc agito, ut, &c. Hactenus de, &c. nunc venio ad, &c. Censeo, judices, moderandum mihi esse jam orationi meæ, fugiendamque vestram satietatem; Cic. Intelligo (Pontifices) me plura extra causam dixisse, quam ut opinio vestra tulerit, aut voluntas mea; sed cum, &c.; Cic.

Propter difficultatem in medio relinquitur; existit hoc in loco quæstio subdifficilis, perdifficilis et obscura. In magna quæstione habent philosophi hanc rem. Existunt controversiæ ex hac re. Grammatici certant, et adhuc sub judice lis est.

No Doubt; sane, profecto, certe, haud dubie.

To make a Doubt where none is; nodum in scirpo quærere.

There is no Doubt of this; hocce haud dubium est; Ter. There is no doubt of it; non dubium est; Ter.

Who Doubts it? dubiumne id est? Ter.

Out of Doubt; haud dubie; Flor. Liv.

Without Doubt; procul dubio; Suet. sine dubio; Cic. sine controversia; Ter. sine ulla dubitatione; Cic.

I Doubt he will not live; in dubio vita est; Cic.

He does not Doubt but—; non dubitat, quin—; Cic.

I do not speak it, as if I made any Doubt; non eo dico, quo mihi veniat in dubium; Cic.

Whether you ought to make any Doubt; num dubitandum vobis sit; Cic.

He was a great while in Doubt; secum diu multumque dubitavit; Cic.

I Doubt, am in some doubt; animi pendeo; Cic.

There is one Doubt yet remaining, one thing yet that I doubt of; at mihi unus scrupulus etiam restat; Ter.

To put out of Doubt; liberare, exonerare metu; metum adimere; Ter.

I Doubt you are much troubled sometimes; suspicor te interdum gravius commoveri; Cic.

I confess I am very much in Doubt what the matter should be, that—; magnopere me hæsitare confiteor, quid sit, quare—.

There was no Doubt of the truth of it; idque ita esse factum controversia non erat; Gell.

I am in great Doubt, or I know not what to do; cura dubius. Anceps valde sum, in ancipiti cura versor; non dispicio, non dijudico, utram in partem me dem, utrum sit rectius, conducibilius, eligendum; consilium non explico, exitum non reperio; animi pendeo; dubius sum, incertus sum; exploratum, apertum, certum non habeo; dubitatio me tenet; difficilis mihi dubitatio est; versor in dubitatione; teneor implicatus; varie distrahor; in utramque partem animus inclinat, dubia cogitatione, ancipiti cura distrahor, jactor, versor; pendet animus meus, fluctuat, labat in consilio, nutat, non consistit, nihil habet explorati; hæreo, nihil explico; nihil expedio; quid consilii capiam, ignoro; explicata capiendi consilii ratio mihi non est.

I Doubt how you will answer to the hope conceived of your studies; I fear you will not prove such a student as men think and look for; vereor ut sustineas spem de tuis studiis conceptam. Vereor ne quam de studiis expectationem concitasti, hanc sustinere ac tueri non possis; vereor, ut expectationi tua studia respondeant, ne tua studia expectationi respondeant, ne cum hominum opinione non consentiant, ne alium, atque expectatur, exitum habeant, ne-qui expectatur, fructum non pariant.

Doubt of credit or honor; si mihi fidem non habes, fidem apud te non habet oratio mea, roga parentem tuum; interroga patrem, quære de patre tuo, sciscitare, cognosce patris tui sententiam, voluntatem, judicium exquire.

You will make men Doubt your honesty, faith, or credit; fides dubia. Venies in suspicionem infidelitatis, parum bonæ, sinceræ, rectæ fidei; tua fides in suspicionem adducetur, in dubium veniet, in dubium vocabitur; erit cur de tua fide non bene homines existiment; suspectus eris nomine infidelitatis; causam afferes de tua fide secus existimandi.

I was sure he would have that office, or, I never Doubted that he would come to that honor; magistratus certus. Nunquam dubitavi, dubium nunquam mihi fuit, ambiguum mihi nunquam fuit, nunquam mihi venit in mentem dubitare, ambigere, suspicari; nunquam mihi fuit obscurum, aut parum apertum, nunquam suspicatus sum fore, ut hic tibi magistratus non deferretur, ut excludereris hoc magistratu, ut repulsam ferres, ut rejicereris; pro certo semper existimavi, certo sum arbitratus, certa spes animum meum tenuit, exploratum mihi fuit, prorsus mihi persuasi futurum, ut ad hunc honoris gradum pervenires, ut aditus tibi ac via pateret, ne tibi unquam eunti ad hunc honorem, via præcluderetur; petitionis ratio nunquam explorata mihi non fuit, incerta, dubia, ambigua, obscura nunquam fuit. Non dubito quin summum atque altissimum gradum civitatis obtineas.

There is no Doubt at all made of it; de eo nunquam omnino est dubitatum.

Put me out of Doubt; me libera metu.

To keep one in Doubt; animum alicui suspendere.

I Doubt not to see you in great estimation; non dubito quin summus futurus sis. Non dubito, quin summum atque altissimum gradum civitatis obtineas, nulla me dubitatio tenet, nihil mihi dubitationis relinquitur; non est cur dubitem, quin ea assequaris quæ in repub. putantur esse amplissima; quin futurus in civitate sis honestissimus, amplissimus, eximius, honestissimo loco, summo loco, singulari loco.

All Doubtful or uncertain what to do; dubius animi. Ancipiti cura distrahor, jactor, versor, animi pendeo, incertus animi sum, pendet animus, inclinat, huc illuc fluctuat, jactatur, incertus est quod consilii capiat, utram in partem me dem ignoro; explicare consilium, expedire me ex hac deliberatione, exitum meæ cogitationis invenire non possum, distrahunt me diversa consilia; in utramque partem ita multa succurrunt ut difficilis admodum sit, minime expedita, minime explicata, minime explorata, minime certa, perobscura, haud satis aperta deliberatio.

I Doubt what end your studies will have; timeo ne studiorum tuorum eventus ab hominum opinione dissentiat, alius atque expectatur, existat; timeo ne tuis studiis non is qui expectatur, exitus contingat; magna me dubitatio tenet, ne non eum, quem homines expectant, studia tua fructum serant.

The end of war is Doubtful; or no man is sure when this war will end, or who shall have the victory; dubius belli exitus. Dubium est, dubitandum est, dubitari potest, in dubio est, est cur dubitetur, dubitationem res habet, ambiguum est, in dubio versatur, in dubio positum est, in ambiguo, in ancipiti, plane non constat, non patet, non liquet, apertum non est, perspicuum, dilucidum, dilucide non patet, qui sit belli exitus futurus, de belli eventu potest ambigi, certo divinare, conjicere, augurari, affirmare non licet; exploratum non est; certa conjectura non est; in dubium vocari potest eventus belli, in dubium venire, in dubitationem adduci; potest in utramque partem judicari de belli eventu, anceps de belli exitu, ambigua, dubia, incerta, difficilis admodum, obscura, quæ obscuritatis et erroris habeat multum, non simplex, non aperta, non perspicua, parum certa divinatio, conjectura, opinio est; conjecturam facere de belli exitu cui licet? quid in bello casurum sit, utram in partem inclinatura victoria, nemo dispicit, videt, intelligit, novit, exitum belli certa ratio non ostendit, non promittit.

I am in DOUBT which of three courses to resolve on; sum in consilii trivio.

I have yet something DOUBTFUL in my mind; amphibologiæ aliquid adhuc in animo relictum est.

I am DOUBTFUL between hope and fear; spem cum metu verso in animo; inter spem et metum fluctuo.

To make a thing DOUBTFUL by disputing it; facere rem dubiam argumentando.

We have great DOUBTS within us; in dubio pectora nostra labant; æstuamus dubitatione; distorquemur in deliberando.

That which we often deliberate and advise on, is certainly DOUBTFUL and questionable; quod in deliberationem sæpe cadit, in quæstionem et controversiam necesse est veniat.

Help me out of my DOUBT; explica æstum meum; nam æstuare consilio, &c. apud Cic. pro, maxime hærere, et vehementer vexari in dubio.

One DOUBTFUL between hope and despair; spemque metumque inter dubius, apud Virg.

With what fear, what DOUBTING, what perplexity and multitude of words, was his whole discourse shamefully disgraced? qui timor, quæ dubitatio, quanta hæsitatio tractusque verborum totam ejus dedecoravit orationem? Cic.

That is a trifling DOUBT; tenuissima hæc est dubitatio.

He was inclined sometimes to this, sometimes to that side; every thing was DOUBTFUL to him; huc et illuc inclinabatur, nihil certi habebat; in consilio non consistebat.

It often comes to pass that the mind is distracted by deliberating and advising, so that it lies under DOUBTFUL and thoughtful cares; sæpe fit, ut distrahatur animus in deliberando, afferatque ancipites cogitandi curas; intercurrit enim anceps alia cura deliberandi; Cic. de Off.

But if the least DOUBT seem to remain; sin scrupulus tenuissimus residere aliquis videbitur.

But I am troubled with this DOUBT; verum hic me scrupulus male habet; hic me dies noctesque tenet, stimulat, et torquet scrupulus.

Truth seems very DOUBTFUL according to men's various natures and inclinations; valde dubia, pro variis hominum ingeniis, fluctuat veritas.

Neither am I any thing DOUBTFUL; nec sum animi dubius.

I am DOUBTFUL in my mind what course I shall take; incertus animi sum, quam insistam viam.

I am not yet fully resolved concerning that DOUBTFUL affair; non est mihi, de hac re dubia, soluta, expedita deliberatio; Cic.

But then this DOUBT possessed men's minds; hic tum injectus est hominibus scrupulus ac dubitatio; Cic.

But wo is me, how was my mind DOUBTFUL between hope and fear ever till this time! sed, væ mihi misero, ut animus in spe atque timore, usque antehac attentus fuit! Ter.

It cannot otherwise be, but that they must fall into dangerous, DOUBTFUL, and intricate perplexities; eos necesse est in salebras incidere, operosisque nexibus implicari; Cic.

Their mind is DOUBTFULLY taken up with dark hope and blind expectation; suspensus et incertus obscura spe et cœca expectatione, pendet eorum animus; Cic.

He cannot free himself from that DOUBTFUL consultation; ex hac deliberatione dubia se expedire non potest.

For it depends on that trifling and DOUBTFUL conjecture; levi namque hac et dubia conjectura pendet; Cic.

I am not DOUBTFUL of that; id non ambiguum habeo.

The DOUBT chiefly consists in this; scrupulus in hac re residet, insidet.

The chance or fortune of war is very DOUBTFUL; varia est belli fortuna, atque in ancipiti posita.

Deceiving error makes many DOUBTFUL in searching for truth; in perscrutanda veritate devius error multos ducit in ambiguum.

To call a thing in DOUBT and question which is clear and plain in itself; rem confessam in dubium et jus vocare.

If you would but free me of that DOUBT and scruple; hunc si tu mihi scrupulum ex animo evelleres; Cic.

To free one from some scruple and DOUBT about religion; aliquem religione exsolvere; Liv.

Who will clear this Doubt? hæremus in vado, quis nos expediet?

A good distinction, a good solution of a Doubt; pulchre secuisti nodum.

A double Doubt hence arises; hic mihi geminus obstrepit scrupulus.

This I am in great Doubt of, and unsatisfied in still; hic mihi nuper scrupulus diu torsit, nec adhuc satis sibi facit animus.

There is no Doubt of that; it is a plain case; non est controversi juris; nullis anfractibus est id sinuosum.

Here I wish you would resolve me some of my Doubts; unum hic atque alterum scrupulum mihi cupiam per te eximi.

They are Doubtful, they know not what to say in this case; they are at a loss; quod advocati Demiphoni, apud comicum, alius ait, alius negat, alius deliberandum censet.

You yet make me Doubt; facis tamen ut addubitem.

A Doubt not worth answering; nec dignus vindice nodus.

Tell me, if you can, how did he rid himself of this Doubt? obsecro te, quomodo sese ab hoc expediebat nodo?

I have now cleared the coast, and answered all objections and cavilling Doubts; superavi omnes illos quæstionum scopulos, et plenis jam velis invehi mihi posse videor in portum.

Your propounding this Doubt, makes me out of doubt; your question has put all out of question; tuam proposuisti dubitationem, et ego dubitare desierim.

You have fully resolved that Doubt; argute tu quidem istud nobis problema explicuisti.

If any Doubt troubled him, he used to consult with these; si quis nodus incidisset, hos ut plurimum consulebat.

What is the mystery of that Doubt? quid istuc est ænigmatis?

I am indifferent for all this Doubt; in æquabili quadam trutina sum.

I am for a penny. which way the staff falls in those Doubtful cases; meus est in æquilibrio nunc animus; mens huc nunc fluctuat illuc.

No Doubt now remains; hunc mihi ex animo scrupulum eximis; excussa est omnis dubitatio.

Now lest any should further Doubt; ne qua residere posset dubitatio.

I am in Doubt what to make of it yet; adhuc mihi quidem ænigma refers.

To resolve the Doubt; quæstionem enodare, enucleare.

You will happily object this Doubt to me; occurris hic mihi tacitus.

You are much in Doubt which way to take; duplici in diversum scinderis hamo; hunccine an hunc sequeris?

To becloud men's eyes with very Doubtful niceties; verborum et argutiarum fuliginem ob oculos audientium evaporare.

When I was in that Doubtful state of mind; cum in isto cogitationis salo fluctuarem; in lubrico pedem figere.

In so great a perplexity and Doubtfulness of mind, the poor man was violently drawn into many different resolutions; miro hoc mentis salo et cogitationis dissensione, misellus in diversas sententias carpebatur ac distrahebatur.

Otherwise, he was Doubtful both in his wishes and in his endeavors; suspensus alioquin erat, et votis simul et studiis.

I will not determine that Doubtful matter; dubiam eam rem in medio relinquam.

That matter is entangled with many Doubtful questions, which cannot be easily resolved; res hæc impedita, multæ disquisitionis est, nec quæ faciles habet explicatus.

The victory is Doubtful; victoria nutat, titubat.

It is Doubtful whether the enemy will pursue us more fiercely with sword or fire; ferro an flamma acrius nos urgeat hostis, incertum est.

He being surrounded with these Doubts and dangers; hisce dubiis et difficultatibus ille circumventus.

The DOWNS in the sea; tumuli arenarii.

I admonish you, as a son, I EXHORT you, as my best friend ; sic moneo, ut filium, sic hortor, ut amicissimum.

That you may thereby be made more easy to be EXHORTED, or persuaded ; ut te eo placabiliorem, magis exorabilem, et facilem præbeas.

To be easily EXHORTED by the requests of another ; dare se facilem votis.

To be with great difficulty EXHORTED, or persuaded to any thing ; abnuere aurem supplici ; aurem questibus alicujus occludere ; aversa aure preces negligere ; surda veluti aure repellere ; nec precibus, nec profusis lachrymis flecti, mitigari.

To EXPECT ; expectare.

To raise or move great EXPECTATION ; magnam sui expectationem movere, commovere, concitare, excitare, facere. Magnam a puero mihi spem attulit, fecit ; magnas, incredibiles, mirabiles de se spes excitavit. In summam suæ virtutis spem, expectationem alios adducere. Qui summam nominis expectationem sustinet. Haud vulgare ingenii sui specimen præbere ; crebras sui expectationes commovere.

There is great EXPECTATION of his son's excellent inclination and great virtue; summa est in filio ejus spes, summa ingenii indoles, summaque virtus.

There is so great EXPECTATION both of your judgment and wit; tanta est expectatio vel animi, vel ingenii tui.

I had great EXPECTATION of his great virtue, and of his great eloquence, ever since he was a boy; hic a puero spem mihi magnam afferebat summæ probitatis, summæque eloquentiæ; Cic.

How great an EXPECTATION have you raised of yourself? quantam tui expectationem fecisti?

You ought to maintain and keep up the EXPECTATION you have raised of yourself; quam tui expectationem excitasti, hanc sustinere et tueri debes; Cic.

You have raised great EXPECTATION that you will imitate our industry, as also great expectation of virtue, and perchance somewhat of a great name or fame; sustines enim magnam expectationem imitandæ industriæ nostræ, magnam virtutis, nonnullam fortasse nominis; Cic.

When you heightened very much my EXPECTATION; cum me in summam expectationem adduceres.

That you may raise all men's EXPECTATION of your great virtue; ut omnes in summam spem eximiæ tuæ virtutis adduceres.

Pompey raises great EXPECTATION, that he will—; magnam Pompeius spem affert, se—.

For I perceive well enough that you are descended of illustrious parentage, and that there is great EXPECTATION of your honor and fame; satis enim animadverto magnis et illustribus te procreatum esse parentibus, et in summa nominis tui expectatione vivere.

EXPECTATION is lessened by delay; dilatione expectatio minuitur.

To satisfy or answer men's EXPECTATIONS; hominum de se expectationem explere, tueri, et sustinere, opinionem vincere et superare. De indole virtuteque spem minime fefellit. Explere animos invidorum. Hominum expectationi respondere, satisfacere. Desiderium hominum sine fastidio satietatis explere.

He very soon raised the EXPECTATIONS of all men of his good nature and inclination to as great a height as man can be capable of; tantam omnibus, quam citissime, ingenii et indolis eximiæ spem atque opinionem attulit, quantam humanæ naturæ angustiæ haud fere capiunt.

I am afraid you cannot make good the EXPECTATION, which you have raised of your studies; vereor ne quam tui de studiis tuis expectationem concitaveris, eam tueri non possis; Cic.

There is so great hope of your excellent mind and temper, that I must be earnest in requesting you to keep up and maintain the EXPECTATION you have raised of yourself; tanta est expectatio eximii tui animi et ingenii, ut ego te obsecrare, obtestarique non dubitem, ut quam expectationem tui concitasti, hanc sustinere et tueri possis; Cic. Ep.

Now surely it concerns you to behave yourself so, as that the great EXPECTATION men had of your praises may never be forgotten; nunc certe pertinet te esse talem, ut tuas laudes obscuratura nulla unquam sit oblivio; Cic.

But lest your EXPECTATION should be detained any longer by my discourse, I will now speak of the crime itself; sed ne diutius oratione mea suspensa expectatio vestra teneatur, aggrediar ad crimen.

There is some great EXPECTATION of you, which by one thing you may easily and fully satisfy; est enim tui magna quædam expectatio, quam tu una re facillime vinces; Cic.

Not to satisfy men's EXPECTATIONS; expectationem, spem quam concitavit quis fallere, frustrari, sustinere non posse. Spei et expectationi hominum re ipsa non respondere. Eum se quem homines expectabant non præstare. Virtutis fructus opinione hominum minor est. Eventus studiorum alius est atque indoles puerilis pollicebatur. Ab hominum de te opinione dissentis. Alium atque homines arbitrabantur, revera te experiuntur, sentiunt.

He filled the multitude with a vain EXPECTATION; implevit vana expectatione multitudinem.

To EXPECT one, or to expect his coming daily; in horas, diem ex die, de die in diem, aliquem expectare; vehementer, avidissime, acerrime, magnopere, quotidie, acriter, alicujus adventum expectare; desiderium amici sui moleste, graviter ferre; solicitum esse de adventu alicujus; expectatione alicujus angi; desiderio alicujus tangi, incendi, tabescere; amici absentis studio flagrare; ex desiderio amici laborare, et ejus expectatione torqueri.

I have great EXPECTATION, that, &c.; magna me expectatio tenet, &c.

He long and much EXPECTED his son; magno desiderio fuit ei filius ejus.

Wherefore, O Romans, you must EXPECT the return of the Ambassadors, and endure the delay of a few days; qua propter, Quirites, expectandus est legatorum reditus, et paucorum dierum molestia devoranda; Cic.

We EXPECT your coming at the appointed day; adventum vestrum ad diem placitam præstolamur.

He EXPECTS me in the market-place; is, apud forum, me manet; Plaut.

By your letters I am in great EXPECTATION of Pompey; ex tuis literis plenus sum expectatione de Pompeio.

With so much EXPECTING, and so much waiting, our minds are dubious and perplexed; sic expectando et desiderando pendemus animis, cruciamur, angimur; Cic.

He EXPECTED that with great hopes; magna cum spe id exspectavit.

But I rather think that you eagerly EXPECT and desire the coming of your absent friend; sed potius amici absentis studio, et desiderio te flagrare et æstuare puto; Cic.

The whole city EXPECTED and wished for Brutus; Brutus erat in desiderio totius civitatis.

Know this, that there is great EXPECTATION of you, that those things are expected from you, which are suitable to the greatest virtue, and to the greatest mind; summa scito in expectatione te esse, eaque a te expectari, quæ a summa virtute, summoque ingenio, expectanda sunt; Cic.

There is great hope and EXPECTATION in your army; magna spes est in tuo exercitu, magna expectatio.

Posterity EXPECTS that from your virtue; sed et a tua virtute posteritatem ea spes manet.

Also now there is hope and EXPECTATION in your virtue; etiam nunc residet spes in virtute tua.

He is wholly taken up in the hope and EXPECTATION of that his only son; is hoc unico filio nititur, in hujus spe requiescit; Cic.

I have a certain hope and EXPECTATION, that he—; indubitata namque mihi spes affulget, eundem—.

EXPERIENCE; experientia, periclitatio. Usus, m.

An EXPERIENCED man; in rebus agendis, tractandis, pertractandis probe, diu versatus, spectatus, exercitatus, minime rudis, hospes, imperitus, longo rerum usu gnarus, peritus. Rerum plurimarum usu peritissimus. Multo rerum usu consultissimus. Vir magna prudentia, usu atque exercitatione præditus, qui experientia magistra doctus, usu eruditus permulta didicit, rerum plurimarum scientiam, hausit, nactus est. Veteranus miles. Scriba recoctus. Felices quibus usus adest—Queis ætas longa magistra fuit.—Decus et pretium recte petit experiens vir. Vir multarum rerum experientia clarissimus; multarum rerum usu exercitatus; vir et eruditione varia, et morum integritate summa præditus; Erasm.

EXPERIENCE the school-mistress of many things; experientia magistra multarum rerum. Multa discuntur, percipiuntur ab experientia; multarum rerum scientia, cognitio, intelligentia, doctrina, capitur, sumitur, hauritur ab experientia et usu; Multa cognoscuntur experientia duce; multarum rerum magister est usus, multa docet, ostendit, patefacit, viam aperit usus ad multarum rerum scientiam; erudimur valde, instituimur, expolimur, ex ignorantiæ tenebris educimur, ad scientiam multarum rerum experientia duce pervenimus; multarum rerum scientiam consequimur, experientiam secuti, experientia docti, experientia magistra.

Without EXPERIENCE; experientia vacans. Rudis es, imperitus, nullius experientiæ, usu minime doctus, usus expers, rudis in rebus, novus tanquam hospes, plane peregrinus, ab usu rerum imperitus, parum versatus in rebus; rerum insciens, ignarus, expers, peregrinaris in rebus; res non tractasti; usum non habes.

To make EXPERIMENT; periculum facere, experimentum capere.

Of great Experience, very expert; expertus, peritus, gnarus, exercitus, prudens, experiens.

With Experience, expertly, wisely and skilfully; perite, gnaviter.

I know it too well to my Experience and cost; plus scio quam vellem in hac re.

Having given an Experiment, or a proof of his skill; prius edito artis suæ experimento.

Every one knows best by Experience, where his shoe pinches him; si calceum induisses, tum demum sentires qua parte urgeret.

Daily Experience makes it manifest; sed ne persequamur fabulas Democriticas, nonne comperimus experientia?

Every one must have a learning and Experience; nemo nascitur artifex.

Men's last works, because of their greater Experience, are usually the best; solent artifices in posterioribus seipsos vincere.

I have so often found it true that I wish not to try any more; or, I need no further Experience of it; illud toties ipsa re compertum habeo, ut non libeat iterum experiri.

I have paid for it; the Experience of it has cost me dear; sapiens ut Phryx.

I will tell you what I have often tried, and found true by Experience; accipe rem, mihi multo usu compertam.

One that knows the world well enough; a man accustomed to the world, of great Experience; mundanis in negotiis educatus; multiplici rerum experientia edoctus.

The hope of Experiencing some amelioration of destiny; spes alicujus commodi aliquando recuperandi.

Necessity, the last and Extreme weapon; ultimum et maximum telum necessitas.

To be in Extreme pain; dolore angi, cruciari.

Run not out of one Extreme into another; ita fugias, ut ne præter casam.

An EYE; oculus; lumen.

Before one's Eyes; ob oculos, ante oculos.

To Eye one; aspicere, oculum adjicere.

To have an Eye to one; curare, observare.

One with half an Eye; parum oculatus.

An Eye-witness; testis oculatus.

You are day and night before my Eyes; mihi ante oculos dies noctesque versaris; Cic.

So much damage being done before his Eyes; tanto sub ejus oculis accepto detrimento.

All things are carried so before Lollius's Eyes; præter oculos Lollii omnia ferebantur.

One Eye-witness is better than ten ear-witnesses; pluris est oculatus testis unus, quam auriti decem.

Eye-service; cultus perfunctorius.

In the sight of, or before, the Eyes; in conspectu. Tota mihi illa regio in cubiculo meo sedenti erat in conspectu, ante oculos erat, in oculis erat, sese oculis offerebat, ante oculos versabatur, egregie patebat. Ob oculos, sub oculis erat, ad oculos occurrebat sese, ostendebat, patebat, aperiebatur, exponebatur.

To close the Eyes of one that is dying; morienti premere oculos; apud Virg. condere lumina clara manu.

To put out one's Eyes; eripere visum, cæcare, occæcare; lumen adimere; lumen privare oculorum; oculos effodere, eripere alicui; tollere, excæcare; telo lumen terebrare acuto.

To restore the Eye-sight; oculorum visum recipere, restituere. To put out one's Eyes with gifts, i. e. to bribe, or corrupt with bribes; mentes imperitorum largitione cæcare; Cic. Exoculare judicem, apud Erasm. Pecunia, largitionibus persuadere; sententiam auro impetrare; auro enim nil inexpugnabile.

As FAR as is possible ; quoad ejus fieri possit.

I. FAR, joined to a substantive, is an adjective, and rendered by longinquus : as, They are come from a far country unto me ; Isai. E terra longinqua venerunt ad me ; Jun. Isai. 39. 3.—Longinquos respicit montes ; Plin. existimans non longinquum inter nos digressum et discessum fore ; Cic. Non ex longinquo venit ; Plin. The adverb peregre is very frequently used for far in this sense : as, A man travelling into a far country, called his servants ; Mat. 25. 14. Quispiam peregre proficiscens vocavit servos suos ; Beza.—Quia nos eramus peregre, tutatus est domum ; Plaut. Alios peregre in regnum Romam accitos ; Liv.

II. FAR, joined to an adjective, a verb, or an adverb, is rendered by multo or longe : as, He sold for far less than you ; multo minoris vendidit, quam tu ; Cic. In far the greatest city of all Sicily ; in civitate totius Siciliæ multo maxima ; Cic. They prefer virtue far above all other things ; virtutem omnibus rebus multo anteponunt ; Cic. He perceives it falls out far otherwise ; aliter evenire multo intelligit. ; Ter. I have a far other opinion ; longe mihi alia mens est ; Sal. O the far unlike fortune of M. Fonteius ; O fortunam longe disparem M. Fontei ; Cic. Lycus is far the better at running ; pedibus longe melior Lycus ; Virg. Far the most learned of the Greeks ; Græcorum longe doctissimus ; Hor. I prefer his judgment far before yours ; hujus ego judicium longe antepono tuo ; Cic It fell out far otherwise ; res aliter longe evenit ; Liv.—Quæstus multo uberrimus ; Ter. Quod longe secus est; Cic. Quæ venientia longe an ante videris; Cic. Note: Where the adjective is of the superlative degree, there multo and longe have omnium very elegantly joined with them. Multo omnium nunc me fortunatissimum puto; Ter. Principi longe omnium in dicendo gravissimo et eloquentissimo; Cic.

III. So Far from, being answered by that in a following clause, is rendered by ita, or adeo non, ut, or tantum abest ut: as, He was so far from offering violence to them himself, that; adeo ipse non violavit, ut—; Curt. You are so far from loving, that—; ita non amas, ut ne—; Cic. So far is he from altering my mind, that—; tantum abest, ut ille meam sententiam moveat, ut—; Cic.—Cum Oscos ludos vel in senatu nostro spectare possis, Græcos vero ita non ames, ut ne ad villam quidem tuam via Græca ire soleas; Cic. Cum sola hæc res adeo non infestetur herbis, ut ipsa herbas perimat; Columel. Tantum abfuit, ut inflammares animos nostros, somnum isto loco vix tenebamus; Cic. Tantum abest, ut scribi contra nos nolimus, ut id etiam maxime optemus; Cic. Adeo nemo dubitavit, ut—; Quintil. N. B. After tantum abest in a former clause, the ut in the latter clause may be omitted, but then the verb must be of the indicative mood, as, tantum abfuit, ut inflammares animos nostros, somnum isto loco vix tenebamus; Cic. Tantum porro aberat, ut binos scriberent, vix singulos confecerunt; Cic. These particles, so far from that, may perhaps not amiss be rendered by non modo non in the former clause, and sed etiam, or verum etiam, answering to it in the latter: as, So far is my grief from being lessened, that it is increased; dolor meus non modo non minuitur, sed etiam augetur; Cic. They were so far from selling, that they bought; non modo non vendebant, verum etiam coemebant; Cic.—Id me non modo non hortatur ad disputandum, sed etiam deterret; Cic. Juvenili ætati non modo non invidetur, verum etiam favetur; Cic. Sometimes sed is alone: as, Non modo non cum magna prece ad me, sed acerbissime scripsit; Cic. The same may be expressed also by nedum in the latter clause answering to ne in the former, or by sed ne, answering to non modo in the former: as, The time once was, when grammar was so far from being in any esteem at Rome that it was not so much as in any use; grammatica olim Romæ ne in usu quidem, nedum in honore ullo erat; Suet. He is so far from being able to endure the free speech, that he is not able to abide the free look of any one; non modo vocem, sed ne vultum quidem liberum potest ferre cujusquam; Cic.

IV. As Far as, or so far as, is rendered by quod, quantum, and quoad: as, As far as it may consist with your health; quod commodo valetudinis tuæ fiat; Cic. So far as I hear; quantum audio; Ter. As far as it is possible; quoad ejus fieri possit; Cic.—Ipse quod commodo tuo fiat, cum eo colloquere; Cic. FAT, (adj.); pinguis, opimus, obesus, crassus.

FAT, or plump; nitidus, bene curata cute, Epicuri de grege porcus.

To grow FAT, or gross; pinguescere. Nimium pinguescere. Pinguior, obesior fieri, evadere. Nimiam pinguedinem et corpulentiam contrahere. Pinguitudine, obesitate laborare. Pinguis, obesus, corpulentus; cui abdomen longius prominet, et adeps accrevit plus satis.

Immoderate eating and drinking make men's bodies gross and FAT; ex gula obesus. Nisi cibo parcas, a cibo abstineas, cibum minuas, de cibo detrahas, tibi temperes, modereris in cibis, nisi cibo parcius utare, pinguior evades, quam satis est, nimium pinguesces, nimiam pinguedinem indues, obesior fies, nimis pinguitudine laborabis.

FAT men are of dull understanding; pingues hebetis ingenii. Pinguis est, obesus est, pinguedine diffluit extra modum, quod hebetis, tardi, stupidi ingenii signum est, quod ingenii tarditatem arguit; qui potest in tanto abdomine, in tam vasta corporis mole, spiritus locum habere, ingenio aut menti locus esse? Ex illa pinguitudine, illo abdomine, illo sumine nobiles, elegantes, præclaræ cogitationes minime excitantur.

A FATHER; pater, genitor, sator.

His FATHER will never be dead, whilst he is alive; patris est filius.

What he cannot do to the FATHER, he will do to the son; qui asinum non potest, stratum cædit.

To find FAULT, blame, or carp at; carpere, culpare, reprehendere, animadvertere, vitio dare; aliquid vituperare, damnare, improbare, reprobare, culpare, incusare, vellicare, criminari, carpere, reprehendere, traducere, notare, atro notare calculo; nigriore lapillo signare, in pejorem partem rapere, crimini dare; crimen, ut probrum, in maledictis, in magnis criminibus, criminis loco objicere. Aliquem culpæ, criminis, probri arguere, insimulare. Hac me culpa onerant; hoc me nomine reprehendunt; id mihi fraudi tribuunt, ascribunt; in me conferunt hanc culpam; hujus mihi culpæ notam inurunt; mihi vitio dant, vertunt, ducunt.

No man without some FAULT; nemo sine crimine vivit. Omnes in aliquam culpam prolabuntur; incurrunt homines in omnem iniquitatem; nulla culpa est, quæ non hodie subeatur; omnes in quodam, (multi in omni,) scelerum flagitiorumque genere volutantur; improbitatem aliquam omnes amant; nullum hodie flagitium ignoratur, prætermittitur.

To espy, note, mark other men's FAULTS, but to wink at his own; aliorum vitia cernere, oblivisci suorum; Lyncei foris, talpæ domi. Fit nescio quomodo, ut magis in aliis cernamus quam in nobismet ipsis, siquid delinquitur. Aliena Lynceis oculis, acutissime, perspicacissime intueri, contemplari, notare. Hypsea cæcior illa, Quæ mala sunt in se spectare. Stultus et improbus hic amor est, dignusque notari, Cum tu pervideas oculis mala lippus inunctis, Cur in amicorum vitiis tam cernis acutum, Quam aut aquila aut serpens Epidaurius?—Egomet mi ignosco, Mævius inquit. Ut nemo in sese tentat descendere, nemo: sed præcedenti spectatur mantica tergo.

To pardon our friend's FAULTS; alteri non minus ignoscere, quam sibi. In amicorum delictis cæcutire, ut in nostris. Peccata, vitia leviora ut nostra ferunt amici, amicorum æquo animo feramus nos.—Pater ut gnare sic nos debemus amici, Si quod sit vitium, non fastidire, &c.; Hor. Serm. i. 3. Non ego paucis Offendar maculis. Ad amicorum levia præstat connivere; Hor. Ibid.

To be without FAULT; vacare culpa.

No man without FAULT, or sin; nullus hominum, nemo est omnium, nullum uspiam reperias, neminem invenias ullibi, frustra quæras uspiam qui sit inculpatus, innocuus, insons, &c. qui omnia dei mandata fide integra perfecerit, præstiterit, nullum violarit; qui nusquam impegerit, offenderit, titubarit, nulla in culpa sit, nullum erratum admiserit, &c. Omnes homines, modo homines tantum sint, modo divinitatis participes non sint, filiique Dei, criminum noxarumque multarum rei sunt, conscii, affines, participes, peccatorum vitiorumque maculis, sordibus, turpitudine inquinantur, &c. Innocens nemo nascitur, nedum vivit quisquam aut moritur innocens. In utero materno inficimur, et cum vita parentum vitia concipimus, contrahimus. Optimus ac integerrimus quisque cadit septies quotidie, uno multoties die labitur, singulis diebus delinquit sæpius. Humanum est errare, labi, peccare, officia vitæ multa omittere atque negligere, multa perpetrare, committere, designare crimina. Neminem ergo nostri generis licet ab omni culpa, peccato, noxa absolvere, atque innocentem pronunciare.—Vitiis nemo sine nascitur; optimus ille, qui minimis urgetur.—Quemvis media erue turba; Aut ob avaritiam, aut misera ambitione laborat, &c.; Hor. Serm. i. 4.

To amend his FAULTS; vitam male actam in melius commutare; a vitiis referre pedem, receptui canere.

They find FAULT with him for that; hanc rem vitio dant; Ter.

I have nothing to find FAULT with old age for; nihil habeo, quod accusem senectutem; Cic.

It will be found FAULT with; reprehensionis aliquid habiturum est; Cic.

We will be found FAULT with no more; non accusabimur posthac; Cic.

He could not have been found FAULT with; reprehensione caruisset; non reprehenderetur; Cic. Non inquirit, quod reprehendat; Cic.

Nobody had noticed that FAULT; id vitium nulli notatum erat; Ovid.

We can neither bear our FAULTS nor our cures; nec vitia nostra, nec remedia pati possumus; Liv.

Clear yourself of this FAULT; hoc te crimine expedi; Ter.

All my FAULT is, that—; summa criminis est, quod—; Cic.

I shall be punished for his FAULTS; pro hujus peccatis ego supplicium sufferam; Plaut.

To commit a FAULT; delictum (facinus) in se admittere; Ter. Cæs.

He is in FAULT; in culpa est; Cic.

It was not his FAULT; is in culpa non est; Ter.

It was not my FAULT that it was done; culpa non est factum mea; Ter.

It is not my FAULT; a me hæc culpa procul est; Ter. Hæc mea culpa non est; Plaut.

What FAULT am I charged with? cujus criminis arguimur?

It is your own FAULT; tua culpa; Ter.

It was not my FAULT that it was not done; per me non stetit, quo minus fieret; Ter.

I will make satisfaction for that FAULT; answer for; istam culpam præstabo; Cic.

He took the FAULT on himself; peccatum in se transtulit; Ter.

They laid the FAULT on the multitude; ejus rei culpam in multitudinem conjecerunt; Cæs.

FAULTLESS, or innocent; criminis expers, immunis; liber a delicto; minime conscius peccati.

FAVOR, or affection; studium, favor, gratia, benevolentia.

FAVOR of the people; aura popularis, popularitas.

To FAVOR one, or wish well to one; alicui favere, indulgere, studere, honestissime cupere, bene, optime velle, velle bene, ex animo, benevolum se, propitium, benignum, fautorem præbere. Aliquem benevolentia complecti, magno studio prosequi, gratia et præsidio tueri, ornare. In aliquem inclinatione voluntatis propendere; singulari benevolentia, animo propenso, propitio, benigno, benevolo esse. Erga aliquem animum habere propensum, benevolum; stare cum aliquo. Studio alicujus teneri. Tui studiosus, studiosissimus. Accipit in Teucros animum mentemque benignam.

One in great FAVOR; gratiosus, potens.

To be in great FAVOR with one, to be beloved as a favorite; primas tenere apud aliquem; gratia apud aliquem multum pollere, valere, vigere, florere, excellere. Carus et perdilectus; multum adamatus alicui. Gratiosus apud aliquem, et unice dilectus; qui diligitur unus ex omnibus plurimum. Omnium deliciarum puerulus; cujus gratia nihil non sit facturus; cujus gratiæ sit daturus, donaturus, concessurus omnia. Sum apud te primus. Intimum me in deliciis habes. Tua consilia mihi credis omnia. Priores, primas partes apud te habeo. Me amas, me te oblectas; mecum totus es. Solus sum charus tibi. In me te delectas, me curas unicum; maxime colis, maximi facis.

To curry FAVOR; gratiam inire cum aliquo.

To get the FAVOR, love, or good will of all, as a popular man; populi omnis, universorum civium, hominum, omnium hominum voluntates, studia, benevolentiam, charitatem, amorem, amores, favorem sibi adjungere, allicere, conflare, conciliare, comparare, colligere, assequi, complecti. Influere, insinuare se in animos, sensus hominum. Gratiam ab omnibus colligere, permagnam inire. Civium animos, cogitationes, voluntates ad se, admirabili virtutis lumine, splendore convertere. Mirificos sui amores excitare. Studia summa habere omnium ordinum. Omnibus probari et diligi. Apud omnes, cives universos, omnes ordines gratiosus, multæ auctoritatis et existimationis, in summa gratia esse, gratia et auctoritate valere, florere, vigere, excellere. In omnium ore et oculis. In hominum visceribus, medullis inhærere. Omnibus summis et infimis, plurimis mortalium charus, gratus et jucundus. Firmo plurimorum amicorum præsidio, benevolentia hominum, charitate et benevolentia civium, singularibus omnium studiis septus, tectus, munitus, communitus. Deliciæ generis humani.—Multis munitus amicis. Agminibus comitum cinctus. Tene magis salvum populus vellet, an populum tu in ambiguo est.

To win the hearts, or get the FAVOR, of men, by all means possible; ambire homines studiose. Ambis, prensas, nullum in prensando studium, nullum officium prætermittis, tam prensas diligenter, quam qui maxime, tua est diligentissima prensatio; in ambiendis hominibus nemo est uno te diligentior, nemo aptior; sed vereor, ne non succedat exitus, ne te fallat, ne spe frustreris, ne secus accidat, ne non ex animi tui sententia procedat, succedat, contingat, eveniat.

It was not the fault of you, but of those about you, that you lost the hearts, the good will, the FAVOR of the people; factum est non tua, sed tuorum culpa; vitio tuorum, non tuo, contigit, ut populi studium, gratiam, benevolentiam dimiseris, perdideris; ut e studio, gratia, benevolentia populi excideris; ut populus non amplius tibi faveat, studeat, suffragetur, tui studiosus, tibi amicus, bene in te sit animatus; studium populi, gratiam, benevolentiam, non tua, sed tuorum, injuria, tibi eripuit, ademit, abstulit; non per te sed per tuos, non a te sed a tuis, non tuo, sed tuorum, merito; injuria tuorum potius quam tua effectum est, commissum est, ut populum tui studiosum, bene in te animatum, tibi amicum jam non habeas, ut gratiosus apud populum, charus populo, in populi gratia minime sis; ut nullum populi studium, nullam gratiam, aut benevolentiam teneas, obtineas, possideas: ut populo favente, suffragante, benigno, tibi amico, bene erga te animato, tui studioso non utaris; gratiam tuam apud populum non tua, sed tuorum, culpa extinxit; ex amore populi effluxisti.

To be out of, or in little FAVOR with one; apud aliquem minus esse gratiosum, nullam obtinere gratiam; gratia nil posse, valere. Hominis potentissimi, amicissimique gratia excidere; ex animo et amore effluere, studium et benevolentiam in se amittere, in offensionem cadere. Animo iniquiore, minus benigno, favente, benevolo, æquo, propitio uti. Experiri aliquem animo non ita benevolo in se; parum amantem sui, non admodum sui studiosum, minime sibi faventem, suisve studentem partibus. Studium alicujus minus erga se commovere posse.

To recover FAVOR lost; in alicujus gratiam redire. Amissam benevolentiam recolligere. Amici offensum animum conciliare, placare ac mitigare. Facere ut quis in gratiam redeat, ut sit in se quo antea modo animatus, ut si quid alienæ opinionis, aut parum amicæ voluntatis adversus se susceperit amicus, deponat, abjiciat.

To lose the FAVOR, once obtained, by the fault of another; gratia excidere aliorum culpa. Gratiam tuam extinxit, perdidit, afflixit omnem, apud omnes delevit, non tua sed tuorum culpa; factum est minime quidem tûo, sed tuorum vitio, ut, qua florebas gratia, eam amitteres; periit quod habebas gratiæ, tuorum culpa, non tua; commissum est a tuis potius quam a teipso, per tuos potius, quam per teipsum, ut esses non ut antea, gratiosus, ut ea gratia, qua fruebaris antea, prorsus excideres, ut amitteres hominum studia, ut ex animis atque amore hominum efflueres, excideres.

Rich men are more in FAVOR, or more preferred and regarded; divites gratiosiores. Ea temporum ratio est, ut qui plus opibus valent, magis excellant gratia, gratiosiores sint; conferunt libenter homines ea studia in locupletiores, ditioribus favent, student, suffragantur; præsto sunt.

I desire to be in your love and FAVOR; velim abs te amari. Ne patiaris me partem amoris tui minimam ferre, noli committere ut partem amoris tui minimam capiam, ut exiguum ab amore tuo fructum feram, colligam, sumam, percipiam; fructum amoris tui velis esse non exiguum, non vulgarem, non mediocrem.

To get the FAVOR of the judges or great men; judicum, principum virorum amorem, benevolentiam, animos, favorem allicere ad se, sibi conciliare. Orationis blandimentis, assentatiunculis, illecebris, muneribus, amicorum gratia, judicum, principis, procerum, magnatum animos, mentes ad se attrahere, convertere; apud principes, a proceribus, apud judices inire gratiam; attentos et benevolos judices sibi facere, judicum aures ad audiendum, animos ad cognoscendum, ora ad dijudicandum causam suam sibi conciliare. Facere ut judices sint in suam partem propensiores. Gratia sibi aditum ad judices, litis æstimatores, viros principes aperire, patefacere. Principibus placuisse viris non ultima laus est. Cultura potentis amici. Qui regibus uti scit.

To lose the FAVOR of the judges or great men; judicum, magnatum, optimatum a se mentes alienare. Principes, judices sibi minus propitios et benevolos reddere. Suam apud judices, proceres gratiam infringere, amittere. In offensionem, reprehensionem judicum incurrere, incidere. Nullo modo posse iratos judices movere, flectere, placare, mulcere. Judicum in se odium, invidiam, inimicitias excitare, concitare. Nullum misericordiæ locum sibi apud judices relinquere. Lenitatis et clementiæ profugium sibi obstruere. Stomachum judicibus facere, commovere. Liberius, audacius, superbius loquendo, gerendo se, principum virorum voluntates abalienare.

FORTUNE; fortuna, sors, f. Vitam regit fortuna, non sapientia. Fortuna est rerum externarum et ad corpus pertinentium domina, vaga, volubilisque. Insanam esse et cæcam et brutam perhibent philosophi. Cæcam ob eam rem, quia nihil cernat quo se applicet. Insanam autem aiunt, quia atrox, incerta, instabilisque sit. Brutam, quia cum multis incommodis conflictetur propter immensam pecuniæ cupiditatem. Non solum ipsa fortuna cæca est, sed eos etiam plerunque efficit cæcos quos complexa est. Fortes fortuna adjuvat. Fortuna fortes metuit, ignavos premit. Probitatem, industriam, cæterasque bonas artes neque dare, neque eripere cuiquam fortuna potest. Fortuna opes auferre, non animum potest. Faber est quisque fortunæ suæ. Suam cuique mores fingunt fortunam.—Sed te Nos facimus, fortuna, deam, cœloque locamus. Si fortuna volet, fies de Rhetore consul: Si volet hæc eadem, fies de Consule Rhetor. O diva, gratum quæ regis Antium, Præsens vel imo tollere de gradu Mortale corpus, vel superbos Vertere funeribus triumphos, &c. Horat.

FORTUNE's darling; plane fortunæ filius.

God send you good FORTUNE; I pede fausto.

Fools have FORTUNE; fortuna favet fatuis.

This thing by FORTUNE I thought of; incidit mihi forte in mentem hæc res.

FORTUNATE; beatus, perbeatus, fortunatus, faustus, felix, auspicatus, secundus.

Learned men call FORTUNE the foolish and perverse mistress or judge of human affairs; fortunam eruditi vocant stolidam ac protervam rerum humanarum arbitram.

FORTUNE has overthrown most noble cities; fortuna urbes amplissimas evertit. Vi fortunæ aliquando perculsæ et prostratæ jacebunt, fortunæ viribus perculsæ concident aliquando florentissimæ urbes; præclaras urbes obscurabit aliquando, atque extinguet, tollet; perdet, male perdet, prorsus affliget, plane opprimet, penitus evertet, omnino debebit fortunæ vis; erit aliquando, cum urbes amplissimæ jaceant, perculsæ vi fortunæ.

The inconstancy of FORTUNE observed; fortunæ inconstantia animadversa. Quo diligentius, studiosius, accuratius cogito, attendo, animadverto, meditor, mente animoque considero, in animo volvo, mecum ipse perpendo, examino, pondero varietatem, instabilitatem, levitatem, inconstantiam fortunæ, eventa varia, varios rerum eventus, qui a fortuna pendent; quo magis ad fortunæ varietatem specto, animum intendo, intueor, meas cogitationes converto, eo longius a cupiditate divitiarum animum abduco, removeo, aufero.

Trust not, hazard not, commit nothing to FORTUNE; fortunæ non fidendum. Non improbo, non displicet mihi tuum consilium, non reprehendo quod ad mercaturam exercendam, negotia gerenda, administranda, ad negotiandum te contuleris, ad mercaturæ studium te adjunxeris; te tamen hortor, tibi suadeo, auctor tibi sum ne fortunæ fidem habeas, confidas, credas; ne te fortunæ committas, credas, tribuas; ne fortunæ potestati te committas; ne multum in fortuna ponas, ne fidem, stabilem, firmam, constantem, certam fortunam ducas; ut a fortuna caveas, caute agas cum fortuna; minimum tibi de fortuna pollicearis, spem in fortuna nullam reponas, constituas; ut fortunæ instabilitatem, levitatem, inconstantiam, varietatem, mutationem, varios casus, vicissitudinem extimescas.

The goods of FORTUNE are uncertain, or frail and mutable; fortunæ bona incerta. Quæ nobis fortuna largitur, detrahi, eripi, adimi, auferri, mutari facile possunt; admodum incerta, instabilis, dubia, infirma divitiarum possessio est, usum divitiarum nemo sibi certum ac perpetuum potest promittere; quis præstare possit diuturnam fore divitiarum possessionem?

FORTUNE easily vanquished the coward, or the least blast of adversity makes the heartless man to fly; virtue is the best defence against adversity; virtute vacuam fortuna facile profligat; cui comes virtus non est, is animo facile cadit a fortuna percussus; ictus fortunæ ferre non potest, qui tectus virtute non est, qui virtute munitus non est, qui se virtutis armis non tuetur; sine virtute infirmi sumus, male muniti, aperti adversus fortunæ vim, facile vincimur a fortuna, virtutis præsidio destituti, absente virtute, nisi adsunt virtutis opes.

No man is free from all bad FORTUNES; nemo ab omnibus incommodis liber. Quis est, qui nihil in vita mali videat, nihil sustineat incommodi, nullam ferat calamitatem? Cujus est perpetua felicitas, nullis interrupta malis? nemo fortuna utitur perpetuo bona; nemini res ad voluntatem semper fluunt; nemo est cui prospere omnia succedant, nihil contra voluntatem eveniat, nullum accidat infortunium, secunda sint omnia, optata omnia contingant; nemini sua conditio satisfacit; nemo est qui acquiescat fortunæ suæ.

All your ill FORTUNE, wisdom, and valiant courage will remedy or amend, and free you from it; damnum a fortuna compensat virtus. Quod a fortuna damnum accepisti, tulisti, resarciet, compensabit virtus; medebitur iis malis virtus; quo te fortuna conjecit, quibus te afflixit fortuna, quibus te calamitatibus implicavit fortuna, iis te virtus expediet; ut acerbam fortunam sensisti, ita dulcem ac suavem virtutem experieris; quantum detrimenti, incommodi, calamitatis, malorum a fortuna tulisti, tantos a virtute, atque adeo majores fructus capies, percipies, feres, colliges.

To try, or adventure on, FORTUNE; stare fortunæ; fortunæ se suaque permittere; rei exitum experiri; tentare fortunam; fortunam periclitari, apud Cæs. Subjicere rem fortunæ; auræ blandienti vela pandere; negotii eventum fortunæ committere arbitrio, belli fortunæque virtutem, eventum experiri; vela ventis permittere, apud Quint. Fluctibus dare ratem, apud Sen. Fortunæ res humanas, pro arbitrio, flectenti, et versanti, se totum committere.

To waver in the balance of FORTUNE; ferri per colla fortunæ, apud Virg. pro, pati jus fortunæ, prout alea casusque temerarius tulit.

To hazard, or put to the venture of FORTUNE; jacere, jactare, aleam.

Let us bear quietly whatever FORTUNE shall bring; quod sors feret æquo feramus animo; Sen.

All Fortune may be vanquished by patient enduring; superanda omnis fortuna ferendo est; Virg.

*Many mis-*Fortunes *often flow from one; mis-*fortunes usually come like a cluster of grapes, one hanging on another; uno ex malo plura sæpe consequuntur; mala malis succedunt agminatim ingruentia; cui advenit malum unum, non advenit solum: hinc etiam poetis, Catenati labores dicti.

Fortune vexes me most grievously; fortuna vehementer, acriter, acerbe, graviter me oppugnat, vexat, exagitat, urget, premit, gravat.

Fortune does much in other things, but especially in wars, it often makes great changes of affairs; fortuna quæ plurimum potest, cum in aliis rebus, tum præcipue in bellis, magnas rerum commutationes efficit.

I will submit to whatsoever lot or Fortune shall befall me; quæcunque sors mihi proponatur, quæcunque fortuna erit oblata, quemcunque casum fortuna dederit, subibo; Cic.

I weep for joy and GLADNESS; mihi præ gaudio exiliunt lachrymæ.

It made me GLAD, or full of joy; incredibili quadam lætitia me cumulavit, perfudit.

I am beyond measure GLAD; ripas omnes exsuperat, quam capio, voluptas.

They brought great joy and GLADNESS; cumulum gaudii attulerunt.

But these golden images, or statues, by their ruin and breaking, brought public joy and GLADNESS; istæ vero aureæ statuæ, strage sua et ruina, publico gaudio litaverunt.

They made their host, or guest, to weep for GLADNESS and gratitude; compulerunt hospitem ad gratantium lachrymarum lætitiam.

I am seriously GLAD at that; atque id serio triumpho.

Having their countenance GLAD and cheerful; faciem gaudio delibuti.

Those that are GLAD are in quietness and ease; læti pacem agitant.

To GLITTER, or shine; coruscare, fulgere.

He GLITTERS in purple; purpura fulget.

He makes the ways GLITTER with his sword; strictoque vias præfulserat ense; Virg.

Eyes shining with a GLITTERING brightness; tremulo fulgore micantes oculi.

GLORY; gloria, decus, honor, laus, præconium.

To GLORY, or brag; gloriari, superbire, exultare.

To desire, and seek for GLORY; ad gloriam inflammari, incendi; toto impetu, inflammato studio ferri. Gloriæ studio teneri, amore flagrare, ardere. Gloriæ inhiare, servire. Omnia ad gloriam splendoremque revocare, referre. Ante omnes res gloriam spectare, laborum omnium atque studiorum sibi præmium atque mercedem proponere; rebus omnibus præponere, præferre. Laude, nominis celebritate, splendore, fama celebri et claritate nihil habere antiquius, nihil præstantius. Una tibi gloria in animo, in oculis erat, in amoribus, in deliciis. Gloriæ paulo avidior, avidissimus, cupidissimus, appetentissimus. Gloria est illustris meritorum fama. Trahimur omnes laudis studio, et optimus quisque maxime gloria ducitur.—Quem sublimis agebat Gloria, nec duri magno sub teste labores.

GLORY follows virtue; ex virtute gloria. Gloria comitatur virtutem, virtutis comes est, virtutem sequitur, cum virtute conjuncta, ad virtutem adjuncta; nascitur ex virtute, oritur ex virtute, manat, proficiscitur a virtute; virtus gloriam parit, largitur, affert, ad gloriam ducit.

Desirous of GLORY from a child; inflammatus ad gloriam a puero.

Vain-GLORIOUS; gloriæ cupidus, arrogans, avidus laudis, ambitiosus.

Too great a desire of GLORY; nimius, acer, amor gloriæ.

True and solid GLORY; vera, gravis, et solida gloria.

Excellent and immortal GLORY; gloria eximia et immortalis.

GLORY is a reality, or a real and solid thing, not a shadow; gloria quædam res est solida et expressa, non adumbrata; Cic.

GLORY is the great and illustrious fame of merits; gloria est illustris, et permagna fama meritorum.

A mind very high, and covetous of GLORY; altissimus animus, et gloriæ cupidus.

Let us serve our posterity and our own GLORY; posteritati et gloriæ serviamus.

This city had never any more GLORIOUS, more honorable, or more civilised citizens; non tulit ullos hæc civitas aut gloria clariores, aut auctoritate graviores, aut humanitate politiores; Cic.

We are all desirous of praise, and the best of men are most desirous of lasting GLORY; trahimur omnes laudis studio, et optimus quisque maxime gloria ducitur; optimi cujusque animus maxime ad immortalem gloriam nititur; Cic.

To leave the great GLORY of his name to posterity; maximam nominis sui gloriam posteris relinquere.

He was great in name and GLORY; erat magno nomine et gloria.

The great praise of Cneius and Quintus Pompeius was so far, and largely spread abroad, that their GLORY was limited to no less than the utmost borders of the whole empire;

Cneii et Quinti Pompeii fuit late adeo longeque diffusa laus, ut eorum gloria domicilio communis imperii terminetur; Cic.

The GLORY of his name is, and will ever be spread abroad in all countries; omnibus in terris etiam versatur, et semper habitabit nominis sui gloria.

The name of an orator was more GLORIOUS long ago, amongst the ancients; oratoris nomen, apud antiquos, majori gloria floruit.

*To be excessively vain-*GLORIOUS; amorem gloriæ nimis acrem habere; gloriæ inhiare; inanem gloriam sectari, venari, aucupari; popularem auram, ventum, captare; falsos honores, falsæ gloriæ umbras, consectari; plausum quærere, captare; laudem immodice appetere; nominis claritatem ardenter sitire, vehementer, mirifice, ambire, venari; vitæ studium ad applausum populi referre: se suspicere, aliosque despicere; imperatorum rumusculos aucupari; ad inanem gloriam toto impetu ferri; se aliqua re sumptuosius insolentiusque jactare; Cic. de Or. Gloriæ vanæ stimulis acriter incitari.

*But he was also vain-*GLORIOUS; sed hunc quoque absorbuit æstus quidam gloriæ inanis.

It is a very light and trifling thing to hunt after vain applause, and to follow all the shadows of GLORY falsely so called; levitatis est summæ inanem aucupari rumorem, ac omnes umbras falsæ gloriæ consectari.

*Believe me, Cæsar is hurried away with vain-*GLORY, and is ardently desirous of a triumph; Cæsar fertur, mihi crede, inani gloria, flagrat et ardet cupiditate triumphi.

*Strange! what a foolish and vain-*GLORIOUS man he is, loving himself without any rival! O dii! quam ineptus est homo, quam seipsum amans est, sine rivali! *the man soars on high through the desire of vain-*GLORY; homo est volitans, inanis gloriæ cupiditate.

Mithridates was inflamed with an unusual desire of GLORY; Mithridates insolita inflammatus erat gloriæ cupidine.

I am very desirous that our name should be made more GLORIOUS by your writings; ardeo cupiditate incredibili, nomen ut nostrum scriptis magis celebretur tuis; Cic.

There is no reason that we should make ourselves GLORIOUS, or rather inglorious, by false praise; non est quod falsa laude nos ornemus, vel potius oneremus; Cic.

A GLUTTON; helluo, ganeo, epulo, gulo. Homo gulosus, intemperans: immensæ, voracis gulæ, summa intemperantia, ingluvie, semper distentus et madens. Abdomen insaturabile. Qui in conquirendis epularum deliciis omnem operam ponit, toto animo studioque summo incumbit: abdomini, gulæ, ventri, crapulæ, genio indulget, inservit, vacat, obsequitur, operam dat, epulis dies noctesque ducit; ventrem, ingluviem, abdomen, se, aqualiculum nimia crapula farcit, nimio potu, ciboque distendit, explet, ingurgitat. Baccho Cererique solis, unus omnium diis sacra facit; omnia quæ ad beatam vitam pertinent, venter metitur. Philoxeno, Apicio gulosior. Homo palati morosi, fastidiosi, delicati, quod cupedias tantum et lautitias sapit. Cupediarum architectus. Helluari. Comessari. Pernicies et tempestas, barathrumque macelli. Metam. 8. 11.—Cui in solo vivendi cura palato est. Mullorum leporumque et suminis exitus hic est, Sulphureusque color, carnificesque pedes, &c. Mart. 12. 48. et Hor. Serm. 2. 2. Cibi pernicies; gulæ parens, gulosus venter, vorax; profundæ, intempestivæ, sordidæ, gulæ homo: Apicius; a Romano quodam nobili, admodumque guloso; comedo, onis, m. cutem aleus, Prov. Asini mandibula; ob voracitatem, alternatim utraque mandibula commandens; qui corpus infarcit, et distendit ventrem. Item, abdomen, pro vitio ventris ac gutturis, quam gulositatem vulgo vocant, frequenter ponit Cic.

Sickness of surfeiting and GLUTTONY; valetudo adversa ex gula. Non facile convalescunt, quibus neque quantum comedant, neque quid comedant curæ est, qui quod comedant, neque quantum, neque quale sit, animadvertunt; quibus omnem in cibis modum, omne judicium, omnem prorsus rationem, gula eripuit; quibus neque modus edendi, neque ulla deligendi cibi ratio est; qui et plus appetunt in mensa, quam satis est, et ex eo genere quod obsit.

He is a mere GLUTTON, born for the gratification of his belly, not for praise and glory; ille gurges atque helluo, natus abdomini suo, non laudi atque gloriæ; homo deditus abdomini, ventri se totum tradens.

He GLUTTONOUSLY gapes after meats curiously seasoned; he is a curious glutton; he spends much money in feasting; cibis egregia arte conditis inhiat; in epulis multum pecuniæ infundit.

Men of worth and virtue believe themselves to be born for the good of their country, of their fellow citizens, and for praise and glory, but not for sleep or ease, nor for feasting and delicious GLUTTONY; virtute præditi omnes, se patriæ, suis civibus, et laudi, atque gloriæ, non autem somno et conviviis, et delectationi natos arbitrantur.

To live soberly, without riot or GLUTTONY; tenuiter vivere; parce ac duriter vitam agere, se habere; genium fraudare.

To give himself wholly to GLUTTONY; palato sapere; ingeniosam, vallatam, habere gulam; pollucibiliter victitare, obsonare, i. e. opipare; Plaut.

GOD; Deus. A GODDESS; dea, diva.

GOD grant; faxit Deus; utinam.

GOD forbid; prohibeat Deus; absit; dii mala prohibeant. O dii immortales avertite et detestamini hoc omen. Hoc malum; quod omen, detestabile omen avertat, averruncet Deus, avertat Jupiter, dii omnes avertant. Dii meliora velint. Dii melius. Io prohibe. Non sinat hoc numen.—Nullum sit in omine pondus.—Quod dii prius omen in ipsos Convertant. Fors dicta refutet.

GOD save you; salve, salvus sis.

GOD be with you; vale.

GOD-a-mercy; Deus tibi mercedem referat.

GOD speed you; bene vertat Deus.

By GOD'S leave, help; Deo volente, juvante.

I thank GOD; Deo gratia.

To worship GOD religiously; summa religione sacra, rem divinam facere. Summa cum reverentia, vitæ sanctitate integritateque Deum, divinum numen colere, adorare; religiose, pure, sancte, caste, pie, pura, sincera, integra mente, animi affectione, debito et sincero cultu, auguste et sancte venerari. Deo honorem, cultum, gloriam, venerationem, reverentiam debitam, puram, justam, castam persolvere, præstare, dare, deferre, tribuere, reddere. Dei numen, numinis majestatem horrere, suspicere.

Sacra religiose curare. Puram religionem sanctissime colere. Numa, Davide religiosior. Res omnes humanæ religione Dei continentur. Insignis pietate vir.—Non illa reverentior ulla Deorum. Casto pectore sacrum numen, sacra pietate Deum colere.—Trepidusque assurgit honori numinis.

If GOD will; si diis placet; Cic.

If GOD send life; si vita suppetet; modo vita supersit; Cic. Virg.

I entreat you for GOD's sake; for the love of God; per ego te deos oro; Ter.

GOD save you; salve; Ter. salvus sis; Id.

I give GOD thanks for it; diis magnas merito gratias habeo, atque ago; Ter.

As GOD would have it; forte fortuna; Ter.

GOD bless you; God's blessing on you; Deus tibi benefaxit; Ter.

Thanks be to GOD; diis gratia; Ter.

As GOD would; quemadmodum, quomodo dii volunt; Petron.

To make a GOD of himself; cœlestes honores usurpare; Curt.

To cleave to GOD in adversity; in rebus asperis, adversis, fortunæ fulmine, stimulis doloris perculsus; reflante, adversante fortuna, opem, auxilium a Deo implorare, petere, efflagitare; ad Dei misericordiam, clementiam confugere; spem, præsidium in Dei bonitate collocare, ponere. Vulnere a fortuna accepto, medicinam a Deo quærere, flagitare. In rerum omnium desperatione, Dei clementia, facilitate niti. In repentinis, adversis casibus, si quid præter voluntatem, contra opinionem accidit, cœlum intueri, suspicere; in cœlum oculos tollere, intendere.

GOD is most just and mighty; Deus optimus. Bonitas in Deo, justitia, clementia, potestas tanta est, quanta potest esse maxima; singulari Deus bonitate est, incredibili justitia, immensa clementia, infinita potestate; is, qui cuncta creavit, condidit, architectatus est, ex nihilo excitavit, formavit, finxit; is, qui omnia regit, gubernat, moderatur, temperat; is qui rebus omnibus præest, dominatur, imperat; a quo uno, cujus unius a voluntate, nutu, imperio pendent omnia, cujus potestas omnia complectitur; cujus in potestate omnia sunt, quem verentur omnia, cui parent omnia; omnium rerum auctor, creator, conditor, opifex, artifex, effector.

GOD is present with the afflicted, or ready to help all such as are in adversity and need; Deus adest laborantibus. Afflictos facile divina pietas excitat, egentibus opem fert, miseros sublevat, desperatione debilitatos confirmat, fulcit, sustinet, laborantibus subsidio est.

GOD is at hand in adversity; Deus præsto est in adversis. Perfugium habemus ad Deum in nostris calamitatibus, tranquillitas est in nostris tempestatibus, naufragium timentibus portus est; afflictos divina pietas excitat; amplissima est divina liberalitas; patet omnibus, latissime patet, amplissime patet, ubique locorum est, nusquam non est divina benignitas; cui non benigne facit Deus? Ecquis est, in quem Dei benignitas non extet? qui divinam benignitatem non senserit, expertus sit, reipsa cognoverit, perspicue viderit, clarissime perspexerit; nemo divinam opem frustra imploravit; præsto est, adest, opem fert, opitulatur, subvenit Deus invocantibus eum, implorantibus eum, confugientibus ad eum.

To forsake GOD in prosperity; fortuna favente Deo et religioni bellum indicere. Divitiis, copiis, opibus auctus, locupletatus, ornatus, Dei beneficium non æstimare, parvi pendere. Quo majores divitiæ crescunt, eo minor divini numinis reverentia, eo minor in munificum Deum gratitudo est. Quo majoribus præmiis invitatur, eo discedit longius, alienatur magis a Deo; adversatur Deo magis. In rebus prosperis, secundis, ad voluntatem fluentibus omnem Dei religionem, curam, reverentiam negligere, abjicere, deponere, meritam Deo immortali gloriam, gratiam, justis honoribus, et memori mente non persolvere.

GOD willing, or if it please God; Deo duce, auspice, favente, juvante, bene juvante, annuente; cœptis annuente, propitio, aspirante, volente, secundante, approbante. Si Deus volet, voluerit. Si Deo placeat, placuerit. Si annuat cœptis Deus. Dextro, secundo numine. Divina aspirante gratia. Una cum Deo.

GOD speed you well; Deus acta fortunet. Quod actum est, dii approbent, fortunent, secundent, bene velint succedere, felicem ad exitum perducant; dii faxint, ut id quod actum est, felix, faustumque sit, optime succedat, prosperum eventum sortiatur; dii faveant, probent, ratum esse velint, actum feliciter quod actum est; utinam ex hac re contingant ea quæ cupis, optata omnia secunda fluant, summa felicitas emanet.

Godly, or pious; pius. Qui pius est, religiosus, pius in Deum, qui honorem Deo præstat, Deum animo spectat, Deo servit, qui pietatem et religionem colit, qui suum animum, suas cogitationes, sua consilia ad Deum refert, qui pie religioseque vivit, qui cum pietate vitam ducit, qui omnibus in rebus ducem Deum sequitur, duce Deo utitur, ad Deum spectat, cujus est vita cum pietate conjuncta, qui nihil non pie, nihil non cogitat cum religione conjunctum; ei optata omnia contingunt, feliciter omnia succedunt, nihil non bene succedit.

God prosper your work, or proceedings; bene vertat. Bene vertat magnus quod moliris Deus. Quod ut felix faustumque sit quod moliris, ut prospere succedat quod auspicatus es, omnipotens faxit, faciat Deus. Deus bene adjuvet; prosperos reddat conatus tuos. Bene juvante Deo feliciter et prospere cedat quod aggressus es, quod præ manibus habes. Perficiat quod facis Deus. Immortalem Deum oro, felix fortunatumque tibi ut hoc esset opus, ut ratum esse velit. Adsit, annuat, aspiret cœptis audacibus numen.

So it pleased God; ita Deo, sic optimo maximoque numini visum est, placuit. Hoc voluit Deus.—Non hoc mortalibus actum Credite consiliis; sic Jovis imperia voluerunt.—Quicquid superi voluere peractum est.

UNGODLY, irreligious, or profane; hostis sacrorum et religionis; Deo bellum indicere; nullum pietati locum relinquere; vitam perditam, profligatam transigere; omnes flagitiorum labes, et vitæ turpitudines sequi; divini numinis majestatem minuere, offendere; omnem religionem, sanctitatem et pietatem violare, tollere, abolere, evertere; contra Deum contumeliose superbire; de cultu Dei detrahere; ab omni sanctitatis studio abhorrere; flagitiis coopertus; scelere inquinatus; omni turpitudine notatus; omni turpitudinis genere implicari, deformari; in omni pravitate versari.

GOD bless your studies; Deus optimus maximus studiis aspiret tuis.

The majesty of GOD is incomprehensible; ad Dei majestatem, nihil est hominum aut angelorum sublimitas.

The GOD of heaven and earth turn their hearts, and put them into a better mind; clementissimus omnium formator, et reformator rerum, meliorem illis mentem largiatur.

The great GOD sees all things; qui aperta simul, et operta videt; occulta extenebrat, redditque latentia luci.

That I may wholly depend on GOD, who is almighty; ut totus ab illo pendeam, qui potest omnia.

How can they perish, whom GOD preserves? certum, eum non posse perire, qui se totum Deo tradiderit.

GOD grant him long to live; Deus, quæso, ut sit superstes.

GOD forbid; istud ominis avertat Deus.

GOD shield; God defend; prohibeant superi; absit; procul, O procul omnia nobis; talia dii pellant.

GOD grant; velint superi.

GOD would have put into their hearts, if—; afflasset et eorum animis Deus, si—.

The GOD of heaven frowns on us; cœli siderumque inclementia magna est.

Not in GOD'S name; iratis diis genioque sinistro.

Some UNGODLY notion surely came into his head; numen aliquod non bonum illius pectus agitavit; pessimus mihi hic illuxit dies.

So it must be by GOD'S providence; ita natura comparatum est.

Thus GOD will have it; ita voluit Deus.

As it pleases GOD; ut superis visum est.

GOD is my witness; numen testor sanctissimum.

GOD knows; Deum testor immortalem.

GOD willing; si visum ita fuerit superis.

With GOD'S leave; si fas mihi detur ab alto.

Thus our ambition is Gratified; ita quæ volumus consequimur.

Be Grateful to me in this; præstes mihi hoc beneficium.

To be Grateful; memoriam beneficii colere benevolentia sempiterna.

Always Grateful, or thankful; perpetuo gratus. Dum vivam, quoad vivam, quatenus vitam producam, donec vivere licebit, dabo operam diligenter, id agam omni studio, curabo, enitar, contendam, in illud studium, illam curam, unam illam rem incumbam, id mihi propositum erit in omni vita, eo spectabit animus meus, eo curæ, cogitationesque meæ referentur, intendentur, eo mea consilia dirigentur, ut me tibi memorem, gratumque probem, parem ut gratiam, par pari ut referam, ut in me gratum animum desiderare non possis, ut officia tua paribus a me compensentur officiis; in omni meæ vitæ cursu nihil mihi prius erit, nihil antiquius, res mihi non tam erit ulla proposita, nulla de re laborabo magis, nulli rei studebo magis, aut serviam diligentius, quam ut te de me optime meritum esse læteris.

The Gratefulness of so great a good office shall not be forgotten; gratia tanti beneficii non abolescet.

A faithful memory of a Grateful mind; grati animi fidelis memoria.

The greatest evidence of a most Grateful mind; gratissimi animi pignus amplissimum, testimonium non mediocre.

I will always be Grateful to you; gratum me tibi, memoremque semper præstabo.

You shall have him always very Grateful to you; hunc addictum, deditum, adstrictum tibi semper habebis.

It is an evidence of a Grateful and ingenuous mind, to desire to be mostly obliged to him, by whom you are much obliged already; animi grati et ingenui est, cui multum debeas, ei plurimum velle debere.

To be mindful to pay Grateful acknowledgments to any one; memorem alicui gratiam memori mente persolvere.

That he might show himself mindful and Grateful by any means; ut se memorem gratumque præberet, præstaret; ut ullum grati animi signum ostenderet.

I will endeavor, and as I hope effect and bring to pass, that you shall be glad that I am so Grateful to you; enitar, et, ut spero, consequar, ut te de me optime esse meritum læteris.

To be Grateful by all ways and means for one's great liberality; alicujus inexhaustam liberalitatem recognoscere; nullum grati animi testimonium prætermittere.

This is very Grateful to me; hoc, apud me, non exigui beneficii locum habet.

To remember for ever very Gratefully any thing done, or any one's name; aliquod factum, alicujus nomen grata memoria prosequi; memoriam nominis, aut beneficii alicujus, sempiterna benevolentia colere.

Not to be Grateful for, and mindful of, obligations and good offices done; beneficii oblitus, parum memor; beneficiorum, meritorum oblivisci; beneficii se immemorem præbere, præstare; ingratitudinis notam subire; ingrati animi culpam sustinere; omnem memoriam beneficii ex animo ejicere, deponere; in ingratitudinis reprehensionem, suspicionem incurrere, incidere; de referenda gratia parum laborare; ingratitudinis nota; macula aspergi, dedecorari.

Lest any one should brand me with the baseness of not being Grateful; ne quis mihi turpissimam ingratitudinis notam inurat.

To GRATULATE one's victory; gratulari alicui victoriam, de victoria.

I acknowledge your civility in that you Gratulate, or congratulate, me concerning my daughter; quod mihi de filia gratularis, agnosco humanitatem; Cic.

They Gratulated, or congratulated, him with the loud shouting or acclamation of conquerors; ei voce maxima victorum gratulantur; Cic.

I will GRATIFY, or please, you and your friends; tibi amicisque tuis gratificabor. Cupio, volo non solum tua, verum etiam tuorum amicorum causa, aliquid agere, quod tibi, amicisque tuis gratum sit, gratum ac jucundum accidat, placeat, satisfaciat, inire gratiam et apud te, et apud amicos tuos ex aliqua re velim; opto gratificari, rem gratam facere, aliquid efficere, aliquid præstare tua, tuorumque, causa, ex quo tu et amici tui voluptatem, jucunditatem, lætitiam capiant, sumant, hauriant, colligant. Tibi tuisque operam dabo. Cupio non solum tua, verum etiam eorum, qui a te diliguntur, causa, rem gratam facere, gratificari, servire non solum tibi, verum etiam amicis tuis, servire voluntati, et commodo non solum tuo, verum etiam amicorum tuorum inire gratiam officiis meis, non a te modo, verum etiam ab amicis tuis; tuam, amicorumque tuorum, officiis meis gratiam quæro; aliquid efficere, navare, quod tibi, amicisque tuis gratum sit, placeat, satisfaciat, voluptatem, jucunditatem, lætitiam afferat, valde velim.

You GRATIFY, or please, others, not esteeming yourself, or not regarding your own profit; teipso neglecto gratificaris aliis. Alienam voluntatem ut sequaris, ut alienæ voluntati morem geras, ut aliis satisfacias, aliorum causa, teipsum destituis, deseris, derelinquis; de aliis plurimum, de teipso, tuisque rebus minime laboras; aliena tibi curæ sunt, tua negligis, aliorum rationes pluris apud te quam tuæ sunt, propensior ad alios, quam ad teipsum tua voluntas est; quid aliis placeat, quid aliorum e re sit, attendis, ratio rerum tuarum quid postulet, minime cogitas; præ aliis teipsum negligis; ut sequaris alios, discedis a teipso, deficis, desciscis.

To show one's GRATITUDE for favors; se memorem beneficii præstare.

A GRAVE; sepulchrum, n. tumulus, m. bustum, n. tumba, f.

To lie in his GRAVE; tumulare, sepelire; humo condere.

They wish me in my GRAVE; meam mortem exoptant; exspectant; Ter.

More GRAVE than wise; tertius e cœlo cecidit Cato; sapientum octavus.

That I may at least rest quietly after I am dead in the GRAVE; sedibus ut saltem placidis in morte quiescam. Ubi, apud Virg. Sedes, pro sepulchro.

GREAT; magnus, grandis, vastus, amplus, ingens.

Though they be never so GREAT; etiamsi maxima sint; Cic.

As GREAT as my poverty is, yet—; quanta hæc mea paupertas est, tamen —; Ter.

As GREAT as it is; or, how great soever it be; quantumcunque est—; Cic.

Be the price never so GREAT, it is well bought; quanti quanti bene emitur; Cic.

What GREAT matter were it, to—; quantum erat, ut—; Ovid.

It is a GREAT matter to have—; magnum est—; Cic.

It is no GREAT matter; non magni interest; Cic.

I make no GREAT matter for these things; de his non ita valde laboro; Cic.

A GREAT deal more; haud paulo plus; Cic.

It is worth a GREAT deal more now than it was then; multo pluris est nunc, quam tunc fuit; Cic.

They are GREAT huntsmen; multum sunt in venationibus; Cæs.

What a GREAT one he is! ut magnus est! Plaut.

A GREAT while ago; jam dudum; Ter.

I have been here a GREAT while; ego jam dudum hic adsum; Ter.

We have been speaking a GREAT while; jam diu loquimur; Cic.

He was a GREAT while together at a stand; diu secum multumque dubitavit; Cic.

I see no GREAT reason for it; nullam video gravem subesse caussam; Cic.

She is GREAT with child; gravida est; Ter.

It is a GREAT way from the sea; longe a mari est; Ter.

A very GREAT height; gigantæo territat astra jugo.

To GREET, or salute; salutare, salutem dicere; salutem imprecari, vel nunciare; salutem plurimam alicui impertire.

I GREET you well; jubeo salvere te.

GREET, or salute, him much in my name; multam salutem meis illi verbis annunciato.

GREET whom you meet; venienti des salutem; Plaut.

To send GREETING; per literas aut nuncium salutare.

The frequent GREETINGS of my friends hinder the course or progress of my studies; impediunt studia salutationes amicorum. Crebræ amicorum salutationes ita me interpellant, ut prorsus me a studiis abducant, avocent, abstrahant, abripiant, avellant, amoveant; omnem prorsus colendi studia facultatem, potestatem, frequentes amicorum salutationes eripiunt; nullam mihi studiorum copiam, nullam ad colenda studia, ad tractandas literas vacuam horam, nullum liberum tempus relinquunt; fit salutationibus amicorum adeuntium ad me, ventitantium ad me amicorum officio, ut spatii nihil habeam ad animum literis excolendum, ad ingenium studiis exercendum; ita sum occupatus, occupationis habeo tantum in excipiendis iis, qui ad me officii causa adeunt, ut otii nihil supersit ad studia literarum tractanda; ut nullam diei partem arbitratu meo in studiis ponere, ad studia conferre liceat.

To GRIEVE (act.); contristare, vexare, cruciare, excruciare, molestare, affligere, exacerbare, afflictare, angere, gravare. To grieve, (neut.); mærere, dolere, gravari, excruciari, ægre, vel moleste ferre.

To take a thing GRIEVOUSLY; moleste ferre.

To GRIEVE, or make one sorrowful; alicui mœstitiam, dolorem magnum, acerbum incutere, inurere, ferre, commovere, facere, ægre facere, scrupulum et solicitudinem ingerere, injicere; ægritudines anxias et acerbas importare. Aliquem anxium reddere; agere ac solicitum habere; dolore, ægritudine, mœrore, molestia afficere, percellere, vexare, torquere, affligere, perturbare, cruciare, fodicare, infestare, urere, excruciare, pungere, vulnerare, necare, frangere, conficere, discruciare. Animum alicujus, mentem sensusque mordere; serenitati mentis nubem inducere. Gravior nuncius vulnerat aures.

To GRIEVE, or to be sorry; summa solicitudine; animi dolore, doloris acerbitate, ægritudine, anxietate, angore, mœrore; gravi cura, gravissimis animi doloribus affligi, vexari, percelli, perturbari, affici, premi, debilitari, cruciari, excruciari, discruciari, torqueri. E dolore animi laborare. Mœrere, dolere. Angi animo. Dolenter, acerbe, ægre, graviter, permoleste ferre. Summos dolores et molestias pati, perpeti, sustinere, tolerare, haurire, devorare, perferre, subire, suscipere. Maximum dolorem, mœrorem, ex re aliqua recipere, accipere. In dolore, sordibus, luctu, mœrore esse, jacere. In magnam ægritudinem cadere. Discrucior animi. Saucius animi.—Premit altum corde dolorem.—Clausum pectore vulnus habet.—Tristi turbatus vulnere mentis.—Intenti mentem perculsa dolore. Infelix animi morbus dolor, hyems mentis. Hyemat animus.

To pine away with Grief; dolore tabescere; Ter.

None could imagine the Grief I took; opinione omnium majorem animo cepi dolorem.

To Grieve, or sorrow overmuch, to take great thought; præter modum dolere. Ægritudine acerba, dolore nimio, anxietate animi ac solicitudine gravi, luctu perpetuo, doloris magnitudine, gravitate opprimi, obrui, frangi, confici, consumi, divelli, differri, distineri, exedi, contabescere, absorberi, macerari. Dedere se totum ægritudini. Suum ægritudinis cruciatum et carnificinam alere, fovere; sustinere, ferre non posse. Præ dolore pene exanimari. Totus in luctu versari; a dolore occupari. Animus dolore contabescit; ferendo dolori non sum; vires desunt.—Inconsolabile vulnus Mente gerit. Nimium indulgere dolori. Plus nimio dolere. Gravius justo—Nec pro materia fertur doluisse. Dolor flagrantior æquo, et vulnere major.

To Grieve, or sorrow for another; alterius causa, vice dolere. Ex alienis malis, rebus afflictis, ex alterius miseriis ægritudinem capere, acerbissimum dolorem haurire. Calamitate alterius graviter affici. Ego tuo dolore, mœrore maceror, macesco, consenesco et tabesco miser. Meus oritur ex te, ex tuo dolor. Tua causa fit ego ut doleam. Doloris tui socium, tui mœroris participem habes me. Alieno mœrore angi.

She does nothing but Grieve; nil aliud quam dolet; Ovid.

You know not how I Grieve; nescis quam doleam; Ter.

To renew one's Grief; vulnus animi, cicatricem angoris veteris, malorum memoriam refricare. Afferre manus vulneribus. Doloris flammam sensim extinctam, languescentem denuo accendere. Compositum bene malum movere; sopitum suscitare. Hoc tam gravi vulnere quæ consenuisse videbantur, recrudescunt. Dolor pene intermortuus, quem dies jam pene sanaverat, recrudescit. Ulcus tangere. Unguis in ulcere. Infandum renovare; obductum verbis revocare dolorem.

To put one to great Grief and trouble; in curarum ergastulum, altissimum pelagus, detrudere, aliquem præcipitem dare.

There are great signs of Grief in his countenance; maxima, in ipsius vultu, sunt signa dolentis.

He has great Grief in his mind; clausum in pectore vulnus habet; duros animi labores fert, tolerat.

Cares divide, distract, and Grieve the mind; diversæque vocant animum in contraria curæ; nam dividere animum cura dicitur, atque hinc, animum in diversa rapere, ut nunc hoc, nunc illud, mente volvat.

Sad and Grievous things are mixed with things glad and joyful; miscentur tristia lætis.

If the woman do not accomplish the mischief that she has begun, that is sickness, old age, and extreme Grief and misery to her; male quod mulier incipit, id ni perpetret, id illi morbo est, id illi senio est, id illi miseræ miseriæ est; Plaut.

Which thing was so great a Grief to me, that—; quæ res mihi tanto fuit dolori, ut—.

That has been a great Grief and trouble to me; id mihi magnæ molestiæ fuit; Cic.

These things are Grievous to me; hæc mihi non sunt voluptati.

Excessive or too much Grief has made me senseless; dolor nimius excussit mihi sensus.

I am exceedingly Grieved at that; id mihi vehementer dolet; hoc me valde solicitat.

That is Grievous to you; id tibi ægre est.

These things are somewhat Grievous to me; non nihil mihi sunt molesta hæc.

Which things Grieve and vex my mind; quæ animo meo dolorem faciunt, et mihi stomachum movent; Cic.

This has procured to me great care and GRIEF; magnam mihi curam hoc injecit.

Nothing could have fallen out more GRIEVOUS to me; nihil mihi ad dolorem acerbius accidere potuit.

And since these things are GRIEVOUS and vexatious to all, but to us they are wretchedly miserable and insufferable; atque cum hæc omnibus sint gravia atque acerba, tunc vero nobis misera et intoleranda.

That was GRIEVOUS to his own friends, vexatious to his country, and troublesome to all good men; fuit hoc luctuosum suis, acerbum patriæ, grave bonis omnibus.

You had, indeed, GRIEVED me, but now you make me glad, and take all trouble from me; affeceras me quidem graviter, nunc autem idem recreas, et abstergis omnem molestiam.

This GRIEVES the man much; hoc male torquet virum.

Your sickness GRIEVES me much; tuus me morbus graviter commovet.

The vexatious remembrance of former evils has renewed the old trouble and GRIEF of my mind; acerba sane præteritorum recordatio malorum, veterem animi curam molestiamque renovavit.

You have renewed my GRIEF; dolorem meum refricasti; sopitum excitasti dolorem meum; Cic.

Does that most cruel torturing and vexation of innocent persons move you also with a like sense of GRIEF? an vos quoque acerbissimus innocentium cruciatus et mœror pari sensu doloris afficit?

Every one's own deceit, wickedness, villany, and boldness, GRIEVE his mind, and disturb his health; sua quemque fraus, suum facinus, suum scelus, sua audacia, de sanitate ac mente deturbat; Cic.

But the very naming of that most famous and most valiant man, has weakened my voice with weeping, and disturbed my mind with GRIEF; sed hæc facta illius viri clarissimi, ac fortissimi viri mentio, et vocem meam fletu debilitavit, et mentem dolore impedivit, &c.

To be excessively GRIEVED at any thing; vehementius angi, gravius afflictari, acerbissime dolere, mirifice solicitum esse, de re aliqua.

GRIEF of mind too long kept close, and hidden secret; nimium diu reconditus, et penitus abstrusus, animi dolor.

My mind is GRIEVED for the damage of my family; ex domestico incommodo dolor insidet animo meo.

What is the reason that GRIEF of mind should trouble you so much? quid est quod te adeo commoveat tuus dolor intestinus?

If any thing should GRIEVE you; si te dolor aliquis perculerit.

GRIEF is very troublesome; premit dolor, atque instat.

But GRIEF weakens me, and stops my speech; sed me dolor debilitat, includitque vocem.

My GRIEF tears and torments me, and suffers me not to breathe; meus me mœror lacerat, et conficit, et me spirare non sinit.

GRIEF is a thing sad, grievous, and contrary to nature; dolor est res tristis, aspera, amara, et inimica naturæ.

Now this mischief begins to be GRIEVOUS; jam hoc malum ingravescit.

Wretched GRIEF and care consume me; miseria et cura me contabescit; Plaut.

GRIEF kills me; me dolor exanimat.

When I was wholly given over to great GRIEF of mind; cum me acerbus animi dolor totum possedisset.

This GRIEVES me day and night; hoc me dies noctesque torquet.

GRIEF is so deeply settled and fixed in my mind, that it can by no means be rooted out; insitus et infixus in animo meo dolor ita penitus est, ut evelli nulla ratione possit.

GRIEF is the torture of lovers; urit dolor amantes.

Which things although they be weighty and troublesome, yet this, O judges, is much more GRIEVOUS and vexing; quæ licet gravia sint, (judices,) illud tamen multum est acerbius.

To be overcome with GRIEFS; succumbere doloribus.

To give way to GRIEF; frænos dolori remittere.

His mind is GRIEVED; animo ejus male est.

I know how much that GRIEVED me; ego illud scio quam doluerit cordi meo.

I am daily more and more Grieved about my son; mihi quotidie angescit magis de filio ægritudo.

No man was more moved with Grief for the desolation and destruction of the commonwealth, than myself; nemini concedo, qui majorem ex pernicie, et peste reipub. molestiam traxerit.

I took incredible Grief for that miserable desolation of my country, yea so great was my grief, that—; incredibilem sane dolorem ex hac miseranda patriæ clade, ac vastitate concepi, imo tantum doloris, et molestiæ suscepi, ut—; Cic.

I cannot express by words how greatly I was Grieved in my mind when I heard; non possum exprimere verbis quantum animo vulnus acceperim, quum audivi.

I am Grieved for your grief; doleo dolorem tuum.

The great Grief which I take for your affairs is the cause that—; summus dolor quem ex rebus tuis capio ratio est cur; Cic.

He bore the death of his friend with so much Grief, that he lost all the pleasure of his own life; mortem amici adeo acerbissime ferebat, ut omnem vitæ suæ jucunditatem prorsus amiserit.

Do not pine yourself away by Grief; noli te dolore macerare.

To be tormented with secret Grief; tacito dolore uri.

Alas, I am distracted with Griefs! miserum me, doloribus differor, distrahor!

I am overwhelmed with Grief, neither do I think I shall be freed from it, unless either I shall know that he is in a better condition, or at least—; maxime obruor dolore, nec puto emergam, nisi aut illi melius esse cognovero, vel saltem—.

Who did not then sigh? who was not then vexed with Grief? quis tum non gemuit? quis tum non arsit dolore?

A life full of Griefs; vita doloribus referta.

Blinded with the greatness of Grievous troubles; perturbationum magnitudine occæcatus.

I am vexed with Grief, so that I cannot write; intercludor dolore ne scribam.

I suffer myself to be overwhelmed with tempests of Grief; obrui me sino fluctibus molestiarum.

Cæsar was greatly Grieved at that report; magna solicitudine affectus erat hoc nuncio Cæsar.

Weakened and distracted by a confluence of many troublesome Griefs and mischiefs; multarum molestiarum, et malorum concursu labefactatus, atque convulsus.

To be Grieved for the departure of friends; amicorum discessu angi.

I who before was tormented with Grief for these mischiefs of the commonwealth, am now not so much as moved by them; ego his malis reipublicæ, quibus antea rumpebar, nunc ne moveor quidem.

I am tortured with Grief for your troubles; tuis excrucior malis.

I am so tossed with the tempests of Grievous cares, that I am quite shut out and far removed from any haven or harbor; ita fluctibus curarum jactor, ut a portu prorsus excludar, et longissime dimovear.

I cannot express what great Grief now troubles me; explicare non possum quanto hoc tempore in mœrore verser.

I am so over-burdened with Grief, that I can by no means free myself from it; in dolore obruor, ut emergere nullo modo possim.

I can write no more, I am so cast down and Grieved in my mind; plura scribere non possum, ita sum animo perculso, et abjecto.

All places were full of lamentation and Grief; omnia loca plena luctus erant et doloris.

That letter caused this Grief to me; aspersit hoc mihi molestiæ hæc epistola.

To renew one's Grief by discourse; refricare oratione alicujus dolorem.

Do not think that you can easily free yourself from all that Grief; non facile exhauriri tibi istum dolorem posse universum puta.

Free me from this Grief, or at least lessen it by comfort and counsel; eripe mihi hunc dolorem, aut minue saltem consolatione et consilio.

Grief quieted; soporatus dolor.

The Grief of so great a stroke can- not be abated, or quite cured, by any length of time; tanti vulneris dolor nulla temporis diuturnitate potest aboleri.

I am afraid that you will be GRIEVED at this; vereor ne illud gravius tuleris.

Regulus believed that these things GRIEVED me; hæc me Regulus dolenter tulisse credebat.

I was GRIEVED, that, &c.; iniquo patiebar animo, quod, &c.

Reproaches have a kind of pungent GRIEF and vexation, which wise and good men can very hardly bear; habent enim quendam aculeum contumeliæ, quem pati prudentes viri et boni difficillime possunt; Cic.

This one thing GRIEVES me much; hoc unum me male habet; res hæc una me stimulat, excruciat.

To suppress GRIEF; callum obducere dolori.

To bear GRIEF with manly resolution and quietness of mind; dolorem, malum, fortiter, viriliter, constanter, sedate, moderate, atque æquo animo, et non gravate, ferre, atque sustinere.

GRIEF from any misfortune must be borne by a manly resolution; fortuna viriliter ferenda; Ovid.

The GRIEF not only of that ill or cross fortune, but also of their fortune and estate quite destroyed, they ought to bear with courage and resolution; hanc non solum adversam, sed etiam funditus eversam fortunam fortiter ferre debebant.

Endure grievous and difficult things, that you may bear things easy, and less, more quietly; fer difficilia, ut facilia levius feras.

Damages and GRIEVANCES bear modestly and quietly; damna et dolores fer modeste et leniter.

To bear the GRIEF of any mischance of fortune with reason and quietness; quemcunque casum fortuna invexerit, apte et quiete ferre.

I bear those things with a fair countenance outwardly, but I am GRIEVED inwardly in my mind; hæc ipsa fero equidem fronte, ac vultu bellis, sed angor intimis sensibus.

He or she suppresses GRIEF in the mind; premit alto corde dolorem; Virg. Suppressum tenuit dolorem alta mente.

To free the mind from GRIEF; exturbare ægritudinem ex animo.

I desired to cover the GRIEF of my mind by my countenance, and to conceal it quietly; cupiebam animi dolorem vultu tegere, et taciturnitate celare.

I will neither be subject to GRIEF, nor anger; non parebo dolori, nec iracundiæ.

I had worn out the GRIEF of these great injuries by a voluntary forgetfulness; gravissimas has injurias voluntaria oblivione contriveram; Cic.

The mischances of fortune, which you cannot bear, you may leave, or lay aside, by flying from GRIEF and vexation, for them; injurias fortunæ, quas ferre nequeas, earum dolorem fugiendo relinquas; Cic.

To be freed from all GRIEF and trouble; vacare omni dolore, et molestia.

It is the part, duty, and evidence of constancy in mind and resolution, not to be disturbed, nor too much cast down by vexatious GRIEF in adversity; constantis animi est, non perturbari rebus asperis, nec tumultuantem de gradu dejici.

I am GRIEVED at heart; at ego ringor interim.

To renew GRIEF; refricare cicatricem.

I am much GRIEVED for you; doleo vicem tuam.

That GRIEF went to my very heart; acrius animum stimulavit meum; cordolium mihi est.

They are vexed and GRIEVED at the heart; intimis anguntur sensibus.

Among all my GRIEFS this grieves me most; in maximis meis doloribus excruciat me.

That immediately GRIEVED me to the heart; illico percussit mihi animum; nihil in reliqua vita tuli ægrius.

My mind is troubled with GRIEF; animus dolore æstuat.

He takes on GRIEVOUSLY; ille deos atque astra vocat crudelia.

This is the GRIEF; hinc illæ lachrymæ.

Do not vex, or GRIEVE yourself; ne crucies te obsecro.

It GRIEVES me, or I am sorry, it was our fault; horret animus meminisse.

It frets and GRIEVES me at heart; animitus me mordet.

It has sour sauce, more GRIEF than gladness; plus fellis, quam mellis habet.

He quite pined himself away with care and GRIEF; cura se et lachrymis maceravit.

I know it GRIEVES and troubles you, as well as me; tibi æque magnæ curæ esse certo scio.

When my GRIEF was over, I looked up; tristitiæ nebulis dissipatis, hausi cœlum.

Why should I GRIEVE or mourn for what I cannot mend? cur inani me luctu discruciarem?

If any thing trouble and GRIEVE me; si quid ægritudinis obortum est animo.

GRIEF here will do no good; quid proderit me ringi, re nihilo melius habitura.

This GRIEVES and cuts me to the heart; makes my heart ache and throb; usque mihi medullaris insidebat dolor; hoc urit, hoc secat; dolor altius in visceribus insidebat meis.

O how it vexes, GRIEVES me! qui me torquet, cruentat et dilacerat.

A GRIEVOUS, cloudy look; sublime caput mœstissima nubes asperat.

That GRIEVES and vexes me at the very soul; hæc me cura remordet, et pungit acriter.

To look GRIEVOUSLY; ægris oculis introspicere; sunt quibus sudes est in oculis.

Will not you do something to day that may GRIEVE your adversary to see it? vi'n hodie facere quod adversario tuo oculi doleant?

If any thing GRIEVE, or offend the ears; si quid aures perstringit.

The man is GRIEVED; male habet virum.

I became well, or I recovered from my disease, but in the mean time I was GRIEVOUSLY sick in my mind; a morbo valui, ab animo æger fui.

Time assuages GRIEF; mitigantur vetustate dolores; doloris vis cum tempore languescit.
